SMALLER NATIONS SEEK AN INCREASE IN LEAGUE POWER

DEMAND NEW COUNCIL PLAN

URGE PLAN FOR OUR ENTRY

Lord Robert Cecil Says Reports Show League Is Very Much Alive.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Nov. 17 (by Telephone to Paris).—The great powers are having a fight on their hands to prevent the small nations from getting control of the League of Nations. The storm has been brewing ever since the Assembly was called and has been more apparent since it was opened. The small nations do not approve the large ones having too great control of the Council of the League.

The fight was brought into the open today by Delegates Pueyrredon, the Argentine Foreign Minister, and Hagerup of Norway. The former declared that the Assembly should elect all the members of the Council, instead of only four, as stated in the covenant. Hagerup wanted the Assembly to instruct the Council as to its duty and powers.

Lord Robert Cecil, delegate from South Africa, called on the Council to give publicity to its proceedings so that everyone would know how it arrived at its conclusions.

Inasmuch as the small nations have the numerical superiority it would appear that they would easily have their way. But the covenant provides that all amendments must be approved by the members of the League whose representatives compose the Council, as well as by the members whose representatives compose the Assembly. However, that doesn't mean that the small nations, which have a big majority of the votes, may not be able to convert the Council.

The small nations demanded and received three Presidencies out of six of the Assembly Commissions.

Appeal to America to Enter.

The debate today was on the report of the work of the Council. The speech of the Argentine Foreign Minister on this matter was not only an appeal from the small nations to the great powers, but also an appeal for the adhesion of the United States to the League. "One cannot sit in this first Assembly without feeling regret at the absence of the United States of America," he said, and he expressed a desire that "there should be drawn a formula which would permit this great country to collaborate in the work of which it was one of the principal founders."

He also made it quite plain that Argentina was in favor of the admission of Germany to the League. The Argentine Republic, he said, considered that it was necessary that all sovereign States recognized by the international community should be admitted to the League, unless their non-incorporation was the result of voluntary decision on their part. The power of the League, he held, rested upon the incorporation of the greatest possible number of members. The fewer States there were outside it the greater number would be submitted to its discipline and accomplish the duties which the League imposed.

"The non-admission of certain countries," he said, "can cause dangerous entanglements and may be the origin of a league of States against the League of Nations and cause danger to the peace of the world. Besides, it would make the League an alliance formed to end war and not, as in reality, a powerful organ instituted to insure peace."

M. Pueyrredon added that in saying this he did not want to wound the feelings of a friendly nation, the reference being, of course, to France.

Urges Equality of States.

It was after his reference to the admission of the United States that the Argentine Chairman made the recommendation for the election of the members of the council. The Argentine Republic, he said, believed that they ought all to be elected by the Assembly. This would be in conformity with the principle of equality of States, and in a given time all the League members would be represented on the Council. The present organization of the Council, which, according to the covenant, consisted of the representatives of the principal allied and associated powers, with representatives of four other members of the League, assured the high direction of the League, he declared, but on the other hand it did not correspond with the democratic régime which should be adhered to in such an organization.

The speaker added that no doubt the big powers would always be well represented on the Council, for that was necessary to give power and force to the Council's decisions. He made a powerful appeal for the establishment of an International Court of Justice, without which he said the League could not live.

M. Hagerup of Norway said that the Council represented a government and

Dutch Asked to Explain Ex-Crown Prince's Activity

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Nov. 17.—A Communist, von Ravenstein, has charged in Parliament that the ex-Crown Prince is now in constant communication with German royalists and has asked the Government formally to explain why this is permitted.

A passion for landscape painting seems to have descended over the house of Doorn. Several painters have recently been permitted by the ex-Kaiser to work on the grounds, and their finished efforts are now displayed in the shop windows of the nearby village.

HINTS REVOCATION OF CABLE PERMITS

State Department Cites Power in Statement Regarding the Western Union Dispute.

IT INSISTS ON REBATES

Demand Is Made That United States Receive Same Privileges as Foreign Countries.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The State Department, in a statement issued today regarding the controversy with the Western Union Telegraph Company, which yesterday notified the department that it would not accept Government messages unless they are prepaid, calls attention to the fact that it is in the power of the department to revoke the permits granted for the landing of Western Union cables in the United States.

The statement says the Government will insist on receiving the same privileges as to rates on its cable messages as are accorded to Great Britain and other foreign nations and that the difficulty with the telegraph company is largely due to the latter's delay in paying to the Government refunds due on its messages.

It was intimated that while the Government had the power to revoke cable landing permits, such power would be exercised only as a last resort, the belief being that the misunderstanding would be cleared up when the company was convinced that it had not been mistreated.

The statement follows:

"The differences between the Department of State and the Western Union Telegraph Company with regard to the payment of telegraph charges, which have been mentioned in the newspapers, grow out of the insistence by the department that it be accorded Government rates which the department considers itself entitled to and which heretofore have been collected in accordance with a long established practice. The rate which has been paid by the Government to the Western Union company and to certain other companies for messages sent by cable is one-half of the regular commercial rate.

"No difficulties with the Western Union have arisen until recently with respect to telegrams sent from the United States to a foreign country. The circumstances under which official messages originating with American representatives abroad are paid for are naturally very different from those under which payment is made for messages transmitted by the Department of State to foreign countries. Messages sent from points in such countries to which the Western Union lines do not extend are paid for at the full commercial rate for both the land and the ocean service. In 1916 the department drew the attention of the company to the fact that the department was not receiving the reduced rate on official messages sent from certain points abroad to the United States. The company thereupon notified the department that the rates on official cable messages were the same in both directions, and it suggested a method by which a refund might be obtained by the department whenever amounts paid to the company by its connecting administrations in foreign countries had been in excess of the established Government rates.

"There is naturally some delay incident to the payment of such refunds, because before they can be paid the

Constantine Insists That He Cannot Return Without a Popular Mandate.

RHALLIS FORMS A CABINET

OPPOSITION WON 287 SEATS

Venizelists Retain Only 82—Rumor That Smyrna Army May Declare a Republic.

LUCERNE, Nov. 17 (Associated Press).—Ex-King Constantine made his first pronouncement respecting his attitude in the light of the Greek elections to The Associated Press today.

"I cannot go to Athens at the head of any one political party, and therefore insist upon a plebiscite for my return or the return of one of my sons," he declared. "It is for the Greek people to decide. If the people want me I shall return to Athens, unless, of course, prevented by unjust force."

"I knew that the mass of the Greek people were with me and had confidence and hope in me, as the elections have proved," Constantine continued. "The autocratic rule of Venizelos could not continue. After the armistice Venizelos made a political mistake in making his platform a personal question between himself and me, and he lost heavily. I shall accept whatever Government is elected."

"But," observed the correspondent, "France and Great Britain are reported to be against your return."

Constantine Counts on America.

"I count greatly upon the moral support of America, which is precious to me," replied Constantine. "After nearly three years and a half of exile amid the lakes of Switzerland, I would be glad to return with my family to our southern climate."

Replying to another question, Constantine said:

"I cannot help being related to the Kaiser, but I am not a Germanophile, as my enemies declare. I was born and bred in Greece, which I love and which I hope soon again to see."

Only once during the conversation did Constantine show bitterness against Venizelos. This was when he declared that the Premier had prevented Queen Sophia from seeing her dying son, King Alexander. This refusal, said Constantine, had greatly affected the Queen's health, and she still was suffering.

Constantine looked most cheerful during his talk. After leaving the former King the correspondent met Princess Irene, and she evinced delight over the prospect of returning to Athens.

Professor Georgios Streit, former Greek Foreign Minister and close follower of Constantine, informed The Associated Press that, according to the latest figures on the Greek elections received tonight, 287 out of 369 Deputies were loyal to Constantine. He added that, excluding fifty-two Thracians, only thirty seats remained for the Venizelists.

Rhallis to Be Foreign Minister.

ATHENS, Nov. 17 (Associated Press).—Georgios Rhallis, former Premier, has succeeded in forming a Cabinet to succeed the Venizelos Government, defeated in Sunday's elections.

M. Rhallis will assume the portfolio of Foreign Affairs. He had previously informed Admiral Coundouriotis, the Regent, that he would accept the task of forming a Cabinet, but only after the resignation of the old Government had been definitely announced.

M. Rhallis has always been opposed to the policies of M. Venizelos. He also is known to be opposed to ex-King Constantine. Regarding Constantine, M. Rhallis said today:

"It is possible that Constantine may return to power. In this connection the Allies should remember that he is more

Haitian Accuses American Marine Corporal In Court of Killing Three Native Prisoners

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Nov. 17 (Associated Press).—The direct charge that Freeman Lang, formerly a corporal in the Marine Corps and a Lieutenant in the gendarmerie, killed three Haitian prisoners at Hinche in 1917, was made today by Adolph Bourgot, a native, before the Court of Inquiry which is investigating the activities of the American marines in Haiti. Bourgot, who at the time was acting as corporal in the gendarmerie, testified that he witnessed the execution of the prisoners, which occurred immediately after a night attack.

The witness testified that "during the attack, which lasted half an hour, the three Haitians were in prison. When the attack ended Lang ordered them out, shooting the first one in the back. The others were brought out singly, meeting the same fate in the same way. I was in the prison yard with other natives seeking safety."

Bourgot testified clearly and deliberately. Answering a request by the Judge Advocate, Major Jesse F. Dyer, to identify Lang, if present, the witness arose and pointed across the table at Lang. At this juncture the Court retired, subsequently announcing that it would give Lang the right to question Bourgot, obtain witnesses and employ counsel.

Lang, who formerly was a resident of Los Angeles, Cal., and now is engaged in business in Hinche, started to question Bourgot, but quickly objected to the translator, declaring that he wanted a white man. The Court granted the request, adjourning Lang's testimony until tomorrow.

Lieutenant Colonel Hooker described the January attack on Port au Prince, saying that sixty-six had been killed. He declared that the attack was made in order to bolster the bandit cause.

Colonel Louis Little, commanding the field forces, testified that the only complaint from President Dartiguenave of Haiti had been investigated and found to be incorrect. The President charged that a drunken marine doctor had assaulted a judge. Colonel Little declared that an investigation revealed that a hospital apprentice while on leave became drunk, assaulted and slightly injured a judge's clerk.

Fifteen Ide Shirt Factories To Close; Collar Shops to Run

TROY, N. Y., Nov. 17.—All the shirt factories of George P. Ide & Co., Inc., located in fifteen cities in various parts of the country, will be closed indefinitely as soon as a few remaining orders are filled, according to an announcement made today by A. Harris Ide, Vice President of the corporation.

Troy will be only slightly affected, as the factories of the company here are devoted almost exclusively to the manufacture of collars. The announcement follows a curtailment in the production in several of the big collar and shirt factories, which are operating on a four day week schedule. The unsettled condition of the raw material market and lack of orders are the reasons assigned.

ROBBED OF $400,000, EX-ACTRESS REPORTS

BIND SERVANTS; LIE IN WAIT

Robbers Said to Have Spent Ten Hours Gathering Jewels and Other Rich Loot.

Jewels valued by her at $400,000 were stolen from Mrs. Charlotte King Palmer on Monday night, after she had been attacked in her home at 59 East Ninetieth Street by three men who wore false beards, according to a report made to the police early yesterday by Mrs. Palmer's servants. She was severely beaten by the thieves, who went away leaving her and two of her servants bound and packed away in wardrobes.

The full details of this midnight robbery in the turreted brownstone mansion in the next block from the Fifth Avenue home of the late Andrew Carnegie were suppressed at first by the police and Mrs. Palmer, who decided that silence would set a trap for the criminals. But, detail by detail, the story was constructed, as private detectives picked up the case, until it read like the scenario for a movie thriller.

It closely resembled in several features the theft of the $350,000 worth of jewels last June from the home of Enrico Caruso, Metropolitan Opera tenor, at East Hampton, L. I. Apparently careful plans were made by the three robbers, who had studied the layout of the house, the habits of Mrs. Palmer and the servants, and it is one police theory that the job may have been an "inside" one.

Stole Gifts of James C. Parrish, Jr.

Among the gems reported stolen were several gifts from Mrs. Palmer's former husband, James C. Parrish, Jr., former Harvard athlete and a relative of the Vanderbilt family. Before her marriage to Parrish in 1910 Mrs. Palmer was on the stage and as Charlotte Catherine Palmer appeared with Lew Fields, De Wolf Hopper and in several productions in London and Paris. Parrish divorced her in 1916.

Mrs. Palmer left her house early on Monday evening to go to a dinner party given by Mrs. Sidney Drew, the motion picture actress, at a hotel in Monmouth, N. J., and she had arranged with her personal maid and with the butler that they should remain in the house throughout the evening. She told them that she might summon them when she returned home. One ring was to summon the maid to her room and if she rang twice the butler was to leave his basement room and report to the second floor with midnight lunch for Mrs. Palmer.

Both the maid and the butler were preparing to retire for the night about 9 o'clock, they told the police, when two rings of the front door bell resounded through the house. Thinking that this was a summons from Mrs. Palmer, the butler, a Filipino named Alfredo Sazone, and Margaret Creevan, the maid, went together to the vestibule and unlocked the heavy black door there, expecting to admit their employer.

As the heavy door swung open, according to the servants, a man standing in the shadows reached into the vestibule and threw a heavy coat over the head of the Filipino. While two of the men silenced his struggles with a blow on the head the third man put his hand over the maid's mouth, stifled her screams and quickly bound and gagged her.

None Hear Them At Work.

Working so quietly that they did not disturb Mrs. Carrie Hess or the family of Ernst Williams, neighbors of Mrs. Palmer whose front doors are not more than six feet from hers, the three disguised men, the servants said, carried them to the second floor of the three-story house and locked them in wardrobes. Both servants said they were tightly gagged and tied to chairs.

Apparently dissatisfied with the small amount of jewels in the open case on Mrs. Palmer's dresser, the three men sat down at 9:30 o'clock to await the homecoming of the owner of the house, who was wearing her pearl necklace valued, according to Mrs. Palmer, at more than $300,000, and her sable furs. The imprisoned servants from their dark wardrobes could hear the men as they conversed in low tones of their plans for the last part of the robbery, but they were unable to get any clues from the talk that would aid the police.

MILLIONS IN OVERCHARGES

One $34,500,000 Claim Settled at $23,000,000 Loss, Martin J. Gillen Testifies.

FOUND NO FRAUD EVIDENCE

Says Six Judge Garys Were Needed and Tells of Urging Harding to Name Big Business Men.

Losses incurred by the United States Shipping Board, through the utter collapse of its accounting system, through inefficiency, through overcharges, through amortization and all other causes, were estimated at $2,000,000,000 yesterday by Martin J. Gillen, former special executive assistant to John Barton Payne, former Chairman of the board. He occupied the witness stand before the Congressional Select Committee on Shipping Board Operations throughout the day.

Mr. Gillen told an amazing story of colossal finance, of official incompetency, of loose accounting—a story of hundreds of millions of dollars "floating around the country," no one seeming to know just where; of the unrecorded deposit in banks of other hundreds of millions; of millions upon millions being lost in overpayments, citing in this connection an overpayment of $23,000,000 on one claim of $34,500,000; of placing in the hands of operators the enormous sum of $170,000,000, of which not a single record was kept—not even the names of the operators; of allowing profits averaging 57½ per cent. to owners of ships; of missing vouchers, and of wholesale waste. And he said:

"There is no fraud or evidence of fraud in the office of the Treasurer of the Emergency Fleet Corporation or the Shipping Board. There has been a failure to pick a great, outstanding man.

Six Men Like Gary Needed.

"If you had had six men like Judge Gary—not one, but six—some strides might have been made in six months after the armistice in cleaning up the muddle."

These facts, the witness said, he had presented to Warren G. Harding shortly after the Senator's nomination in Chicago, and he had urged the President-elect to appoint only men of great business capacity to all the important administrative posts in the Government.

The chief fault Mr. Gillen found with the administration of the Shipping Board—a new organization twice the size of the United States Steel Corporation—was the failure to establish proper systems of accounting. It was wise, he said, to appoint Charles M. Schwab to direct ship construction; but Mr. Schwab was not an accountant, so he left the accounting to inefficient persons. This also was true, he said, of P. A. S. Franklin, as director of ship operation. So the Shipping Board had muddled along, its Treasurers "mere check signers without authority," until August, 1919, when Mr. Payne became Chairman and Alonzo Tweedale, former Controller of the District of Columbia, was made Treasurer.

At that time more than $2,500,000,000 had been disbursed through the Emergency Fleet Corporation and the Shipping Board and not a record was available to show how this enormous fund had been distributed. There was not a balance sheet in the Treasurer's office showing the amount of funds on hand. Neither was there a record of deficits.

The office of the Treasurer likewise possessed no record to show where $243,000,000 worth of securities held by the Shipping Board had been deposited, but these subsequently were found in the vaults of a trust company in Philadelphia. This company, the witness admitted, and Representative Steele agreed, was as strong as any in the country. Furthermore, he said, there was no record of $170,000,000 in the hands of operators or of a large sum of impress funds subject to the call of contractors.

On his assumption of office Mr. Tweedale immediately set about complying with the act of Congress that required an accounting of the finances of the Shipping Board, and on Oct. 1, 1919, he filed statements for July and August, 1918, and every month thereafter he filed statements covering two additional months until he had now almost caught up with the work. Up to March 1, last, he had submitted for audit $2,700,000,000, of which Controller Warick refused to pay $1,500,000,000 because these vouchers were not supported by the necessary data.

The witness said no monthly or annual balance sheet had ever been stricken off until recently. The first was furnished to Judge Payne when he appeared before the Senate Committee on Commerce last March.

Mr. Gillen testified that he had found vouchers missing in large number, and that vouchers were not always produced at the times bills were paid. Concerning the payrolls, he said these could never be checked up.

"There will still have to be passed by Controller Warick," said Mr. Gillen, "approximately $900,000,000 of vouchers under the appropriations, and $400,000,000 more representing profits that came

BRINDELL INDICTED, OUT ON $100,000 BAIL; CHARGED WITH ATTEMPTED EXTORTION; ASKED $7,500 OF CONTRACTOR HE RUINED

Builders Reject Brindell Council's Demand For $1 a Day Increase—Strike Is Unlikely

The demand of the Building Trades Council, Robert P. Brindell's organization, for a wage increase amounting to $1 a day for building workers, was rejected yesterday by the Building Trades Employers' Association, which includes thirty-one organizations. The employers met at 34 West Thirty-third Street, the headquarters of the association, in secret session.

Spokesmen for the employers' organization declined after the meeting to make known the details of the session or whether the "open shop" policy had been discussed.

The employers, it was learned, are framing their reply to the council and it was planned to send it in the form of a letter last night. Representatives of the Building Trades Council, at its headquarters in St. Mark's Place, would not comment on the action of the employers until they had received the answer to the union demands.

The council has a two-year agreement with the Building Trades Employers' Association, which does not expire until Dec. 31, 1921. The agreement provides, however, for a revision of the present wage scale and, in the event of a disagreement, for arbitration of the disputed points. The present wage scale calls for $10 a day for bricklayers, $9.50 a day for plasterers and $9 a day for members of the inside trades.

Although the Building Trades Council has forty-one unions as its members, comprising 115,000 workers, the revelations brought out by the Lockwood Joint Legislative Committee have threatened to bring about the complete disintegration of the council. Because of this situation, it was said a strike of the workers was extremely unlikely.

LABOR FEDERATION OUSTING RADICALS

WANT TO CUT IMMIGRATION

Influx of Foreign Born Is Adding to Unemployment, Now Regarded as a Growing Menace.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (Associated Press).—Direct steps to eliminate radicalism from any control in organized labor and to meet the menace of increasing unemployment are being taken by the American Federation of Labor through its Executive Council, which is in session here.

A decisive victory over radical elements within the organization has already been achieved at one point, and the conferences of the council for the last week, dealing with the economic problems, appeared tonight to foreshadow action looking to closer co-operation between labor and capital to meet the problem of unemployment.

Conservative leaders in the Federation have pounded away on the radical question for months, insisting on a more determined stand by the controlling body, but the reports of increasing unemployment have now brought that subject into a position of equal importance.

Although leaders were reticent today, it developed that there was a feeling among members of the council that it should deal emphatically with the attempts of radicals to "bore from within." They were said to feel that conservatism must characterize labor's leadership.

This sentiment was based on two premises: First, that organized labor cannot hope to exert great power in coming years if its foundations are weakened by the permeation of radical doctrines; and, second, that the next Administration will be conservative. As to the latter, it was said in some quarters that labor could gain little from the new Congress unless it established policies of a conservative nature.

In the reorganization of the committee to unionize the steel workers the conservative element showed its strength. It eliminated from the committee John J. Fitzpatrick, Chairman, and William Z. Foster, Secretary, both of whom participated in the direction of the steel strike last Winter, around which clustered outspoken radicalism. Fitzpatrick was displaced by M. F. Tighe, a recognized conservative in labor politics, and Foster gave place to J. G. Brown, also conservative.

President Gompers has declared against the unrestricted admission of radicals from Europe, and the Federation itself is having no intercourse with foreign labor groups of the radical sort. Federation leaders expect to go before Congressional committees at every opportunity to urge a check on the rush of immigrants from radical areas of Europe and Asia. Increased restrictions will be pressed.

Immigration also has a bearing on the question of unemployment, which is recognized by the labor men to be increasing at a rapid rate. The situation was characterized by several labor officials today as somewhat alarming and they felt that the council should take steps to deal with it.

Continued admission of immigrants, thousands of whom are without skill or trade, was regarded as adding fuel to the fire in the face of an already menacing condition.

The Department of Labor made public today statistics showing that during October there were decreases in the number of employes in ten industrial plants as compared with October, 1919, while only four plants had enlarged payrolls. Although the number of reporting concerns was small, officials accepted the figures as indicating the general trend.

HYLAN RESENTS WHITEWASH CHARGE

Mayor Promises "Rigid and Searching" Investigation of Graft by City.

PRAISES LAW DEPARTMENT

Says Hint of "Whitewashing" Is "Mean" and "Vicious"—Untermyer Ill, Inquiry Off a Day.

The hearing of the Lockwood Committee scheduled for yesterday at the City Hall did not take place owing to the sudden indisposition of Samuel Untermyer, its counsel, who was confined to bed with a cold. Witnesses were asked to appear at 10 o'clock this morning.

Mr. Untermyer dictated a letter of regret over the telephone to Nathaniel L. Goldstein, assistant counsel. The letter was addressed to Senator C. C. Lockwood. In it he calls the city's proposed investigation of contracts "farcical" and "unpardonable."

Mayor Hylan was quick to answer the letter he received Tuesday night from Mr. Untermyer, who intimated that the city investigation might generally be regarded as a "whitewashing operation."

"The next time you start to write a vicious letter to me try to keep in mind some idea of fair play and decency," declared the Mayor. "You know very well that I am and always have been ready to appear before your committee and testify without reservation. Your intimation that you are 'waiting on me' is as false as the rest of your inferences concerning me." He declared the city would go on with its proposed investigation of contracts.

The text of Mayor Hylan's letter was submitted to Mr. Untermyer by his secretary and the lawyer sent out the following statement: "Mr. Untermyer has no comment to make other than to to say that he never replies to billingsgate."

Mayor Hylan may be called upon to testify today. About twenty witnesses will be on hand, and it is expected that the labor phase of the inquiry will be finished this week. It is possible that the committee may have a hearing on Saturday in order to make up for the cancellation of yesterday's hearing.

Hylan's Reply to Untermyer.

City of New York,
Office of the Mayor.
Nov., 17, 1920.

Mr. Samuel Untermyer, Counsel,
Lockwood Joint Legislative Housing Investigating Committee, New York.

Dear Sir: Your letter to me under date of Nov. 16, 1920, is the meanest collection of insincere expressions that has thus far been presented by you to me.

You know it, I know it and sooner or later the whole public will thoroughly understand what is moving you to such despicable attacks on me.

You cannot have forgotten that, at the Joint Conference of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and the Lockwood Committee on Monday last, Nov. 15, when you stated "The Lockwood Committee has neither the power nor the wish to undertake the duties that devolve upon the officials of the City of New York" a resolution was adopted by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, without objection from you or the committee, that the Board of Estimate would proceed to make its own investigation into the letting of any city contracts that might be under any possible suspicion of fraud.

You cannot pretend to have forgotten that the Board of Estimate and Apportionment invited you to conduct

7½ YEARS IF PROVED GUILTY

PRISONER GRINS AT COURT

BACKER MUST STAND TRIAL

Millionaire Builder Indicted for Perjury Fails in Demurrer Plea.

Robert P. Brindell, union labor leader, was indicted yesterday on three counts accusing him of "an attempt to commit the crime of extortion."

This was the first translation into action of the mass of testimony given against Brindell before the Lockwood Committee in its delve into housing, and it was followed by a broad hint that more indictments for grafting would come directly. George Backer, millionaire builder, has already been accused. He lost an appeal in the matter yesterday.

Hit by the first blow, the President of the Building Trades Council took the matter with cool disinterestedness. He smiled when the indictment was read. He grinned when the big bail of $100,000 was asked and fixed. And he kept the sunshine on his face even when the prosecution said the collective charges of alleged extortion against the "boss" of the building unions would aggregate $1,000,000.

He had nothing to say about the charges against him, but he seemed hurt at the size of the bail demanded, and a trifle vexed at a slight delay in obtaining it for him.

"Why," he was overheard to say, "if they had asked for 100,000 men I could have gotten them sooner than these 100,000 'iron men' they are asking."

The indictment against Brindell was found by the November additional Grand Jury, charged with framing a basis of prosecution on the Lockwood evidence. It alleges violation of Section 852 of the Penal Code and, as the offense charged does not admit of a fine, Brindell if guilty would be liable to a sentence of seven and a half years in prison. Five witnesses, several of whom had testified before the Lockwood Committee, gave the Grand Jury the information which prompted the indictment. One of the witnesses was Jacob Fradus, contractor and house wrecker, who charged Brindell with ruining him by "holdups" on threat of calling strikes on Fradus's work.

Text of Indictment.

The specific allegation upon which the accusation was returned against Brindell was that he had sought to extort $7,500 from Fradus while the contractor was wrecking structures in Seventh Avenue at Thirty-sixth, Thirty-seventh and Thirty-eighth Streets. The text of the indictment was as follows:

The People of the State of New York, Against
Robert P. Brindell.

The Grand Jury of the County of New York by this indictment, accuse Robert P. Brindell of the crime of an attempt to commit the crime of extortion, committed as follows:

The said Robert P. Brindell on the sixteenth day of April in the year nineteen hundred twenty, at the said County of New York, the sum of Seventy-five hundred dollars in money, lawful money of the United States, and of the value of Seventy-five hundred dollars, of the proper monies and property of one Jacob Fradus (who was then and there lawfully engaged in carrying on the business of general contracting, excavating, constructing buildings and wrecking and demolishing buildings) feloniously did attempt, feloniously and extortionately to obtain from the said Jacob Fradus with his consent, which consent he, the said Robert P. Brindell, then and there feloniously attempted to induce by a wrongful use of fear, to wit, fear on the part of the said Jacob Fradus, then and there by him, the said Robert P. Brindell, feloniously attempted to be induced by means of a threat by him, the said Robert P. And the Grand Jury aforesaid by this indictment further accuse the said Robert P. Brindell of the same crime of an attempt to commit the crime of extortion, committed as follows:

The said Robert P. Brindell, on the 16th day of April in the year 1920, at the said County of New York, the sum of $7,500 in money, lawful money of the United States, and the value of $7,500 of the proper monies and property of one Jacob Fradus (who was then and there lawfully engaged in carrying on the business of general contracting, excavating, constructing buildings and wrecking and demolishing buildings), feloniously did attempt, feloniously and extortionately, to obtain from the said Jacob Fradus, with his consent, which consent he, the said Robert P. Third Count.

And the Grand Jury aforesaid by this indictment further accuse the said Robert P. Brindell of the same crime of an attempt to commit the crime of extortion, committed as follows:

The said Robert P. Brindell on the sixteenth day of April in the year nineteen hundred twenty at the said County of New York, the sum of $7,500 in money, lawful money of the United States, and of the value of $7,500, of the proper monies and property of one Jacob Fradus (who was then and there lawfully engaged in carrying on the business of general contracting, excavating, constructing buildings and wrecking and demolishing buildings, and, more particularly engaged in wrecking and demolishing certain buildings and excavating thereunder at Thirty-sixth, Thirty-seventh and Thirty-eighth streets and Seventh avenue, in the city and county of New York, and hiring, employing and using therein and therefor divers persons as laborers and workmen feloniously did attempt feloniously and extorsively to obtain from the said Jacob Fradus, with his consent, which consent, he, the said Robert P. The Law and the Penalty.

The implication of the indictment that Brindell had been guilty of a felony was based on that section of the Penal Code which provides that:

"A person who extorts money or other property from another, under circumstances not amounting to robbery, is punishable by imprisonment not exceeding fifteen years, if the same is done by means of force or a threat mentioned in Section 850, or in either of the first four subdivisions of Section 851."

The first subdivision of Section 851, which was cited as applying to the case, defines what threats may constitute extortion, and says:

"Fear, such as will constitute extortion, may be induced by an oral or written threat:

"To do an unlawful injury to the person or property of an individual threatened, or to any relative of his, or to any member of his family, or to a corporation of which he shall be an officer, stockholder, employe or agent."

Section 261 of the Penal Code sets forth that an attempted crime may be punishable by imprisonment for not more than one-half of the longest term for which punishment may be meted out if the crime itself is committed, and, inasmuch as the extreme penalty for extortion is fixed at fifteen years, the union leader, if convicted, faces a maximum term of seven and a half years.

Yesterday's action of the Grand Jury had been rather definitely indicated for some time. When the indictment against George Backer was handed up on Nov. 5, Brindell himself came hastily down to the Criminal Courts Building one afternoon and inquired whether any charge had been lodged against him. He was reassured, and left.

The jurors at work sifting the evidence came to the indictment frame of mind around noon yesterday, and the document was drawn up. Shortly before 1 o'clock the jury reported to Judge Mulqueen that it had found an indictment, which was handed up to him. At this time the name of the person indicted was not disclosed.

Later on the indictment was published, and Martin W. Littleton, as chief counsel, appeared in behalf of Brindell. He heard the charge against his client without comment other than that he would produce the labor leader within ten minutes.

Brindell Enters Jauntily.

At 2:15 o'clock Brindell came into Judge Mulqueen's court. He was accompanied by Joseph J. O'Connor, counsel to the Building Trades Council, and just elected to the Assembly from Charles F. Murphy's district. Brindell's entrance was confident to the point of jauntiness, and he appeared utterly unperturbed by the fact that he had been summoned to answer to a serious charge.

The accusation was read, and he entered a plea of not guilty, subject to the usual legal reservation that he might later amend his reply in any way that his lawyers dictated. Then came the matter of bail, which Judge Mulqueen fixed at $100,000. Mr. Littleton was quick to protest vigorously against the figure, which he was emphatic as labeling "too high." Mr. Littleton said the bail was the largest ever fixed in a criminal case in this State.

"To be frank with you," remarked Judge Mulqueen, "I think the circumstances warrant this bail."

At this juncture, Special Assistant District Attorney Stanley Richter, son-in-law of Samuel Untermyer, counsel to the Lockwood committee, entered the bail controversy.

"Your Honor," he said, "we desire that $100,000 bail be fixed in this case, as the charge of attempted extortion is only one of the many charges that will be brought against the accused. It is only one of a long string of charges, and the District Attorney's office will not alone bring charges of attempted extortion, but will prove the consummated crime. Large sums are involved. One is as high as $25,000.

Loot Placed at $1,000,000.

"I advise the court that the amount of his extortions will reach close to $1,000,000. The defendant is a very wealthy man as a result of his experiences in this city in the last year and a half, and we feel that the bail fixed is a very moderate sum."

Mr. Littleton came back with the statement that notwithstanding the conspicuous headlines and the disclosures of the Lockwood committee, his client never had shown any disposition to leave the vicinity of this city.

"I protest against Mr. Richter's speechmaking," he continued. "It is a disgrace to public justice thus to make public charges. No such bail was ever exacted before. It amounts to a demand for punishment before guilt is proven. It is an attempt to shove the defendant into prison without warrant of law. I consider $25,000 sufficient bail."

The Judge listened to both of the attorneys and then said that it had always been his practice to let the counselors get together in the matter of the amount of bail.

"But," he added, "I don't know how we can get reasonable assurances that the defendant will be present without fixing the bail at $100,000. This is an unusual case. You have the privilege of making a motion before this or any other tribunal on the ground that the bail is excessive, and I am willing to entertain such a motion if you can prove to me that such an amount is excessive."

Mr. Littleton remarked on the futility of following out such a suggestion, and Judge Mulqueen said with an air of finality:

"It is my duty to hold the accused in $100,000 bail. I feel this is no ordinary offense and no ordinary offender."

Counsel for Brindell mentioned something about presenting certain affidavits and letters as bearing on the matter, but Judge Mulqueen cut in on Mr. Littleton's conversation with:

"I have as much regard for letters in these matters as I have for letters written on the sand. Have you ever been on your vacation and scrawled letters on the sand and seen them washed away?" he asked as a smile came over his face.

Mr. Littleton, seemingly convinced that the Judge could not be moved by any further pleas, turned his attention to a copy of the indictment, which he had held throughout his efforts to reduce the bonds. As he started reading it Judge Mulqueen beckoned to the smiling Brindell to come inside the rail "in custody."

Brindell Not Put in Dock.

The eyes of Mr. Littleton came off the indictment quickly. He wanted to know whether it was necessary for Brindell to go into the prisoner's dock immediately, or whether he could have the privilege of conferring with him in the courtroom on the question of bail. An application for surety bond had already been dispatched to the National Surety Company, and representatives of that corporation were on their way to the court.

"You can sit right there in the court," said Judge Mulqueen, but, nevertheless, two court attendants took posts close to the conference. Counsel and union leader conferred together for fifteen minutes until the representatives of the bonding company arrived. Then the formalities of giving bail were quickly gotten over and Brindell was at liberty to go.

With Mr. O'Connor on one side and Mr. Littleton on the other, the indicted unionist walked out of the courtroom. He had no statement to make on the proceedings at that time.

With that phase of the matter out of the way, great interest was displayed in the witnesses who had appeared before the Grand Jury, thus making possible the accusation against Brindell. According to the notation written across the back of the indictment, they were George H. Clark, an engineer for the Holbrook, Cabot & Rollin Company, contractors; Saul Singer, associate with the Lockwood Committee; Samuel B. Donnelly, described as of the Building Trades Employers' Association; Jacob Fradus, one of the principal witnesses before Senator Lockwood's investigators, and his attorney, Franklin Nevius.

Chief among the witnesses, it was said, was Jacob Fradus, who told the Lockwood Committee that, after he had failed to pay Brindell $25,000 which the labor boss demanded, he was unable to obtain wrecking contracts from any of the large builders in the city. He sent a friend, George H. Clark—one of the Grand Jury witnesses, incidentally—to see Brindell, and Clark testified that Brindell asked for $7,500 as a "rake-off." Fradus testified that his business had been ruined by Brindell's persecution.

Evidence introduced at the Lockwood committee's hearings indicated that Brindell and his delegates had received $93,000 from contractors. Brindell admitted that he received about $30,000 a year, including 50 cents a month from each of the 2,500 members of the Dock Workers' Union, who voted to continue the payment to Brindell during his lifetime.

Brindell is a Canadian. At the age of 15 he worked along the docks, and came to the United States as a youth. Fifteen years ago he was a drug clerk in Providence, and then came to New York, where he soon became a power in the labor world. His rise to power was most rapid during the war, and his acquaintance was sought by men prominent in the American Federation of Labor.

Backer's Demurrer Overruled.

The second act in yesterday's temporary shifting of the housing inquiry and its aftermath from the City Hall to the Criminal Courts Building concerned George Backer, wealthy contractor under indictment on a charge of perjury. Several hours before the Grand Jury disclosed its findings against Brindell the contractor came before Judge Mulqueen to plead to the charge against him.

He came to court with his attorney, Edmund L. Mooney, who, before his client entered his plea of not guilty, filed with Judge Mulqueen a demurrer to the indictment. The demurrer was predicated on the ground that the facts in the indictment did not constitute a crime. The demurrer was overruled.

Assistant District Attorney Robert S. Johnstone served notice that he would appear in court this morning and argue to have the trial of Backer placed on the preferred calendar, so that a speedy trial would be assured.

Mr. Mooney in his argument for a demurrer set forth two main points. He asserted that the Lockwood Committee had only to do with housing conditions and that the indictment mentioned the construction of a mercantile building. He said that this was so remote from the housing situation that the Grand Jury might "just as well have mentioned a museum." He made the point that the committee had not been appointed to ferret out crime and contended that the identity of the person to whom Backer had been alleged to have paid money had not been material to the objects of the Lockwood investigators. He said that his client had always maintained that he had paid the money "to the right party," and Mr. Mooney then interjected this:

"Is there any question that Brindell was the right party? The defendant admitted that he paid money for a definite object. He was not a professional briber or bribe taker. He was one of the first to expose the true conditions as to the building situation."

Replying to this, the Assistant District Attorney declared that the Lockwood Committee was concerned in all building operations, and added that as a result of extortion builders had been retarded from going on with their operations. He declared that it was germane to the committee's interest that the demurrer be not allowed.

"You've got to see the head before you can hit it," said Judge Mulqueen in speaking of Mooney's statement about identities being nonessential, "and if the shortage of houses in this city is due to corruption through extortion it is material to the Lockwood Committee's investigation. The committee has a right to investigate all phases, and it is very material for it to find out whether there was extortion."

DECLARES COUNTRY WANTS 'OPEN SHOP'

William H. Barr Asserts Question Is of Utmost Importance to the People.

SAYS UNIONS SEEK TO RULE

But Head of Founders' Association Sees Failure for Organized Labor in Election Results.

There is a growing demand in the country for the "open shop principle," in the opinion of William H. Barr, President of the National Founders' Association, who declared yesterday at its convention in the Hotel Astor that the aggressive policy of union labor in the last few years had awakened a spirit of resentment in the land. Commenting on a report that organized labor was considering ways and means of raising a fund of millions to be used in fighting the open shop idea, Mr. Barr said it indicated that the American Federation of Labor officials believed the open-shop movement was a menace to closed shop unionism.

Terming absurd and untrue the charge that a gigantic open shop movement by big business was contemplated, Mr. Barr said:

"The fact remains, however, that there exists a widespread demand on the part of practically all classes of society for the adoption of the principle of the open shop in the conduct of all business and Government affairs. During the last four years especially the aggressions of union labor have been such that the great majority of the people are beginning to resent the coercive efforts of this small, destructive minority.

"No clearer indication of the possibilities of the union domination which creates this public conviction could be had than the recent disclosures concerning the operations of certain unions in the building trades of New York City which have made it impossible to provide adequate and economical housing for the people of that city. When it is understood that this menacing condition could exist only under the closed shop, is it any wonder that the people are now demanding the open shop form of employment?

Says Unions Seek to Dominate.

"During the last few years, at least, definite efforts have been made to place the control of all industry in the hands of the labor unions, and the leaders were supported in their plan by a type of politician who sought first his own preferment, regardless of constitutional rights or the prosperity of the country. This combination was successful in forcing upon business many uneconomic restrictions. The ultimate purpose was unquestionably the domination of industry through its nationalization.

"A partial, but careful, survey of irresistible activities in behalf of the open shop shows that 540 organizations in 247 cities, of 44 States, are engaged in promoting this American principle in the employment relations. A total of 23 national industrial associations are included in these agencies. In addition, 1,665 local Chambers of Commerce, following the splendid example of the United States Chamber of Commerce, are also pledged to the principle of the open shop."

Tells of First Open Coercion Attempt.

Mr. Barr said the Presidential campaign was especially interesting to members of the association since it was the first time that labor unions had come out openly in an attempt to coerce the people into electing to public office only approved representatives of organized labor. Their failure was complete and ignominious, he added.

"Will the result of the last election educate our people to the fact that no labor leader can control even a small part of the unionist vote?" Mr. Barr asked, "and that endorsement of a candidate by a labor union is almost certain to result in the defeat of any man obtaining it?"

"The new administration should recognize the fact that business in the United States is essential to the maintenance of our prosperity; that it is honest and must be encouraged and fostered. We urge that there shall be put in office only men who realize the duties of the departments over which they are to preside. We insist that the departments in Washington shall remove the parasites that have infested them in recent years, and that none but Americans shall be placed on guard over the business of our country. We ask only for intelligence, efficiency, fairness and Americanism as the qualifications for men who are to be appointed to public office, and who are to administer the laws.

"We require that Socialists shall be eliminated from public life and from public office. We are not merely registering a request; we are presenting a demand, and we are intent on following it up until we shall eventually have in Washington an American administration in the best sense of the word."

The association held a dinner at the Astor last night. Instead of speeches a vaudeville program was enjoyed. The convention will continue today.

SAYS 10,000% PROFIT WAS MADE IN INDUSTRY

Labor Leader Puts Coal Gains at 2,800 to 8,000, Packers 4,214, Furniture 10,000.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17.—Increased efficiency of workers and the elimination of duplications in the process of distribution of manufactured products were the means proposed today before the meeting of the National Consumers' League by which prices might be reduced without a reduction in wages. A further remedy proposed was the elimination of the excessive profits made by many industries in the war period, which in many cases continue even today.

John H. Walker, President of the Illinois State Federation of Labor, says more than 10,000 per cent. annually was made in various industries during the war. These statistics, Mr. Walker said, were taken from the sworn records of income tax returns of manufacturers in various industries.

Profits aggregating 2,032 per cent. annually were made by the fruit-canning industry, he said; 2,400 per cent. by the Steel Trust, 2,800 to 8,000 per cent. in the coal industry, 4,000 in the furniture industry, 4,214 per cent. in the meat-packing business and as high as 10,000 per cent. in the dry goods industry.

Mr. Walker, who has had considerable experience among coal miners in Illinois, said that coal in Illinois cost $2.15 a ton to mine in flat cars on the surface, and consumers had to pay $9 a ton in Chicago for it, and were lucky to get it for that. He analyzed the recent wage increases granted to the mine workers, amounting to $1.60 a day, and said that because of increased prices the miners had to pay for blasting powder and other aids used in mining, the rise was of no practical benefit to the miners."

Senator William S. Kenyon of Iowa and Victor Murdock, Chairman of the Federal Trade Commission, were the principal speakers at the night session.

TO DISMISS ANOTHER HAZER

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Admiral Scales, Superintendent of the Naval Academy, and Secretary Daniels conferred tonight on conditions at the Naval Academy. After the conference Secretary Daniels said:

"In October Superintendent Scales found that a recurrence of hazing, which breaks out periodically in educational institutions, threatened to become epidemic at the Naval Academy.

"Upon his recommendation one midshipman was dismissed promptly after two acts of hazing had been established, and Admiral Scales was assured that the department would support his earnest efforts to enforce the law against hazing. Tonight he recommended that a second midshipman, guilty of two acts of hazing, be dismissed, and he will be separated from the Naval Academy for the good of the academy and the navy.

"Admiral Scales, finding a spirit of unwillingness to stamp out hazing on the part of some of the midshipmen, determined as the first step to adopt preventive tactics. He therefore placed the fourth class (those who entered in October) in separate wings of Bancroft Hall and adopted other measures looking to the prevention of hazing. He has gone to the very root of the disease and is dealing justly and firmly with the situation.

"The issue between the authorities at Annapolis and a number of midshipmen is that certain midshipmen of the upper class claim the right to govern the actions of their juniors and enforce practices contrary to the laws of Congress and the naval regulations. The law and regulations will be upheld."

PRICKEN SUED FOR $250,000.

Stockholders of 34th Street Stores Charge False Representations.

Adolph Pricken, ex-convict, now under indictment in Kings County in criminal proceedings arising out of the formation of the Thirty-fourth Street Stores, Inc., whose stockholders allege that Pricken and those associated with him obtained their money for stock by false representations, was sued in the Supreme Court yesterday for $250,000 by David Weiner in behalf of himself and thirty-three other stockholders. The other defendants are the Coastwise Warehouses, Inc., the original Pricken promotion, which is said to have benefitted from the alleged misrepresentations; Theodore Southard, who is Pricken's brother-in-law; Frank A. Page, Adolph E. Gugshell and Lorlys E. Rogers. Pricken is President, Southard Vice President and Page Secretary of the Coastwise company.

The complaint alleges that the defendants got the money paid for stock in the Thirty-fourth Street Stores; that dividends of 12 per cent. promised were paid by Pricken and not out of profits; that the Thirty-fourth Street company merely had a lease and did not own the property at 439 West Thirty-fourth Street; that the corporation was conducted at a loss; that Pricken did not have $1,500,000, as he said, and that he was not an honest man, but had served one term in prison for forgery and another for grand larceny.

Boston Police Drop Their Union.

BOSTON, Nov. 17.—More than 800 members of the Boston Policemen's Union voted unanimously tonight to instruct its officers to surrender its charter to the American Federation of Labor. A statement issued after the meeting said that the "conditions" leading to the police strike of 1919 "have in many ways been remedied and efforts are being made to improve them at all times." No members of the present police force are members of the union.

NEW ENGLAND MILLS CUT OUTPUT IN HALF

Majority of Textile Plants Running Three or Four Days a Week.

FEW WAGE REDUCTIONS

Fall River Looms Producing 150,000 Pieces of Cloth, as Against Normal Run of 350,000.

BOSTON, Nov. 17.—Curtailment of production, which began some months ago in the New England textile industries employing 300,000 operatives, has now reached a point where the total output is less than one-half that of one year ago, according to estimates made from a canvass today of the great mill centres. In some instances the curtailment runs as high as 80 per cent. A few mills have shut down entirely. The majority have adopted a working schedule of three or four days a week. Mills that continue in operation on full time with full crews are exceptional.

Thus far only few announcements of wage reductions have appeared and these have been for the most part in small mills where operatives have had the choice of a 10 per cent. wage cut or a shutdown, the manufacturers contending that they had found themselves unable to continue business under the former wage expense. In only one of the big textile mills now operating, that of the Lawrence Manufacturing Company in Lowell, known as the largest hosiery plant in the world, has there been a wage cut. The mill recently resumed production after a shut-down with a wage reduction of from 20 to 33 per cent. Protests have been voiced by a section of the employes and a union has been formed there, but the mills' operation on a short time schedule has not been interrupted.

The agreement reached at Fall River yesterday after several conferences between cotton manufacturers' and operatives' committees providing for a continuance of the present scale of wages, the highest in the history of the industry, has been greeted with much interest in union labor circles as an indication possibly of the attitude that manufacturers in other districts may take, regardless of the depressed market conditions and the general curtailment of the working schedule.

The Fall River mills, which normally turn out upward of 350,000 pieces of cloth each week, are now producing hardly more than 150,000 pieces, while sales in the cloth market for several months are said not to have exceeded 12,000 pieces weekly. Under normal market conditions these sales amount to 150,000 weekly.

In New Bedford, the centre of the fine cotton goods trade, where there are 39,000 operatives, the present curtailment is reported more stringent than at any time since 1907, the production being estimated at between 30 and 40 per cent. of normal.

The majority of the mills in New Bedford are operating on a weekly schedule of three or four days, with part of the machinery stopped. Last June New Bedford operatives received an increase in wages of 15 per cent., making an approximate advance of 175 per cent. over the pre-war rate. No official steps have been taken by the Cotton Manufacturers' Association regarding a cut in wages.

Of the 35,000 operatives in Lawrence, not more than 25 per cent. are working full time. Lowell cotton mills, employing 20,000, and woolen mills, having 3,000 operatives, have been running on short time for several weeks. The mills in Berkshire County are reported to have 30 per cent. of their machinery idle. A woolen mill and a carpet mill in Worcester are shut down for a week and others in that city and elsewhere in Worcester County are operating with reduced forces and on short time. One Worcester woolen mill has cut wages 10 per cent. About ten thousand operatives are affected by curtailment in silk, thread, plush and other mills in Holyoke and Chicopee.

Rhode Island mills are operating at from 50 to 60 per cent. of capacity. There have been few wage cuts. The curtailment in mills in Maine has been limited in most cases to three or four day schedules, none of the larger mills closing entirely. Production in Vermont's textile industry in Burlington and vicinity is at about one-third normal. Short time schedules are in force in the large cotton mills in Manchester and Nashua, N. H.

FURTHER CUT IN UTICA.

One Mill Shuts Down—Two Others Reduce Working Week.

UTICA, N. Y., Nov. 17.—Three of the largest sheeting and cotton cloth mills in this city announced today further curtailment. The Shenandoah Cotton Mills closed for four weeks or more as conditions may determine.

The Mohawk Valley and the Utica Steam Cotton Mills which have been running four days a week will hereafter run three days a week until conditions improve. Scarcely any work is being done in knit goods manufacturing, although it is said that a few orders are being received.

PLENTY OF ALCOHOL FOR LAWFUL USES

Commissioner Kramer Promises Perfumery Manufacturers an Ample Supply.

There is no disposition on the part of internal revenue officials in Washington to interfere with any reputable business in the enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment, Prohibition Commissioner Kramer told a gathering of perfumery manufacturers at a luncheon of the Aroma Club of New York in the Colonial Room of the Hotel McAlpin yesterday. He urged the co-operation of the club in the preparation of a list of reputable perfumery manufacturers, suggesting a second list giving the names of those considered doubtful.

"If I knew a man to be reputable I would let him have all the alcohol he wants," Commissioner Kramer said. "All we want to know is that the alcohol is being used in accordance with the law."

The Commissioner said he never realized until he became Prohibition Commissioner how many things alcohol is legitimately used for. Reputable users will not suffer, the Commissioner said, except through illegitimate dealers. In the enforcement of the law, in weeding out the illegitimate dealer, he said, sometimes an innocent man may suffer.

Order is being brought out of chaos, the Commissioner continued, and he asserted that conditions would be vastly improved by another year and that in three years the legitimate users of alcohol would not even realize there is a prohibition law, so smoothly will everything be running.

Commissioner Kramer extended an invitation to any perfumery manufacturer to write him in Washington, should he have any complaints to make, and gave assurance that all would receive respectful answers. When the meeting adjourned a number of manufacturers talked with Commissioner Kramer relative to conditions in their plants and said they would write him more fully. It was learned that the manufacturers generally, have found little cause to complain about the failure to obtain an adequate supply of alcohol, which is largely used by them in the manufacture of their products.

A rising vote of thanks was tendered to Commissioner Kramer for his address. The Commissioner left last night for Philadelphia, where he will take up some matters before going to Washington.

Edwin Sefton is President of the Aroma Club, which was organized in 1914, and has more than 200 members. Irvin S. Zeluff is Treasurer and Joseph Byrne, publisher of The Perfumers' Journal, is Secretary. George C. Sherman, President of Sherman & Bryan, Inc., advertising agents, was also a speaker at the luncheon.

named Sarah Wagerman and two male escorts, all of whom left Mrs. Palmer at the door and went away in a taxicab. Unaware of the trap that awaited her on the second floor of her house, Mrs. Palmer went upstairs immediately, and was permitted by the robbers to walk to her own room.

There, as the police got the story, she turned on the light and rang once to summon her maid. There was no response. Then she rang twice and waited for the maid and Filipino butler to appear. Still there was no response. Then, alarmed, she left her room and was in the hallway headed for the stairs when the unbidden guests came out of a room across the hall.

"Don't be startled," one of the visitors said. "Your house has been robbed and the servants called in detectives to investigate. We're the detectives."

Mrs. Palmer requested that they allow her to go to summon her maid and butler, and one of the men seized her and told her to "stay right where you are. Don't move."

She broke his grasp upon her arm and ran for the stairs. Near the head of the stairway she stumbled and fell headlong to the first landing from the bottom, where, in an attempt to frustrate her assailants, she burst the strands holding the pearls, which she says she purchased in the last year for more than $300,000, and scattered the gems over the hall at the foot of the stairs. Before the "detectives" could reach her she slipped off two diamond rings and a bracelet and tried to hide them under her cloak.

Strike, Then Gag Her.

Angered, the thieves seized their victim, cuffed and slapped her after they had gagged her, and then threw her on her bed and bound her. Later they placed her also in one of the wardrobes, where her two servants had already been nearly four hours. Her stifled cries were futile to bring aid.

Free to make a complete haul of all the valuable furs, paintings and gems in the house, the thieves began a careful search, while their three wardrobe captives could hear them debating about whether they should take this or that article as booty.

Occasionally one of the men, still wearing his false moustache, would throw open one of the wardrobe doors and ask the prisoners whether they were hungry or uncomfortable. Nods could be the only answer as the night wore on, and several times the marauders attempted to straighten chairs or rope bonds so that Mrs. Palmer and her servants could be more comfortable.

It was not until about 7 o'clock in the morning, ten hours after they had enticed the servants to the door, and six hours after they had attacked Mrs. Palmer, so the story goes, that they left by the front door in the semi-darkness of the morning. The floors of the rooms, upstairs and down, were littered with furs, furnishings and pictures which the thieves had packed up, but had decided finally not to take. One of these abandoned pieces was an oil painting, removed from its hanging in the hall, but left on the floor as too unwieldy to carry off.

No one saw the men leave the house and none can tell whether they went away in an automobile that waited for them all night long. They took with them the scattered pearls from the necklace, more than fifty in number; several diamond rings, bracelets, watches and brooches, and several sets of sable furs. The entire booty is valued by Mrs. Palmer at $400,000.

Mrs. Palmer was painfully injured in the struggle with the thieves, and she had to call in Dr. Albert C. Herring of 310 West Fifty-seventh Street. She had not left her bed yesterday and was not able to see visitors. However, she confirmed the report of the robbery.

Mrs. Palmer is about 34 years old and was born in Norfolk, Va. Her mother, Mrs. Florence V. King, lived for many years in Boston and later in Brooklyn, after the daughter decided several years ago that she wanted to go on the stage. Mrs. Palmer is an accomplished horsewoman and pianist. One of her first stage parts was in De Wolf Hopper's production of "Wang."

She was married to James C. Parrish Jr. in Paris in 1910. He is a Harvard graduate, class of 1907, and related to the Vanderbilt family. In 1916 Parrish obtained an interlocutory recree of divorce in the Supreme Court in White Plains. The papers were sealed and charges and the name of the co-respondent never became public. Mr. Parrish lives now at 24 West Fifty-ninth Street and Southampton, L. I.

Having admitted yesterday to Inspector John Coughlin of the Detective Bureau that he stole jewels worth about $20,000 from the home of Paul Brunet, in the Wendolyn Apartments, 343 West 100th Street, William Burns, 38 years old, living at the Mills Hotel, Seventh Avenue and Thirty-sixth Street, probably will face his eighth conviction soon. Inspector Coughlin said each theft was similar to the one on Oct. 28 in the Brunet home, when, as a window cleaner, he gained entrance.

Burns is held for examination. He is said to have sold the jewelry to Abraham Abrams of 31 West 115th Street, who runs a cafe at 1,335 Fifth Avenue, who also was arrested.

this investigation in person. You cannot pretend to have forgotten that you declined this invitation.

You must remember that you also gave as a reason that the Lockwood Committee's investigation into the questions of labor and material combinations was of more immediate importance and that you volunteered to aid the Board of Estimate and Apportionment in its investigation by submitting to it all data in your possession relating to city contracts or such other information that would come to you from time to time.

Now, suddenly, without the least justification in the world, you turn around and attack the good faith of the entire Board of Estimate and Apportionment and the Law Department of the city. Of course, very shrewdly, all of your attacks are by inference only, but you try to create the false impression that the Law Department of this city will not conduct an open and fearless examination as to whether there was fraud or collusion in the granting of contracts by the city.

Defends City's Law Department.

The people of the City of New York rightfully have the fullest confidence in the Law Department of the city by reason particularly of its successful conduct against the traction interests of the five cent fare litigation, through every court up to and including the Court of Appeals; the legal battles to protect the eighty cent gas rate statutes; the telephone rate inquiry now in progress; the litigation involving the New York Central Railway's occupation of city property on the west side of Manhattan; the investigation before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of street railways and rapid transit conditions and the successful conduct of many other complex law suits and proceedings.

No one has so far made any attack on the honesty and loyalty of the Law Department of this city under this administration. Even you do not dare do it except by the mean but carefully guarded inferences carried in your letter.

Irrespective of anything you have said, I solemnly declare that the Corporation Counsel will conduct a most rigid and searching investigation, and if collusion or fraud should be shown in the awarding of any contract, no matter where the trail may lead, the fullest justice will be meted to the guilty man or men.

The next time you start to write a vicious letter to me, try to keep in mind some idea of fair play and decency. You know very well that I am and always have been ready to appear before your committee and testify without reservation. Your intimation that you are "waiting on me" is as false as the rest of your inferences concerning me.

Very truly yours,
JOHN F. HYLAN, Mayor.

The letter carried as an enclosure the resolution adopted by the Board of Estimate on Monday, which was published in THE TIMES Tuesday.

Calls City Inquiry "Farcical."

Mr. Untermyer's letter to Senator Lockwood follows:

New York, Nov. 17, 1920.
Hon. Charles C. Lockwood, Chairman,
My dear Senator:

I regret that it will be necessary for me to ask you to postpone the inquiry until tomorrow morning, at which time I am assured I will be able to resume. My indisposition is not serious. A cold I contracted a few days ago has aggravated a chronic bronchial section and renders it unsafe for me to venture out in this inclement weather. With a day's rest, confinement to my room and a little medical care, I shall doubtless be on hand at ten tomorrow.

I particularly regret the inconvenience caused the many witnesses who have already spent so much time in attendance, but it is unavoidable.

Please see that the announcement is made for their attendance tomorrow.

Was there ever anything so farcical and so unpardonable in its extravagance as the latest so-called "investigation?"

Yours very truly,
SAMUEL UNTERMYER.

SCHOOL BOARD OFFERS AID.

No Payments to Be Made Except Under Guaranty Against Fraud.

The Board of Education at a special meeting yesterday decided to aid the Corporation Counsel and the Board of Estimate in every possible way in their investigations into the school building contracts scandal.

City Superintendent Ettinger reported that he had instructed Associate Superintendent Shallow, assisted by an employe from Auditor Cook's office and one from the office of the Superintendent of School Buildings, to attend the hearings of the Lockwood committee and to inspect and analyze any documents that called for inspection.

Dr. Ettinger also announced that he had instructed Superintendent Snyder not to approve for payment any additional vouchers with reference to work done or to be done in the future without first obtaining from the Corporation Counsel a form of assurance and waiver necessary to protect the education department against fraud. He said that he had asked Mr. Snyder in future contracts to impose the condition that contractors supply for his information, although not his approval, a list of all subcontractors involved.

President Prall said that there seemed some foundation for the charges made with respect to some of the school building contracts. If there were any it would only develop as the investigation proceeded. The Board of Education, he said, must as quickly as possible ascertain if any of the contracts entered into for new school buildings are tainted with fraud and it should take steps immediately to obtain for and deliver to the Board of Estimate the information that will disclose ring bidding, collusion or fraud of any kind, if it exists, in connection with every contract under which new buildings are being erected. He offered the following resolutions, which were adopted:

"That all future payments, on account of contracts for school buildings and equipment, shall only be made upon the approval and order of the Corporation Counsel.

"That the Superintendent of Schools immediately furnish the Board of Estimate with a complete list of all existing contracts for new school buildings and equipment, the names of all general and subcontractors.

"That he direct all officials and their employes to furnish the Board of Estimate with any information requested by it.

"That the Board of Estimate in its investigation extend an invitation to the New York Chapter of American Institute of Architects to appoint a committee of the members to participate and assist in the investigation."

DR. ALONZO E. TAYLOR, Professor of Physiological Chemistry, University of Pennsylvania, and a nationally known food authority, in an address made before the American Dietetic Association, urged people to center on a diet of bread and milk as a means "of overcoming the present unequal food distribution."

Dr. Taylor is correct in his recommendation, but he could have gone further and stated, with truth, that increased consumption of bread and milk by young and old would make us a better fed and more economically fed people.

STORM WINDS BLOW ON LAND AND ON SEA

TELEGRAPH LINES DAMAGED

Cellars Flooded, Traffic Hampered and City Streets Lined with Broken Umbrellas.

The sixty-mile gale yesterday, accompanied during a part of the day by rain, caused a number of minor accidents on land and sea, and delayed the shipping entering and leaving the harbor, but did not do any serious damage. The United States Weather Bureau records showed that the wind was blowing at fifty-six miles an hour by 10 o'clock yesterday morning, and dropped to forty miles at noon, and reached its maximum of sixty miles velocity at 4 o'clock. Toward night the wind shifted to the northwest and dropped to thirty miles before 8 o'clock. The prospect for today is diminishing northwest winds and fair weather.

During the forenoon four appeals for aid from ships in distress were received at the Naval Radio Station. The first came from the Spanish freighter Yute, Baltimore to Dunkirk, disabled 240 miles east-southeast of Cape May, N. J. The United States Coast Guard cutter Seneca was sent to her assistance finally and towed the Yute into port.

An Italian steamship, the Emanuel Accame, Genoa for Hampton Roads, was also disabled and was towed to Delaware Breakwater by the revenue cutter Gresham.

Ships Blown Across the Harbor.

At the height of the gale several craft moored down the bay broke adrift and were blown across the harbor. The tanker Hisko dragged her anchor and would have gone ashore if the police boat John F. Hylan and the tug Sanford had not towed her into Tompkinsville.

The Lamport & Holt liner Vasari from South America arrived off the Hook in the afternoon, but the Captain decided to wait until the morning before coming up. The White Star liner Adriatic, bound for Cherbourg and Southampton, was delayed three hours in sailing, and the Noordam of the Holland-America line, bound for Boulogne and Rotterdam, was also delayed.

A sand barge, the May Queen, floated bottom up into the slip at Fourteenth Street, Hoboken, yesterday, when the wind was blowing between fifty and sixty miles an hour, and the police tried to locate the owner, but were unable to do so. If the barge had been loaded, they contended, it was probable that the crew of three or four men might have been on board.

In New York City the gale caused great inconvenience to persons walking in the streets and to traffic, and the heavy rains of Tuesday night caused the flooding of cellars in various parts of the city, especially along the water front. The loaded trucks had great difficulty in making the slips at the ferries, and there was a delay in the services through the gale.

Broken Umbrellas Line Waterfront.

During the forenoon many people tried to carry their umbrellas open as a protection against the rain, but found it impossible to make headway against the wind. The waterfront from the Battery to the foot of Fulton Street, North River, was strewn with umbrellas that had been blown inside out and cast adrift by their owners. This was also noticeable in Union Square and other open places in the city.

A large plate glass window was blown out at Hethrington's at Forty-second street and Vanderbilt Avenue and smaller windows were blown out in streets which were exposed to the full violence of the westerly gale. At Fifty-first Street and Lexington Avenue a water main burst and flooded the slot of the car tracks and halted the traffic for some time.

The Bronx suffered a good deal from the deluge of rain and wind Tuesday night and yesterday morning. Sixty-five trees were blown down in the borough and more than a dozen telephone poles, which carried their wires to the ground with them, but they were repaired later in the day by the emergency crews. In several streets in the Bronx the sidewalks were covered in sections with splintered glass from the showcases that had been blown down during the gale.

Telegraphic communication between New York and many western points was badly crippled yesterday following a sleet storm Tuesday night which swept a large section of the East, tearing down miles of wire, chiefly in the mountain regions of Pennsylvania. It was said last night that several lines are still down and that service probably will not be normal today.

BUFFALO IS BURIED UNDER FOOT OF SNOW

Local and Suburban Traffic Demoralized in Worst November Storm of Its History.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 17.—Buffalo is snowbound in one of the worst November storms in its history. From 4 o'clock this morning until 7 more than a foot of snow fell. Local and interurban traffic is demoralized, transportation companies failing to have their equipment ready to meet the emergency. Hundreds of people walked to their work, while thousands remained at home.

Suburban trolley traffic was completely suspended and at 10 A. M. street car service was about 25 per cent. of normal. Telephone service was crippled in the early hours of the day because of the failure of operators to get downtown. Mail trains were from two to five hours late.

SWEDEN WAS NEAR WAR.

Is Said to Have Made Threat to Keep Italy Out of It.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 17.—A special dispatch to the National Tidende, from Christiania, says that in the Parliament last night Deputy Castberg revealed that the Swedish Minister in Rome on behalf of King Gustave approached the Italian King in May, 1915, and afterward informed the leading Italian politicians that Italy's entry into the war would cause Sweden to reconsider her neutrality.

This, he said, caused the greatest consternation among the powers at war with Germany, which earnestly remonstrated with Sweden.

The alleged action was taken behind the backs of the other Scandinavian Governments, Castberg asserted, and might have precipitated Scandinavia into the war.

Dies of Wood Alcohol Poisoning.

Dennis Noonan, 47 years old of 2,507 Belmont Avenue, the Bronx, died last night in Fordham Hospital from wood alcohol poisoning after drinking "whisky," the source of which he refused to disclose. He would only say he had received the drink from a friend.

SMALL NATIONS SEEK MORE LEAGUE POWER

By EDWIN L. JAMES.

Declares League Very Much Alive.

Lord Robert Cecil praised the work of the Council and said it had accomplished much in a very short time.

"I think," he said, "its accomplishments are a complete reply to those who say that the League is dead. The report shows that the League is very much alive."

He then declared that the system of holding secret meetings in which all deliberations were concealed from the public and having later public meetings at which only results were announced would not do. Lord Robert asked the Council to change its methods, and he said that he would introduce a resolution to this effect.

Lord Robert also made a strong appeal for Armenia. The atrocities and massacres there, he said, had not been exaggerated, but rather the reverse, and he made a very pointed reference to "another international body," meaning the Council of Premiers, which might have done much to help Armenia and had not.

With regard to the action in the Polish-Lithuanian dispute, he charged that Article XV of the Covenant had been violated in keeping secret all the negotiations.

In conclusion, he appealed for a spirit of reconciliation. As a result of what might it do, he drew an example from himself. He was the son of Lord Salisbury, the British Premier at the time of the war with South Africa, and there he was representing South Africa at the request of the South African Premier, one of his country's most formidable enemies only a generation ago.

"Surely," he said, "this is a lesson for us. Do not let us shrink from strong measures of conciliation. Believe me, they justify themselves."

During the afternoon, for the first time, the newspaper representatives were shut out from the gallery during part of the Assembly proceedings. Inside, the Assembly was electing the chairmen of its six commissions, and, technically, it was the commissions which were sitting at the time. The voting was by ballot, though who should be voted for had been agreed on beforehand. The result of the election was:

First, the Commission on General Organization, A. J. Balfour of Great Britain.

Second, Technical Organization, Tomasso Tittoni of Italy.

Third, World Court, Léon Bourgeois of France.

Fourth, Administration, Quinones de Leon of Spain.

Fifth, Admission, Antonio Huneus of Chile.

Viviani Silent When Cecil Speaks.

GENEVA, Nov. 17 (Associated Press).—Lord Robert Cecil, in his address to the League Assembly today, answered some objections that had been urged against the League.

Referring to criticisms that it was spending all its time getting ready to do something, Lord Robert said that a machine to work well must be set up well. He considered that the report showed that great progress had been made.

The cost of the League to date had been £500,000, Lord Robert said.

"This sounds like a large sum to some minds," he continued, "but compare the amount with a single day of the cost of the war and you have a ridiculously cheap insurance rate."

After sustained applause on Lord Robert's peroration, many of the delegates turned toward the seats of the French delegation, as it had been said that M. Viviani probably would follow him, but the former Premier of France was awaiting another opportunity.

It is reported in French circles that M. Viviani will not take the floor for a set speech until it is known positively whether Lloyd George is coming. If the British Premier takes a seat in the Assembly, the French orator will be held in reserve to reply to him if occasion presents.

It is becoming more apparent that M. Viviani has taken a great hold on the assembly. In the various debates a few words from him have straightened out tangled questions and brought the assembly to an immediate and unanimous decision.

There is much comment on the fact that the French Republican-Socialist leader is taking issue with Lord Robert Cecil, the representative of advanced British liberalism, on most of the questions that are the subject of controversy. It is predicted, however, in both French and British circles that the two leaders will get together before the real decisions of the assembly are taken, unless Lord Robert insists upon bringing up the question of Germany's admission to the League.

Officials of the Commissions.

Arthur J. Balfour of the British delegation was elected Chairman of the Commission on General Organization by the assembly and Dr. Wellington Koo was chosen Vice President. Tommaso Tittoni of Italy was named as Chairman of the Commission on Technical Organization and Take Jonescu of Rumania Vice Chairman. Léon Bourgeois was selected to head the Commission on the Court of International Justice, with Dr. Alfonso Costa of Portugal as Vice Chairman. Count Quinones de Leon, Spanish Ambassador to France, was chosen Chairman of the Commission on Finances and Señor Restrepo of Colombia Vice Chairman.

Antonio Huneus of Chile was elected Chairman of the Commission on New Members and Dr. Juan Carlos Blanco of Uruguay Vice Chairman. Hjalmar Branting of Sweden was made Chairman of the Commission on Disarmament, Blockade and Mandates, and Señor Agnery of Cuba Vice Chairman.

Germany is understood to be planning a protest to the Assembly against the allocation of the Eupen and Maledy districts to Belgium by the Council of the League, Dr. Gastoa da Cunha, Brazilian representative at the meeting, declared today to a newspaper representative. He added that he was convinced that the United States would enter the League. The example and firm attitude of South American nations would, in his opinion, determine the policy of President-elect Harding.

Peruvian Representative Resigns.

Dr. Mariano Cornejo has resigned as head of the Peruvian delegation to the Assembly. He said that he had received no advices of his recall by his Government. It had been stated earlier at the Secretariat of the League that nothing was known there of any change in the Peruvian delegation, and no one in that delegation had received any word of alteration in the personnel. It was only today, in fact, that the appointment of Dr. Cornejo to membership in two of the Assembly committees was announced.

A dispatch from Lima, Nov. 15, stated that the Peruvian Foreign Office had dismissed Dr. Cornejo by cable. The dispatch added that the dismissal was attributed in Lima to declarations regarding the League of Nations and the policy of the United States toward it which Dr. Cornejo had made in a Paris newspaper, and which were characterized as "imprudent." These declarations are said to have been, in part, critical of President-elect Harding's attitude.

DEPLORES AMERICA'S ABSENCE

Professor Seippel Says This Country Is Best Fitted for League Role.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, Nov. 17.—Professor Seippel, an eminent Swiss jurist, writes in the National Zeitung on the lack of American representation in the League Assembly.

"There is no denying that America's apostasy is a bad omen," he says. "It was hoped that whatever the result of the Presidential elections might be, the people of the United States would consider themselves in honor bound not wholly to disavow the President elected by themselves and the obligations undertaken by him. Now, however, America seems quite determined to leave in the lurch the work which she initiated and which it was for her to bring to a successful conclusion.

"She was better fitted to do this than any other nation, for the only interests for which she had to strive in Europe were the maintenance of peace and of a just balance of power. Perhaps she will think better of it as soon as the excitement of the election is appeased."

CONSTRUCTIVE AID REQUIRED

Economists Warn Us of Bankruptcy That May Eventually Involve This Country.

By CHARLES H. GRASTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Nov. 17.—The overwhelming defeat of Venizelos in Greece is a bolt out of the blue. It is mystifying and staggering. Nobody in Paris seems to have had the least apprehension of such a thing. People here are asking themselves what it means, and the first impulse seems to be to construe this ominous manifestation in relation to general tendencies observed in other democracies.

In France Clemenceau, who less than two years ago was a popular idol, is in the discard. Lloyd George's strength is negative in England. Nearly everybody would like to have somebody else for Premier, but somebody else fails to emerge from the mass of mediocrity. Even prosperous Belgium is in a state of political unrest. Democracy, triumphant in war, fails to raise up leaders in peace.

But Greece was different and Venizelos was different. Greece was relatively small and weak until Venizelos came. His genius built a Greek empire. Many statesmen commented that his foundation was too slender, but his vast desires were worked out with such sagacity and steadiness, with such combined vision and attention to details, that all Europe came to believe in him. He occupied a foremost position in statesmanship by common censent. The progress and prestige of Greece became the romance of the war. And now the empire which he built with his own hands has repudiated him and apparently given a mandate for calling back his enemies.

It is bad enough on that side. That Greece should be put back under Constantinism is like putting her neck under the hoof of an unclean beast. The consequences to Greece must strike terror to the heart of every Greek patriot. But people in Paris are looking beyond the boundaries of Greece and are aghast in contemplating the sinister reactions throughout Europe. They were prepared for some weakening in the tremendous task Venizelos assumed in Turkey for the Entente joint account, but he made good there.

What may now happen in Turkey is matter for the gravest anxiety. Greece was the keystone of Turkish control. All of Venizelos's plans prospered up to the very day of his rejection by his own people.

What creates surprise and consternation here is that a democracy should stamp upon a record flawless and triumphant in purpose and achievement. Today commentators were associating the Venizelos debacle with symptoms in France, England and Italy, and with the Americans' repudiation of Wilson, and asking themselves whether merely local causes were producing these results, or whether deep and dangerous currents were running that might threaten the whole democratic system.

The democracy that smashed German autocracy has not yet made a beginning in consolidating and organizing the position won in 1918. Instead of going forward, it is pointed out, it seems intent on first destroying every plan made for ratification and discrediting every leader who has served it. With Russia's arm loosed to strike at Poland again, with economic and industrial conditions bad in the best and apparently hopeless in the worst countries, it is very difficult to maintain European optimism.

Unless America means something very different from what the recent election returns implied, and unless the new Administration takes strong steps to help Europe with advice and sympathy, at least, America must be prepared for industrial and economic consequences that will concern her no less surely than would have the military and political consequences of the war with Germany.

The hope of American aid which Premier Leygues expressed in his statement to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent becomes with passing events more and more the solitary hope of Europe in bringing the nations together in some constructive action based on common interest and common sense. It is no longer hoped that America will send military forces or squander billions of money. What is wanted is chiefly the sound judgment and the helpful spirit of the only country among the winners of the late war that was left upstanding and strong.

Expectations here of American assistance are grounded on practical, not sentimental, considerations. Economists point out that the financial disturbances in America are but the first faint effects of European bankruptcy and ruin which must eventually involve a country dependent for prosperity upon outside markets for its surplus products.

One hears everywhere expressions, wistful rather than hopeful, that if the Republicans are to live up to their traditional claims of enlightenment and moral ideas, they should immediately extend some kind of encouragement before the peoples of Europe yield to the perversity that follows in the train of suffering and despair.

WILSON SENDS MESSAGE TO LEAGUE ASSEMBLY

Replying to Greetings, He Expresses Belief Its Work Will Be of Immense Value.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—President Wilson, in a message sent today to Paul Hymans, President of the League of Nations Assembly at Geneva, extended his personal greetings to the Assembly and expressed the "hope and belief that their labors will be of immense value to the whole civilized world."

The message was an acknowledgment of one from President Hymans conveying the expression of sympathy voted to President Wilson unanimously upon the opening of the Assembly of the League on Monday.

Mr. Hymans's message read:

"The Assembly of the League of Nations has by unanimous vote instructed me to send you its warmest greetings and to express its earnest wishes that you may speedily be restored to complete health. The Assembly recognizes that you have done perhaps more than any other man to lay the foundations of the League. It feels confident that the present meetings will greatly advance those principles of co-operation between all nations which you have done so much to promote."

The reply of President Wilson was:

"The greeting so graciously sent me by the Assembly of the League of Nations through you has gratified me very deeply indeed. I am indeed proud to be considered to have played any part in promoting the concord of nations with the establishment of such an instrumentality as the League, to whose increasing usefulness and success I look forward with perfect confidence. Permit me to extend my personal greetings to the Assembly, if they will be gracious enough to receive them, together with an expression of my hope and belief that their labors will be of immense value to the whole civilized world."

League Must Pay More for High Court—Maintenance Fund Dwindles

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, Nov. 17.—The Trustees of the Carnegie Peace Palace have decided to raise the rent of the building when it is taken over by the League of Nations for the High Court of Justice.

The present permanent Court of Arbitration pays 50,000 guilders annually as rent, but a new plan advocated at a recent meeting of the Trustees proposes that the League take over the entire building for the High Court and subrent a part to the Arbitration Court.

Much of the Palace maintenance fund was in European bonds, including German, which have lost in value.

from the operation of ships under wartime contracts. He said that some of the vouchers still missing might be included in the item of $90,000,000.

A recapitulation by the witness showed that the total appropriations for the Shipping Board amounted to $3,400,000,000; that there came in as profits from the operation of ships $400,000,0000; that $2,700,000,000 had been submitted in vouchers to Controller Warick, of which $900,000,000 had been held up, while there remained $1,100,000,000 still to be passed by the Controller. Of the $3,800,000,000 total, there remained in the hands of the board approximately $50,000,000.

Under examination by Representative Kelly, Mr. Gillen said that during the two years prior to the time he became connected with the Shipping Board there had been only eight voyage accountings made out of all the thousands of operating accounts that had been settled. There was absolutely no supervision of these accounts.

"Do you mean to say that we had some 1,200 ships collecting large sums of money in freight charges, and that there was no accounting with the operators of these vessels?" asked Representative Kelly.

"That's the fact," replied Mr. Gillen. "There was no supervision in any shape, form or manner, of Shipping Board operations, as to funds in the hands of operators."

$120,000,000 "Floating Around."

The Director of Operations, John H. Rossiter, according to the witness, admitted that he knew nothing about these accounts, holding that this was a matter which concerned the Treasurer or Controller. When the witness asserted that there was approximately $120,000,000 "floating around the country" and no one seemed to know just where it was, Representative Kelly said it was inconceivable that such enormous funds could be deposited in banks without definite knowledge of the Shipping Board.

On one occasion Mr. Gillen came to New York City, started an investigation of the bank deposits made by operators of Shipping Board vessels and found $20,000,000 in eight institutions of which the Government possessed no record. He mentioned one shipping concern, operating under a Government license, with obligations to pay large sums to the Government, which he was informed had $25,000,000 in New York City banks, but he was unable to get any record of this. Altogether there were twenty-seven banks in New York used as depositories by the operators of the board's vessels.

Following this incident, Mr. Gillen told the committee he recommended to Judge Payne changes which would enable the Shipping Board to keep an accurate record of voyage account funds.

As a result of his recommendations, a force of 900 accountants was set to auditing these accounts. The total number of these accumulated accounts was 8,000, of which 4,000, approximately, had been audited up to last Feb. 1, when it was shown that the excess funds in the hands of the operators amounted to $120,000,000.

Huge Profits for Owners.

An analysis of the profits showed that owners whose vessels were commandeered when this Government entered the war had cleared approximately 57 1.2 per cent. on their base investment, which, he said, was larger than the profit allowed to any other class of industry. He pointed out that the profits of other industries doing business with the Government were restricted to from 9 to 12 per cent.

Of the old American tonnage which was commandeered, Mr. Gillen had found that 80 per cent. was built at a cost of approximately $75 a ton. Due to the losses incurred in submarine warfare, the value was increased to approximately $175 a dead weight ton. Accepting this inflated value as a basis, the Shipping Board had allowed 10 per cent. for depreciation, Mr. Gillen testified, as against 5 per cent. charged off by the ship owners before these vessels went under Government control. He said he had found that a profit of 20 per cent. was allowed on the basis of the war valuation. On the basis of $75 a ton the owners had netted 57 1.2 per cent.

The requisition program, according to the witness, called for the expenditure of $800,000,000, but the construction divisions had no records of inventories in the yards, no records of payments made by owners for labor, &c., on the contracts, and for several months it was not known how much material was on hand. Before these facts had been ascertained, the witness said, several large claims had been settled at a big loss to the Government.

$22,000,000 Lost on One Claim.

One claim adjusted in this way involved the payment of $34,000,000 to Norwegian ship owners for vessels seized in the course of construction. This settlement, according to the witness, involved a loss to the Government of about $22,000,000, and was possible because there had been only "horse trading in which the representatives of this Government had not seen the other fellow's horse." He told the committee that the Norwegian owners had "put it over" Commissioner Stevens and R. A. Dean of the legal department of the Shipping Board. As a result, Judge Payne ordered that no further settlements be made until complete records could be procured.

Included in such claims, the witness said, were 451 vessels operated by the Shipping Board. On Oct. 1, 1919, 350 claims were pending, many of them of foreign ship owners, and $1,500,000,000 was the amount involved in the settlements effected during the administration of Judge Payne.

To complete one $400,000 tank ship under construction in the yards of the Union Iron Works, the witness said, the Government had expended $630,000. The owner had contracted to pay $1,035,000, and actually paid on account $672,000. In the settlement the owner was paid $2,570,340, more than double the contract price.

Millions Saved by Ruling.

It was due to the precaution of Joseph Cotton, formerly general counsel for the Shipping Board, according to Mr. Gillen, that the Government was not forced to pay millions of dollars in consequential damage claims as the result of having taken over contracts of ships built in American yards. The rule laid down by Mr. Cotton, now a member of the law firm of McAdoo, Cotton & Franklin, in collaboration with Rear Admiral Capps, General Manager of the Fleet Corporation, was outlined by Mr. Gillen. It was put into effect after an examination had been made of British practices, and it had been found that the Government assumed that it could commandeer anything it needed and pay only consequential damages. Under such authority the British Government took over all ship ways and ordered the private owners to clear out with their uncompleted vessels. The owners straightway sought to effect a settlement and turned over their ships at a fair price. The principle laid down by Mr. Cotton, he said, was that the Government had the power to take over the yards, ships on the ways and materials in the yards without assuming the liability to carry out the contracts already entered into. The witness estimated that $150,000,000 had been saved by the application of this rule.

Mr. Gillen explained that the Shipping Board had allowed compensation to the owners on the basis of $4.15 a month for each deadweight ton of cargo ships and $5.75 a month for passenger vessels, with slight variations from these amounts for increased tonnage and faster ships.

Comparison With British Rates.

The British Government paid $2.01 for the freighters commandeered and $4.15 for passenger ships. However, the English owners were required to meet the expense of crew payrolls and of deck and engine room supplies, which was not required of American owners.

These figures were furnished to Judge Payne in a report made by the witness after some of the American ship owners who had not signed the Shipping Board contracts undertook to procure increased compensation.

An analysis of the rates fixed by the British and American Governments, he said, showed that this country paid ship owners from 230 to 275 per cent. more for each deadweight ton than the British Government paid for the same service at the same time. However, he said these boats might have earned from 100 to 150 per cent. prior to the time America entered the war, because they were favored by having the sea lanes kept open.

Relative to the enormous profits earned by these ships under wartime conditions, Mr. Gillen told of a vessel of the Barbour Line which was valued at approximately $200,000 about the time she was ready to be scrapped. To put her in shape $574,000 was spent, and the Government took her over when she left the ways. In six months of operation the ship made a net profit of $660,000. The same ship subsequently was sunk by a submarine.

Government Must Accept Loss.

Under cross-examination by Representative Steele the witness discussed the disposition of ships now owned or controlled by the Shipping Board. At the present time, he explained, there was a market for tankers of which the Government had an excess of about 300 ships. These, he thought, could be disposed of at a fair price if prompt action were taken, because the shortage of these vessels was world-wide.

It was the belief of Mr. Gillen that the opposition of the Shipping Board as well as the Senate commitees to any reduction in price would have to be lifted. Prices of bottoms could not be held up under the reflection of falling ton values, he testified. He thought the Government would have to do as any private concern that is overstocked—make up its mind to take its losses with courage.

In view of the conditions which he had described in the handling of the affairs of the Shipping Board, Mr. Gillen was asked by Chairman Walsh how the Shipping Board or the Emergency Fleet Corporation could pass upon or inaugurate further policies affecting shipping so that the Government could function in a manner beneficial to the merchant marine. He replied that they could not do so.

Chairman Walsh then asked:

"Even though you have stated that you found no fraud on the part of Government officials or shipbuilders, would not the conditions which you found have been such as to make it extremely difficult to ascertain if there had been any frauds?

"It would be almost impossible to find out whether frauds had been committed on the outside," replied Mr. Gillen.

Questioned About Judge Payne.

In view of the fact that some reference had been made in previous testimony to the "quick judgments" by Judge Payne, in the settlement of claims presented to the Shipping Board by contractors, Representative Steele explained that his questions leading up to those statements were not intended in criticism. In fact he said he had seen Judge Payne make decisions in which he had found that his judgment was unusually accurate.

Chairman Walsh asked Mr. Gillen if Judge Payne, in making such decisions, had done so on the basis of information provided him in connection with contracts, and in pursuance of a well-defined policy, and the witness said he had.

When Representative Kelly asked if the appointments prior to that of Judge Payne might not have been improved on, Mr. Gillen suggested the question was unfair.

"I received my appointment from President Wilson," he remonstrated. "I am an honorable gentleman and a Republican."

Later, the witness decided to answer the question. He arose from the witness chair and with emphatic gestures make this statement:

"I have stated to the President-elect of the United States, that the administrative offices of our Government, not only the Shipping Board, but the other large administrative jobs, should have men of known administrative ability, and I suggested to him that he should tell the Senate committee which must approve of the appointments of the President, that it has just as much responsibility as the President in making these selections. He should make the Senate take the full responsibility as much as it does in treaty making, and the President should not feel hurt when it acts in this way."

Both Parties Responsible.

Not until the administrative offices of the Government were filled in this way would we have efficient government, asserted Mr. Gillen, who added that the Republicans were just as much responsible as the Democrats. The trouble was, he said, that too many politicians were placed in the large administrative posts.

When the session adjourned Mr. Gillen was asked if he cared to supplement his testimony to the extent of indicating what consideration President-elect Harding had given to his suggestions. He declined to make any comment further than to say that he had had a long conference, probably an hour and a half, with Mr. Harding following the Senator's nomination at Chicago.

Mr. Gillen, who is a lawyer of Racine, Wis., became associated on Oct. 1, 1919, with Judge Payne, at the latter's request, in the liquidation of the war program of the United States Shipping Board, the reorganization of the Emergency Fleet Corporation and the Shipping Board and in general administrative problems. He has had wide experience in general business administration, particularly with reference to the reorganization of corporations that needed to be put on an efficient and paying basis.

The hearing will be continued this morning at 9:30 o'clock at the Federal Building.

PLEADS GUILTY TO COUGHLIN CRIME

Pascal Will Be Sentenced Saturday for Abduction and Murder of Child.

HE SMILES AT TESTIMONY

Mother of Stolen Boy Sits Close to His Slayer as Crime Is Described.

NORRISTOWN, Pa., Nov. 17.—Sentence will be imposed next Saturday on August Pascal, alias Pasquale, "The Crank," self-confessed abductor and slayer of Blakely Coughlin. Pascal peaded guilty today to second degree murder and also to a charge of kidnapping for extortion. He was tried before Judge A. S. Swartz without a jury. The maximum penalty for second degree murder is twenty years, while that for kidnapping is life imprisonment.

Eight witnesses were examined. Four of these gave expert testimony on medical and handwriting angles of the case. The others were George H. Coughlin, father of the thirteen months' old kidnapped child; Captain S. W. Gearhart of the Pennsylvania State Police, a photographer and a civil engineer. At the end of the testimony Judge Swartz asked the prisoner if he had any statement to make. J. Aubrey Anderson, counsel for Pascal, responded. "The prisoner advises me," he said, "that he has no statement to make and desires to make none." Judge Swartz then announced he would impose sentence Saturday morning.

Pascal's arraignment lasted less than four hours. Mr. Coughlin, who occupied the stand most of the morning, told in detail of the discovery of the loss of the child, which was stolen from its crib on June 2, the attempts he and his wife had made to find it, the long series of letters and telephone talks with "The Crank," which resulted in his being swindled out of $12,000, and the final conviction that Pascal told the truth in his alleged confession and that their baby was dead.

Mrs. Coughlin sat in an aisle seat close to "The Crank." It was the first time she had seen the prisoner and she kept her eyes fixed upon him unswervingly until the taking of testimony began. Then she paid strict attention to the witnesses, until her husband related the confession of Pascal that her baby was dead. Then her face flushed and with lips tightly drawn, she glanced away from the witness stand to look again at the prisoner.

Pascal, who was taken from his cell in the county jail earlier in the day to a room adjoining the court chamber to avoid a demonstration, listened intently to the testimony. He smiled as Mr. Coughlin told of the disappearance of the child, his communication with "The Crank" and the events leading to the capture.

Eleven letters alleged to have been written by Pascal to Mr. Coughlin in an effort to extort ransom for the return of the baby were offered in evidence. Some of them contained threats if the money was not forthcoming. The letters revealed that the title "The Crank" was adopted as a result of a suggestion in one of Coughlin's letters that Pascal might not be the real abductor, but a crank. In a subsequent letter Pascal, it was testified, wrote:

"You call me a crank. Well, I am 'The Crank.'" Thereafter he referred to himself as "The Crank."

District Attorney F. X. Renninger said the Commonwealth accepted the plea of guilty of murder in the second degree, because it was impossible to produce the body of the baby or to bring forward a witness who saw the body. He had only "The Crank's" confession, he said, that he stole the child, and that after having accidentally smothered him beneath his coat, threw the body into the Schuylkill River. Under the laws of the State "corpus delicti" must be produced to obtain a conviction of first degree murder.

Although Pascal lead the authorities to the spot where he said he threw the body, tied to an iron bar, into the river, no trace of it was found. Divers recovered the iron bar. Pathologists said the chemical action of the water probably destroyed the flesh and even the bones. It was more than four months after the child was stolen that Pascal, in his confession, told of throwing the body in the river the same night.

Pascal was captured at Egg Harbor, N. J., Aug. 2, by the Pennsylvania State police. Attempts to collect additional ransom money led to his apprehension.

THREATENS TO SEIZE COAL GOUGERS' FILES

WEEKS CHARGES INERTIA

Kings County District Attorney Says Profiteering Is Due to Government Inaction.

Armin W. Riley, Special Assistant to the United States Attorney General in the investigation of coal profiteering, threatened yesterday to raid the offices of some of the largest retailers of coal in this city, who are accused of refusing to co-operate with the Government in its attempt to get the facts about profiteering.

Mr. Riley said that several of the biggest dealers had refused his request for permission to examine their books. The investigation of the books of coal companies and public utilities conducted a month ago by Special Deputy Attorney General William McMurtrie Speer uncovered transactions in priority coal which resulted in charges that coal delivered to utility companies under priority orders had been sold secretly, the prices rocketed and big profits pocketed by utility officials and coal companies.

According to representations to the United States Senate Reconstruction Committee, a thorough examination of the books of coal companies and railroads would show further instances of profiteering and frauds against the Government, involving railroad men, Federal employes and coal companies.

Mr. Riley said yesterday that if the big retail coal companies refused to change their position he would ask for Federal subpoenas and have the books of the firms seized and impounded for the Grand Jury. The great profiteering is alleged to have taken place in other boroughs than Manhattan, where the prices have been from one to three dollars a ton less than in other parts of the city.

Mr. Riley named the Burns Bros. Coal Company as one which had declined a request to submit its books for examination. Michael F. Burns, President of the company, denied this and said the books of the company were open for examination at any time. A further effort would be made today, it was said, to examine the books of Madeira, Hill & Co., Inc., of 143 Liberty Street.

Federal officials were charged with inertia yesterday by District Attorney Harry E. Lewis of Brooklyn, who said:

"The people of Brooklyn should not be out in the cold while some of the Federal officials are failing to meet the very serious emergency which confronts us with reference to the sale and delivery of coal.

"The situation was apparent to every one months and months ago, and something should have been done by those who had Federal jurisdiction to make certain that the conditions we are now laboring under would not arise."

The Wholesale Coal Trade Association adopted resolutions yesterday which will cut off profiteering and uneconomical marketing of coal, according to the association.

One measure limits the profits of the wholesaler to 10 per cent, and another provides that not more than two jobbers shall get possession of the coal between the mines and the consumers. The members of the association pledged themselves to observe these rules.

Curb Market Building Plans Filed.

Plans have been filed with the Manhattan Bureau of Buildings for the construction of a seven-story building for the Curb Market. It will be located at 113 to 123 Greenwich Street, having a frontage of 178.2 feet and a depth of 99.8 feet. It will be fireproof and will be occupied by a stock exchange and restaurant on the first floor, with a visitors' gallery on the next floor and offices above. The New York Curb Market Realty Association is the owner of record. Starrett & Van Vleck, the architects, have estimated the cost at $1,100,000.

LIMIT COAL MIDDLEMEN.

Anthracite Committee Summons Operators in Price Inquiry.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17.—Definite steps were taken by the Fair Practices Committee of the Anthracite Coal Operators' Association today to cut high prices of coal through the elimination of middlemen in the industry. The names of a number of mine operators, said to be selling anthracite at high prices, were laid before the committee for action, and they were notified to appear at the next meeting to determine the facts of their sales.

It was the decision of the committee that the resolutions adopted last week by the operators mean that where coal is not sold directly by the producer to the retailer there shall be but one reasonable charge added to the cost of producing. This means the elimination of many resales which would increase the price asked of the retailer or consumer.

3 DIE IN ORANGE FIRE.

Mother and Two Little Daughters Are Trapped in Home.

Special to The New York Times.

ORANGE, N. J., Nov. 17.—Mrs. Hermina Herk and her daughters, Catherine, 7 years old, and Theresa, 5 months old, were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their home in Vaux Hall soon after midnight this morning. The house was occupied by three families, consisting of eighteen persons, most of them children. The flames had gathered such headway when discovered that most of the occupants had to be rescued from windows by neighbors.

RESCUERS SAVE TEN FROM BURNING MINE

Five Kentucky Miners, Trapped Three Miles From Entrance, Succumb to Gas.

EARLINGTON, Ky., Nov. 17.—Ten miners were rescued today from the burning Arnold coal mine near here. The bodies of five others were recovered. One person was still missing.

The rescue, effected by tunneling around the fire which had shut off the single entry to the mine, came twenty hours after the flames broke out. Three white miners among the sixteen trapped are among the dead, all of the rescued being negroes, as is the one missing man.

The missing man is Emmett Francis, a 17-year-old negro trapper. Hope for his rescue alive is practically at an end. The men were trapped three miles back in the mine when the fire broke out yesterday afternoon. The first rescue party, after forging into the mine for a good distance, was forced to return because of the denseness of the smoke and gas. Later another rescue party was organized and, wearing gas masks, reached the imprisoned men. The rescue work went on throughout the night.

Fix Blame on Captain of Lost Ship.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 17.—Captain Harry A. Biggins, master of the concrete steamer Cape Fear, which was sunk off Newport on Oct. 29 with a loss of seventeen lives in a collision with the Savannah liner City of Atlanta, was found guilty of violating pilot rules, unskilfullness and criminal negligence by the local board of the United States Steamboat Inspection Service today. The Board ordered Captain Biggins's license as master and pilot revoked.

The Man's Shop
A Floor of Complete Masculinity

There are the Twentieth Century Limited, the Pennsylvania Special and the Express Elevators to The Man's Shop at Lord & Taylor's

Yale Bowl or Polo Grounds

ON the side lines—at Thanksgiving dinner—at the Horse Show or the week's newest play—the Express Elevators to The Man's Shop furnish the air line to prompt preparation.

Before you dash off to New Haven, here is your English ulster, fleecy and fit—your suit that goes with it—your wool or "two-in-one" gloves.

Or your coat of perfectly matched imported glove leather—a doeskin London raincoat—a muffler of Scotch yarn or Swiss knitted silk. These Scotch knitted waistcoats go well with a Norfolk-knickerbocker suit—college men wear them with everyday clothes. The new shaggy-brushed wool jackets and every type of sweater made in Europe and America.

Steamer rugs and warm motor robes are not to be overlooked—here in extensive assortments for open car or closed.

Will your chauffeur be comfortable without these fleece-lined gauntlets, or a coon collar and cap with gloves to match?

This complete motor livery department is prepared to furnish everything in regulation or dress livery—fur-lined coats for the chauffeur and fur coats for the owner.

Brogues and walking boots, wool hosiery, luncheon kits—all at a moment's notice—with swinging topcoats for the Horse Show and all the evening things for the Thanksgiving season.

Dollar for Dollar

How is the depreciated dollar related to mortgages?

Your dollar to-day—be it depreciated or not—still buys a dollar's worth of mortgage.

When this mortgage is paid off, it will be paid off in dollars of the value at that day. They may be worth twice what they are to-day.

In these days of overcharge and profiteering, it is reassuring to find something where the price has not gone up.

Mortgages guaranteed by the Bond & Mortgage Guarantee Company or Mortgage Certificates so guaranteed are for sale at all of our offices.

CITY TO TIGHTEN THEATRE FIRE RULES

Young Children Unattended to Be Barred and Certain Galleries Forbidden.

CHANGE IN LAW AS TO EXITS

Children's Society and Motion-Picture Association Co-operate in Reform.

The barring of young children entirely from motion picture houses, the abolition of galleries from non-fireproof picture places and other regulations to minimize loss of life in any future panics like that in the New Catharine Theatre on Sunday night were urged yesterday and will be considered at the conference of city officials regarding the lessons of the disaster called for tomorrow by Chief Assistant District Attorney Alfred J. Talley.

The Children's Society will press for legislation placing heavy penalties and the loss of license on motion picture proprietors who admit children under 16 years old unescorted by parents or guardians. The sudden revival of this law, which has been treated as a dead letter for several months, took place yesterday when Elsie Esposito, 30 years old, proprietress of the Bleecker Street Theatre, at Bleecker and Thompson Streets, was held in $500 bail in the Jefferson Market Court for admitting a child unaccompanied by parent or guardian. She is alleged to have let an 11-year-old boy named Joseph Viola, of 22 Macdougal Street, come in by himself. She denied the charge.

A change in the fire laws regarding exits may be urged to insure that the crowds at one exit in a panic will not cut off access to the other exit, as occurred in the gallery of the New Catharine Theatre. The Motion Picture Theatrical Association went even further on this subject yesterday in a statement, which said:

"This catastrophe brings home the urgent necessity of an immediate amendment to the section in New York's Building Ordinance which permits a gallery in buildings that are not Class A fireproof construction, and that do not have exterior courts, as required in the section covering first-class theatres."

4 GUILTY IN STRIKE DEATH.

B. R. T. Men Accept First Degree Manslaughter Charge.

Before Justice Cropsey in the Criminal Branch of the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, yesterday, four of eight men indicted for murder for the killing of a passenger on a Sea Beach train during the recent strike on the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company pleaded guilty to manslaughter in the first degree. They are James L. Del Papial, Michael Goluchio, Armielo Spracco and Simon Cohen.

While the strike was on a number of strikers stoned a subway train in the open cut near Fort Hamilton Avenue. Frederick Friedman, 17 years old, of 2,111 Sixty-fourth Street, a passenger, was struck by a stone and killed and the motorman was badly injured.

The four men were remanded for sentence on Nov. 29. The other defendants will probably be called for trial today.

200 Friends Honor Barrett.

About 200 friends of Alfred M. Barrett, newly appointed Public Service Commissioner, honored him at a dinner at the Waldorf last night. This is the first time that a resident of Queens has headed the commission, and the guests, most of whom came from that borough, displayed their joy at the distinction.

SWIMMING SUITS REVISED.

A. A. U. Told Those Worn by Girls Were Criticised by Europeans.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 17.—Girl swimmers who compete in Amateur Athletic Union contests in future must wear swimming suits that come higher about the neck and must be cut with a due allowance for shrinkage, under a rule adopted last night at the final session of the annual convention of the Union here.

Judge Bartow S. Weeks, Chairman of the Legislative Committee, described the low-cut and tight-fitting suits worn by American girls in the Olympic Games, and said these girls had been criticised by the Europeans.

Under the terms of the new ruling, regulation suits must be worn by both men and women.

The convention yesterday elected Robert S. Weaver of Los Angeles President and awarded the 1921 meeting to Chicago. What was viewed as a victory for the "insurgent forces" within the A. A. U. was scored in the passage of a resolution calling for an investigation of charges that American athletes at the Olympic Games were badly treated, both as to accommodations at Antwerp and transportation. The resolution was sponsored by Sam Goodman, President of the Pacific Coast Association.

ROMANELLI CONVICTED.

Guilty of Stealing 1,000 Gallons of Alcohol Which Caused 100 Deaths.

John Romanelli, alleged head of a band charged with having stolen and sold 1,000 gallons of wood alcohol which, as "whisky," caused 100 deaths in New England cities, was last evening found guilty of grand larceny in the first degree by a jury before Justice Kapper, in the Brooklyn Supreme Court. He will be arraigned for sentence on Monday.

Romanelli is an undertaker and is known as a "big man" in the South Brooklyn Italian colony, where he has been active in politics. With three others he was indicted for the theft of ten drums of wood alcohol which were awaiting shipment to London. The alcohol was taken to Romanelli's garage where it was drawn from the drums and placed in barrels. The drums were then filled with water and sent to England. The alcohol was sold to a man in Manhattan.

Romanelli denied any wrongdoing, saying he had nothing to do with the theft. The three other indicted men will be tried next week.

Hat Blown Over Eyes, Car Kills Her

An unidentified woman, about 22 years old, wearing a large brown velvet hat, a broadcloth coat with black fur collar and blue taffeta dress, was knocked down and killed at 9 o'clock last night at 174th Street and Webster Avenue by a trolley car. Witnesses said she was crossing the road when the brim of her hat was blown down over her eyes and prevented her seeing the car.

REPUBLICANS PLAN TO WIN NEXT MAYOR

Declare They Can "Go It Alone" and Carry City Without Fusion Help.

ENJOY A "VICTORY" DINNER

County Committee's Speakers' Bureau Celebrates November Outcome and Becomes Permanent Body.

Plans for the Mayoralty campaign next year were discussed last night at a "Victory" dinner given at the Café Boulevard by the Speakers' Bureau of the Republican County Committee. Officials of the organization are in favor of "going it alone" next Fall and putting a straight ticket in the field, despite the suggestions already made by independents to organize a fusion against Tammany.

Samuel S. Koenig, Chairman of the committee, suggested that the Speakers' Bureau be made a permanent organization, and this will be done. Officers will be elected and a dinner will be given every month.

Harold G. Aron will be continued as Chairman. He explained that during the recent campaign the bureau furnished speakers for 1,000 meetings, about 60 per cent. of which were held out of doors. About 200 volunteer speakers were enrolled and worked without remuneration. Fully half of them were present last night.

A proposition by Ely Rosenberg that the bureau go on record as favoring the use of voting machines in future elections was unanimously approved.

Chairman Aron, who presided, said the organization was ready for next year's campaign. The speakers would be constantly drilled and instructed.

Mrs. Helen Varick Boswell, Chairman of the Women's Committee of the County Committee, said she was in favor of putting a straight Republican ticket in the field and fighting Tammany on its own ground.

"I believe in following up our success," said Mrs. Boswell. "This is not the time to rest on our laurels. We licked 'em once and we will show that we can do it again. Fusion will not be necessary. The Republican women of New York are all ready to continue the fight, and it can't come any too soon to suit us."

Mrs. William Vanamee and other speakers also advocated a straight out-and-out Mayoralty fight and predicted that the Republicans would be successful.

MAROONED WITH DEAD WIFE.

Lighthouse Keeper Imprisoned Three Days by Storm Is Freed.

MIDLAND, Ont., Nov. 17.—Forced to remain on his post by the storm which raged on Lake Huron, though nearly prostrated by the death of his wife, for twenty-two years his cole companion, Alfred H. Griffiths, keeper of the lighthouse on "Giant's Tomb," stood solitary vigil over his lights and his dead for three days and nights.

Today, the storm having subsided, he summoned help from the mainland, twelve miles distant. The body of his wife, who died suddenly Friday night, was brought ashore for burial.

TEAGLE CRITICISES FOREIGN OIL POLICY

Other Governments Are Obstructing Development, He Tells Petroleum Institute.

ATTACKS RECENT TREATIES

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The world outlook for petroleum was discussed today by experts at the first meeting of the American Petroleum Institute.

Richard Airey, Vice President of the Roxana Petroleum Corporation, which is included in the Royal Dutch group, expressed the opinion that Great Britain was merely seeking her own necessary supplies of oil, and did not desire to exclude foreign interests. Frederic R. Kellogg dealt with the Mexican situation, and declared that the policy of Carranza, which seemed to be carried on by de la Huerta, must give way to a more enlightened attitude under Obregon. W. C. Teagle, President of the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, said that if foreign Governments persisted in nationalizing their oil supplies for the benefit of their own citizens the United States must follow suit. George Otis Smith, Director of the United States Geological Survey, pleaded for a worldwide development, backed in each case by the Government of the nation involved.

Teagle Attacks Foreign "Obstruction."

The American petroleum industry cannot "close its eyes to a portent of obstruction that looms in its way," due to the attitude of foreign Governments, Mr. Teagle said in his speech.

"Certain Governments, their realization of the importance of petroleum quickened by the war, are not only essaying to enter the oil business themselves, but also directly to engross the sources of supply and reserve the development of such sources to their own citizens, companies and capital," he added. The speaker said these efforts tended to the "establishment of a system which we believe unjust, injurious and unwise." He mentioned England, France, Japan and Mexico in discussing the world situation.

"Our British friends," he said, "in endeavoring to explain the position their Government has taken since the armistice, have argued that as the United States is now supplying 70 per cent. of the world's current production, we should be well content with things as they are. This is an entirely fallacious view. Is it reasonable to ask that Americans go heedlessly on to the quick exhaustion of their own supply and then retire from the oil business? The American petroleum industry cannot accept such a conclusion. It must look to the development of petroleum outside the United States.

"What we are now obliged to consider is the fact that by the policy of Government control and restriction, the oil industry has been injected into international politics, where, as occasional revelations during the last year compel us to believe, the rule of 'open covenants openly arrived at' has fallen into a state of deplorable neglect."

As examples of "foreign Governments deliberately placing obstacles in the way of those who would like to assist in the development of new sources of supply," Mr. Teagle cited the San Remo agreement "proposing a division of Mesopotamian and other Near East territory between the British and French," and the "tri-partite agreement" recently entered into between Britain, France and Italy defining spheres of influence in Turkey "which is susceptible of diplomatic inquiry as to its true meaning."

Mr. Teagle added that the United States "might be forced as a matter of necessary self-protection, to consider the adoption of measures reciprocally to consider its petroleum resources for its own people," and stop the supply to other nations.

"It is to be hoped the United States will never be forced to such steps," he concluded. "We do not believe it will be necessary. The world is too anxious for petroleum. This it can obtain only if there be maintained everywhere a free and fair field to all, with special governmental favor to none."

Defends British Policy.

Following the great war it was impossible for Great Britain to regard with complacency "its utter helplessness in the matter of oil supplies," Mr. Airey said in his speech.

"Even during the war Great Britain joined the noble army of wildcatters by expending $5,000,000 in searching for oil in England and Scotland," he continued. "It seems to me that the problem which faces Great Britain today is to work out a policy which will be fair and non-discriminatory, and which will, at the same time, give some recognition to the prior rights of its citizens in the development of its petroleum reserves. There is nothing new in this theory, and have we not something along the same lines in the protection which has been granted the American merchant marine in order to foster and develop the maritime interests of the United States?

"Motives which have been ascribed to Great Britain of seeking to create a monopoly over the potential oil lands of the world are untenable. Such a grip of the world petroleum industry is impossible. So strongly entrenched is the United States in the great world reservoir of oil that it would be well-nigh impossible to take the lead away from her, even assuming there was the slightest evidence of a desire to do so."

Mr. Kellogg said that the commercial development of petroleum in Mexico began in 1900, when Edward L. Doheny and Charles A. Canfield acquired their first properties by purchase from private ownership, who had held them from the crown of Spain by titles dating back 300 years. He asserted that neither man had been a "concessionaire."

GERMAN OIL INTERESTS FORM NEW COMBINE

Holding Company to Be Set Up in Holland Suggests Ambitious Future Program.

By GEORGE RENWICK.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 17.—An interesting move is contemplated by the two biggest petroleum concerns in Germany, the Deutsche Petroleum and the Deutsche Erdoel Companies. The directors of these two companies are inclined to the belief that the concerns would make greater and more effective progress in foreign markets if they were not purely German and had foreign capital and influence behind them, so they are considering a proposal for setting up a "covering company" in Holland. The company will be floated there with capital between 200,000,000 and 250,000,000 florins (about $80,000,000 to $100,000,000), whereof 60,000,000 florins will be issued at once.

To this concern the Deutsche Petroleum and Deutsche Erdoel Companies will each hand over shares to the nominal value of 17,000,000 marks. For that each company will receive 20,000,000 florins in shares of the Dutch company. The remainder of the capital will be issued, so it is proposed, as the need arises and care will be taken to allot shares so that control may not pass into foreign competing hands.

Large blocks of shares in both the German companies, especially the Erdoel Company, are in the hands of the so-called Liebig concern, which controls important Galician oil interests and has French and Czech capital behind it. It probably will have the deciding voice in the matter, and it is possible that all these concerns may link up into a trust.

The high figure at which the capital for the proposed covering company is placed suggests German plans to meet English and Dutch competition, are not unambitious and include more than outlined above.

TELLS OF RUMELY COUNCILS

Matthew B. Clausen Describes Conferences of Pro-German Leaders.

Evidence to show the intimacy of Dr. Edward A. Rumely with the men at the [illegible] of the pro-German propaganda movement in this country in 1915 was submitted by the Government yesterday in the Federal Court at the trial of Dr. Rumely and S. Walter Kaufman and Norvin R. Lindheim, lawyers, on the charge of concealing the alleged German ownership of The Evening Mail while the newspaper was under Dr. Rumely's control, from 1915 to 1917.

Matthew B. Clausen, formerly advertising director for the Hamburg American Line in this city, testified that on several occasions in 1915 he met Dr. Rumely at conferences in the office of a Dr. Fuhr at 1,123 Broadway. The conferences were attended by Dr. Bernhard Dernburg of the German Embassy, Dr. Heinrich F. Albert, the Kaiser's fiscal agent in America before the United States entered the war; William Bayard Hale, who, the witness said, was employed as a writer by Dr. Albert, and Dr. Fuhr.

Mr. Clausen declared the purpose of the conferences was to arrange for the presentation of the German point of view in the newspapers of this country. He said Dr. Hale had an office above that of Dr. Fuhr, and that the floor below was occupied by George Sylvester Viereck, publisher of The Fatherland.

William H. Coverdale, a consulting engineer, testified he met Dr. Rumely in 1915 before the latter purchased the newspaper, and that Dr. Rumely told him he wanted to gain control of The Evening Mail so that he could set forth clearly the German side of the war. The trial will continue today.

ROADS FALL SHORT OF EXPECTED INCOME

FAIL TO EARN SIX PER CENT.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The Bureau of Railway Economics announced tonight that the net operating income for September of the class 1 railroads of the country fell approximately $29,343,000, or 26.9 per cent., short of the amount expected to be earned under the increased rates fixed by the Interstate Commerce Commission in accordance with the Transportation act. The figure is based on reports from 207 railroads of that class having a total mileage of 237 899 miles.

The net operating income of the roads for September totaled $79 873,655, a gain of only 2.8 per cent. over that for the same month in 1919, despite the increased rates. It was also only approximately $4 800 000 above the standard return which the railroads would have received had they still been operating under the guarantee provided for them in the Transportation act but which ended on Sept. 1. On the basis of a return of 6 per cent. to be earned on the tentative valuation made by the Interstate Commerce Commission for rate-making purposes, their net operating income for September should have been $109,220,000.

Total operating revenues for the 207 roads amounted to $617,162,978, or an increase of 23.7 per cent. over September last year, while operating expenses were $509,013,974, or an increase of 27.2 per cent. compared with the same month in 1919.

A compilation made by the Bureau also shows that the net operating income in every district fell below what it should have been, the biggest shortage being in the Eastern District, where it amounted to 42.3 per cent. The Southern District was next, with 31.8 per cent., while the net operating income for the Western District was 9.7 per cent. below the expected amount.

Complete reports from the Eastern District show that the total operating revenues for September were $285,176,246, or an increase over those for September, 1919, of 27.8 per cent., while operating expenses totaled $244,609,072, or 30.7 per cent above those for the same month last year. This left the net operating income for that district at $27,323,483, or an increase of only 2.2 per cent over that for one year ago.

Complete reports from the Southern District showed the total operating revenues to be $89 559,005, or a gain of 26 per cent over September, 1919, and operating expenses at $77,352,020, a gain of 23 1 per cent. compared with the same period last year. Net operating income for the Southern District was $10,363,033, or an in rease of 92.2 per cent. over that for one year ago.

With reports missing from three roads, the Arizona Eastern and the Copper Range railroad and the Kansas City Terminal Company, total operating revenues for the Class 1 roads in the Western district were $242,427,727, or an increase of 18.5 per cent. over September, 1919. Operating expenses were $187,052 882, which was an increase of 24 7 per cent., while the net operating incom amounted to $42,190,139, or a decrease of 7.3 per cent.

Western Union Telegraph Company must adjust its accounts with connecting foreign administrations. Some time ago the company's attention was called to the apparently unwarranted delay on its part in making refunds and to the considerable amount of such refunds due to the department. The company was subsequently informed to the effect that the department could not be expected to continue to pay its current bills for telegraph charges unless the company should expedite the payment of funds due to the department. The company has now notified the department that it will not carry at the reduced Government rates messages originating outside of the United States and that it will not receive any Government messages which are not paid for in cash at the time of delivery to the company.

"The legal principles controlling the landing and regulation of cables in the United States are well established. In the absence of Congressional legislation these matters are regulated by the Executive by virtue of his authority with respect to the conduct of relations with foreign countries. The Executive may prevent the landing of a cable or permit it on conditions which will protect the interests of the United States; and if a landing has been made without the consent of the Government, the operation of the line may be prevented.

"It has been the uniform policy of the Government to allow the landing of cables only on condition that the Government of the United States should be entitled to exercise and enjoy the same or similar privileges with regard to the control and use of such lines as are exercised and enjoyed by any foreign Government. Obviously the law and the policy must be the same, whether telegraphic connection with a foreign country is by a land line or by a submarine cable.

"Nothing unreasonable has been asked of the Western Union Company; nothing not requested from, and without objection granted by, other companies. Much less has been asked than some companies give the Government. It may be mentioned that certain companies accord to the Government of the United States entirely free cable service for official messages. Obviously the United States could not be expected to allow the Western Union Company, an American corporation, to charge for its messages twice the rate charged, for example, the British Government, nor to accede to a requirement that the ordinary practice of business with respect to periodical settlement of accounts, which is the only practical way for the Government to settle accounts of the character in question, shall be set aside in dealings with our Government.

"The department has in a conciliatory spirit made clear its willingness to make prompt payment of any funds due to the company on receipt of assurances as to a reasonably prompt payment of the funds due by the company to the department, and it has similarly signified its readiness to render all possible assistance and make all proper concessions with a view to facilitating the adjustment of accounts relating to refunds due the department and of minimizing the expense incident thereto."

An official of the State Department, when asked the amount involved in the controversy, said it was not more than $100,000 and that he believed it to be nearer $30,000.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17 (Associated Press).—The power of the executive branch of the Government to revoke cable landing permits has never been established in the courts. In order to establish this power of the President, the State Department sent to Congress a bill to prevent the unauthorized landing of cables, providing for injunction proceedings against operation of any cables not complying with the landing license granted by the Government.

The measure never was reported from committee, where it still lies. In the absence of supporting legislation, it is known that the State Department depends in its present dispute with the Western Union in some measure upon the single decision approaching the question handed down by a United States Judge.

Because of the Western Union Company's demand for prepayment on Government cable messages, it is understood that orders have been issued in some departments that business be routed over the lines of other cable companies as much as possible.

EX-KING OF GREECE WANTS PLEBISCITE

Queen Mother Olga of Greece is expected to assume the Regency. The Queen Mother is the widow of King George, who was assassinated at Saloniki in 1913. Admiral Courdouriotis is the present Regent.

The resignation of Premier Venizelos has been made public.

"Constantine Our Rightful King."

"Constantine is our rightful King," ex-Premier Gounaris, leader of the successful party in the Greek elections, told The Associated Press correspondent yesterday, "and we expect him back as soon as a plebiscite is held showing that the people want him.

"We expect to assume the Government in a day or two," continued M. Gounaris, "when the results of the elections become official. Then we shall quickly call the Chamber and have a plebiscite.

"It was the intention of Constantine to return after the plebiscite, and I have no message so far from him that he is coming earlier."

"If the plebiscite shows the people want Constantine, I do not see why France or Great Britain should interfere. We won the elections because the people regarded the Venizelists as usurpers by force.

"We wish to avoid civil war and further troubles. We shall pursue a policy of conciliation, not vengeance, toward the Venizelists. We do not expect a revolt in the army, which is really Constantinist.

"We shall continue the foreign policy of Venizelos. We hope to keep Smyrna through an amicable arrangement with the Turks."

M. Gounaris, a till, thin, clean-shaven man of about 50 years, appeared wide awake and alert, despite his recent sleepless nights in his guarded headquarters in the home of relatives.

Talk o' Annulling Army Vote.

There is much interest in the vote cast by the army, which has not yet been returned, and which it has been thought might affect the Venizelist cause favorably. The Opposition's press bureau, however, is quoted as declaring that the voting at the front will be annulled.

There are rumors that it is possible that the Greek Army, which is supposed to be loyal to former Premier Venizelos, may create the Republic of Smyrna, in Asia Minor.

It is probable that the Cabinet selected by the leaders of the dominant party in Greece will hold office temporarily until a plebiscite is held at which the people will vote upon the return of former King Constantine. It is also believed that the Opposition will make efforts to determine the views of the outside world relative to the results of the election.

There was a panic on the Bourse when it became certain that the Venizelist Government had been defeated, the United States dollar doubling in value. The city is quiet, and the Parliament House is occupied by troops.

One of the election aftermaths here is the circulation of a report that supporters of Venizelos planned a coup d'état to prevent their defeat. M. Montagna, the Italian Minister, is said to have called upon Venizelos and, informing him of the plot, told the Premier that he would be responsible if there was any bloodshed.

It is declared that Premier Venizelos, before resigning, issued the strictest orders for the enforcement of order.

The newspapers opposed to Venizelos announce that most of the Venizelist functionaries will be retained in the new Government.

It is the frequently voiced opinion of political observers here that Lloyd George favors the return of Prince George, the eldest son of ex-King Constantine, to the throne, and that the British Prime Minister indicated his abandonment of Venizelos three weeks ago by his notification that Great Britain would refuse to surrender Cyprus to the Greeks.

It is believed here that the Allies will make known to Greece their intention not to recognize Constantine should the ex-King be restored to the throne.

Troops Sing Constantine's Song.

The streets of Athens today were filled with soldiers bearing olive branches and singing the song of Constantine entitled "The Eagle's Son," which had been forbidden for three years. The house of ex-Premier Venizelos was closely guarded by troops.

Most of the stores are closed, and those that remain open have their iron shutters ready to be dropped instantly in case of necessity. Troops continue to patrol the city, although both the political parties have instructed their adherents to keep the peace. Machine guns have been mounted on the Parliament House, and there also was a battery on Lykabettos Hill.

M. Giparis, chief of the Venizelist detectives, was shot by an infantry Colonel when he demanded more troops.

Reasons for his defeat are said by M. Venizelos to be the weariness of the people with politics, their desire for a rest and for the return of soldiers from the front, and emphasis placed by his opponents on the charge that he was putting Greece into the hands of foreign nations. M. Venizelos declares that this charge aroused fears of protracted wars in connection with his Greater Greece policy, and he says popular jealousy played a part in his reverse at the polls last Sunday.

To these, he declares, may be added various grievances against the internal administration, and the feeling that he himself was the victim of his own ideas of aggrandizement. M. Venizelos takes his defeat courageously and calmly. Speaking of himself he said:

"I am tired and want a rest. Now I will have time to enjoy reading political history."

LONDON, Nov. 17.—Ex-King Constantine, interviewed by the correspondent of The London Times at Lucerne, declared that he would not return to the Greek throne except by the mandate of the Greek people expressed in a plebiscite. He desired in this way, he said, to prove to the Allies how Venizelos had misjudged the feelings of Greece. He hinted that if one Ministry was not welcome to the Entente, he would choose another, as above all he wanted a united and prosperous people.

He expressed surprise at the general astonishment over the result of the Greek elections, as he had never left Greece, he declared, by the wish of the people, who had just had their first opportunity at the ballot box of giving their opinion.

Constantine asserted that he had always been pro-British, although misapprehensions had given the contrary impression.

In his first public declaration the Greek Premier Rhallis is quoted by the Athens correspondent of The Daily Mail as saying: "My Government will maintain the same foreign policy as Venizelos. The reports that the Powers, especially Great Britain, will, after the Venizelos misfortune, adopt a hostile attitude to Greece I consider entirely unfounded."

The Premier has appointed M. Counaris Minister of Finance, M. Stjapos Minister of the Interior and Nikolas Kalogeropoulos Minister of Occupied Territory. MM. Boussios, Vozikis, Tsaldaris and Argyropoulos will probably complete the Cabinet.

PARIS, Nov. 17.—The chances of ex-King Constantine's return to the throne of Greece are steadily diminishing, according to opinion in French circles, as the anti-Venizelos party in Athens is coming to realize the strength of the allied opinion against such a restoration.

The exact form the opposition to the ex-King will take has not yet defined itself, but it was indicated at the French Foreign Office today that a concrete expression of the French and British points of view would probably be formulated by these two countries.

The allied nations must not consider the result of the Greek elections as a simple internal political manifestation in which they need take no interest, says Jean Guillemin, former French Minister at Athens, in an interview published by the Petit Parisien. He says that the Allies must demand of the new Athens Government "serious guarantees" for their security in the Near East.

Consternation in Constantinople.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 16.—The defeat of Premier Venizelos of Greece created profound consternation here, resulting in street riots. The disturbances, however, were easily quelled.

Georgios Roussos, recently appointed Greek diplomatic representative at Constantinople, and the ersonnel of the Greek Legation handed in their resignations as a protest against the action of the Greek people in defeating Venizelos. The depression of the Greeks and Armenians is indescribable.

The Turks are apparently expecting the collapse of the Greek army in Anatolia and the success of Mustapha Kemal Pasha, the Turkish Nationalist leader.

SALONIKI, Nov. 17.—Manifestations were held today by the Popular Party during which the troops shouted for the return of ex-King Constantine to power. The troops paraded through the streets carrying a portrait of the former monarch. During the excitement the Liberal Club was sacked.

LONDON AWAITS ACTION BY CONSTANTINISTS

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—The downfall of Venizelos and the new situation in Greece were discussed at a Cabinet council today, but no decisions were reached, owing to the impossibility of forecasting the political developments which may ensue. There remains, however, little likelihood of interference by the Allies with the electoral verdict of the Greek people unless it is made the basis for a change in policy which would be tantamount to the repudiation of the treaties by which Venizelos realized his ambitions of a great and powerful Greece.

It is stated that in regard to ex-King Constantine the Allies are unlikely to take action unless his return should be called for by a plebiscite. Despite the rumors of the ex-monarch's intention to leave his refuge in Switzerland and make a dramatic entry into Athens, it is not believed that he will attempt a coup, which could so easily be rendered futile. It is pointed out that under the Peace Treaty the Allies gave Greece not only Thrace, but the European shore of the Dardanelles and Smyrna. The Army of Anatolia, now under General Paraskevopoulos, has been financed by Great Britain and would be impotent were allied influence withdrawn. Between now and the date of the plebiscite it is not only hoped, but considered probable in London political circles, that the Greek people and their new advisers will think twice before they fly in the face of their European benefactors to place an admitted German agent on the throne.

The fall of Venizelos is ascribed in Liberal quarters here to his failure to realize that common men in Greece, as in the rest of the world, want only peace, and have no stomach for militaristic or territorial ambitions.

His reverse at the polls is said by The Westminster Gazette to be "a moral for the allied statesmen who are making the same mistake as Venizelos did." The Gazette paints the outlook in dark colors.

"If Greece refuses to carry out the various missions which Venizelos undertook, and if at the same time the Bolsheviki should join hands with the Turkish Kemalites, the Turkish treaty, it is evident, would become something very like a scrap of paper, and unless the Allies were prepared to make good by their own efforts and a provision of forces, British, French and Italian, commensurate with their own plans, the whole of the Middle East would very quickly slip into a state of dangerous flux and disorder. Great Britain, after abolishing compulsory military service, is engaged in costly and ambitious enterprises in Mesopotamia and the Middle East, for which the British people have little stomach.

"The French are similarly engaged in Syria and Morocco, while committed to a European policy which must require the whole of their military strength. They, too, in spite of everything find themselves compelled, if not to abolish, at least to reduce the period of their military service. The result is that when force is required to carry out the treaties for which the Allies are jointly responsible it is simply not forthcoming. Everybody expects everybody else to do something; no one is prepared to move himself. All are aware that the tide of opinion in their respective countries is setting strongly against war and military expenditure for any purpose whatever.

"And yet, confronting them are these tremendous treaties constructed on the theory that conditions would always be what they were at the end of the great war, that Germany, Russia and Turkey would always be prostrate and powerless and the allied forces always overwhelming, and no means of meeting the emergencies that arise when these hypotheses prove untenable.

"The Allies are now faced with possibilities which may reduce all their schemes of last year to absurdity. If the Turks and Bolsheviki join hands, and there is no force to oppose them, the Turkish treaty will vanish into thin air. If no arrangement can be arrived at between the Baltic States and Poland, the Bolshevist attack on the Polish front may be renewed next year with redoubled energy, and if the Allies cannot order events on these fronts in any rational sequence or impose any discipline on the smaller States they may as well give up the pretense of authority and leave chaos to work itself out to its own conclusion.

"Plainly the time has come for them to bring their policy into some relation with the forces at their disposal and to decide which parts of their treaty policy they must frankly abandon and which they will defend by collective action. The Greek elections and the defeat of Wrangel make that decision imperative and urgent in regard to the Turkish treaty."

announce that recent shipments of furs from their Northern trading posts are now available for selection.

Prices on these new skins and garments have been readjusted to accord with late market fluctuations.

World wide contact with the great fur markets and the handling of skins from trapper to consumer enable Revillon Freres to offer highest quality furs at very moderate cost.

After months of inactivity, due to labor troubles, our workrooms have recently reopened. The collection is therefore as exceptional in late style as it is attractive in price.

MOORE TAKES EIGHT BLUES AND SIX REDS

Veteran Exhibitor Highly Successful With Hackney Entries at Horse Show.

SOME SURPRISES RECORDED

Chestnut Blossom and Hamilton Flame Bow to Rivals—The Crag Wins Broad Jump.

The veteran exhibitor, William H. Moore, owner of many of the best show horses in this country, took a heavy toll of blue ribbons yesterday at the National Horse Show at Madison Square Garden when the hackneys, in which he has made a specialty, dominated the ring for the greater part of the program. It was Jackson Day, so named for a type which has not only been most useful and popular, but one which has long been an important factor in the annual exhibitions. When the last of these classes had been judged Mr. Moore emerged with eight blues and six second prizes.

It was the opinion of many horsemen who gathered at the ringside early and remained late, that the hackneys shown yesterday were altogether the finest collection that had ever been seen in the garden at one time. They were the pick of the best of the type in the country, coming from but a few stables, chiefly those owned by Mr. Moore, R. Lawrence Smith and one or two others who have devoted much time to the development of the hackney.

That Mr. Moore made virtually a clean sweep was no surprise, considering that he has been the most successful breeder of this type. A few years ago Mr. Moore went to England in search of a stallion suitable for breeding the hackney and returned with Marlboro, which is now standing at the head of his stud. Marlboro has produced with remarkable success and it was chiefly his get that competed for honors yesterday, some of the rivals of the Moore entries having been bred by Mr. Moore and later sold to their present owners and exhibitors.

Honors for Seaton Seaton.

The most sensational of the entries made by Mr. Moore was Seaton Seaton, the two-year-old stallion, which, after winning in the class which made him the best stallion of his age, came through with a brilliant triumph in the evening, when he was adjudged the best hackney stallion in the show. In this championship event he scored over Seaton Dunbar, four years old, which also made a remarkably fine showing.

Seaton Seaton was the hit of the evening session, and rounds of applause greeted his victory. He is a brown colt, and in the lighting at the Garden appeared almost black. The judging required considerable time, for there was strong rivalry from Seaton Dunbar and Ambassador, owned by A. W. Atkinson. Seaton Seaton lacked the bulk of his rivals, but his action was vastly better than that of any of the other stallions shown. He went around the ring with a burst of speed and a freedom in his stride that caught the fancy of even the novices in the crowd.

The opinion was ventured by some good judges of this type that Seaton Seaton is the best two-year-old stallion that has been seen in many years. He has inherited the many fine qualities of his sire as well as his dam, Lady Seaton, which was long regarded as an excellent specimen. Seaton Dunbar, owned by R. Lawrence Smith, appeared sluggish at first, but as the judging progressed made a better impression, and on the last retrial made such a fine showing that he easily won second.

Seaton Seaton, coupled with Seaton Stranger, scored another triumph in the class for the two best foals of the same hackney mare. This was the second triumph for each of those stallions, as Seaton Stranger won the blue in the class for yearling stallions, in which he met a small but select class of entries.

R. Lawrence Smith, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the show, scored one of the most important victories of the morning session with Seaton Dunbar, which was adjudged the best hackney over 14.2. Seaton Dunbar, which was bred by Mr. Moore and sold to Mr. Smith for $5,000, came back yesterday to score over Ambassador owned by A. W. Atkinson, with third honors going to Romping Flash, owned by the Fairfield Farm.

Chestnut Blossom Defeated.

With the afternoon session came some surprises particularly when Mrs. Francis P. Garvan, who owns some of the finest ponies exhibited at any show, met with two defeats in classes where it appeared she held an exceptionally strong hand.

The first of the surprises came in the class for ponies under saddle in which Mrs. Garvan's Chestnut Blossom, a seven-year-old mare which had never been defeated, finally bowed to Little Fire Lady, owned by the Broadlawn Stable. Chestnut Blossom showed to good advantage, but was ridden by a man who was so large that he appeared out of proportion to his mount and the mare seemed unable to show at her best under the weight. On the other hand, Little Fire Lady was ridden by Miss Patty Vauclain, who handled her mount with such grace and skill that she finally found favor with the judges. Chestnut Blossom took second in the class.

If there was any fault to be found with the manner in which Chestnut Blossom was shown, no such excuse could be made for the defeat which Mrs. Garvan met with later when she entered one of her finest specimens for the Montpelier Challenge Cup. This was for hackneys 14.2 and under shown in harness. Mrs. Garvan's entry was Hamilton Flame, winner of the trophy last year, when he was quite a sensation.

There was a large class and from the original number the judges selected seven from which to make their selection. Among these were Hamilton Flame and Mighty Mite, a chestnut mare owned by the Cassilis Farm. Mighty Mite was the smallest of the competitors, but by far the most impressive. The judges sent the remaining contestants around the arena in a series of tests and Mighty Mite soon gained rounds of applause by her remarkable stride. Before she was finally brought to the judges Mighty Mite covered at least a mile at a fast pace around the arena and yet came back full of spirit and tugging at the reins. There was much applause when the blue was finally pinned on her. Second went to Fulange, owned by Miss Janice Liggett, there being but first and reserve prizes. Hamilton Flame went out of the ring a defeated champion, though having made a very good effort.

Pershing Entry Is Injured.

The Grafton broad jump, which was for officers only, was won by The Crag, owned by the Nineteenth Field Artillery of Fort Myer, Va., which negotiated a distance of twenty feet. This was one of the real hard tests of the day and for a time it threatened to result in a tie, as Dandy, from the stable of General Pershing and ridden by Major Quekemeyer, kept pace with the winner up to eighteen feet. At this point, where they were tied, the other competitors having been disposed of in the course of the test, Dandy sustained an injury in one of his efforts and could not continue. The Crag was given another chance and finally made a leap of twenty feet and took first.

The military numbers continue to be among the most popular at the Horse Show and so there was more than usual interest in the first trials for the Bowman Challenge Cup, offered by John McE. Bowman, for officers' chargers. The cup, valued at $1,500, is one of the most valuable being competed for at the Garden.

There were twenty-four competitors and the victory went to Allahmande, the thoroughbred which has now scored three successive victories since the opening of the show on Monday. The horse is owned by the Nineteenth Field Artillery of Fort Myer. In The Jockey Club Plate and the Troopers Class, in which he won on Monday, Allahmande was ridden by Major Patten, who was injured Tuesday. Yesterday the thoroughbred was ridden by Tommy McCreery, who formerly trained race horses. Allahmande gave an almost perfect performance, and the victor of the gelding was regarded by the admirers of the th[illegible] argument in the contention that the thoroughbred half-bred horse is the most suitable for military purposes. Allahmande, a son of Ormonde, is out of Garden of Allah.

Miss Ivy D. Maddison's Myopia captured the blue in the Belle Beach Cup competition, defeating Miss Janice Liggett's Bohemian Actress. Miss Isabella Wanamaker gained third prize with Dark Flower and fourth went to Miss Clara Peck's Allah.

MANY BOX PARTIES AT THE HORSE SHOW

Society Is Well Represented at Both the Afternoon and Evening Sessions.

Last night's attendance at the Horse Show was the largest so far this week, and there was much interest and enthusiasm over the polo chukkers. The majority of the boxes were well filled, and society came early.

Former Governor and Mrs. Charles S. Whitman visited the exhibition last night, being the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis L. Clarke in Box 40. Reginald C. Vanderbilt had among his guests Mrs. Craig Biddle, Mrs. Charles de L. Oelrichs and Mrs. Cornelius H. Tangeman.

There were parties in the boxes owned by Mr. and Mrs. Rufus L. Patterson, Mrs. Ben Ali Haggin, Mrs. Ambrose Monell and Mr. and Mrs. George E. Fahys. Miss Constance Fahys, who is an exhibitor, had a group of young friends. Mrs. William M. Fleitmann, Mrs. William H. Hamilton, Mrs. Thomas J. Regan and Lady Beck also entertained. Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Napoleon Bonaparte were among the guests of Harry D. Holloway in Box 17.

Mrs. Mitchell D. Follansbee entertained a party of twelve, and Mr. and Mrs. James A. Wigmore had a party of ten following a dinner at the St. Regis.

Better weather conditions seemed to increase the attendance at the afternoon session, and new faces were noticed in the boxes and on the promenade.

Mrs. Preston Gibson paid her first visit to the show during the afternoon. Mrs. Harry Harkness and Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Douglas of Minneapolis were guests of Harry D. Holloway in Box [illegible]. Miss Eleanora Sears, Mrs. Price Post, Mrs. David Wagstaff, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Post, Jr., Mrs. Charles Frederick Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Cowdin, Mrs. Charles de L. Oelrichs, Mrs. John S. Rogers, Miss Rosalie Coe, Mrs. F. Burrall Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Tod, Mrs. Anna Foulke, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Drexel Paul, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Clothier, Mrs. Alexander W. Biddle, Joseph E. Widener, Colonel Daniel Appleton, Anthony J. Drexel Biddle, Devereux Milburn, F. Ambrose Clark, and E. Victor Loew were also in attendance.

Mrs. Thomas J. Leonard attended the show yesterday. She was formerly Miss Louise G. Beavor Webb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Beavor Webb of 31 Park Avenue, and a young society horsewoman of prominence. Her marriage to Thomas J. Leonard of the Mounted Police Squad took place in October. She has been a familiar figure at many of the fashionable horse shows, standing at the head of the list of women riders and drivers for some years. She has not appeared in the ring so far this week, but her sister, Miss Edith S. Beavor Webb, rode during the afternoon.

ONTARIO POLOISTS WIN GARDEN MATCH

Defeat New York Trio in Exciting Game at Horse Show, 8½ Goals to 6.

Canada and the U. S. A. battled in the tanbark arena for polo honors last night in the continuation of the polo tournament being held in Madison Square Garden in connection with the National Horse Show, and Ontario, represented by a clever trio of mallet wielders, well mounted, proved to be the victorious team. The score was 8½ goals to 6. It was a brilliant game from first to last. Ontario had to allow a handicap of 1 goal to New York.

The teams were more evenly matched as regards skill and handicap than were the West Point and Squadron A teams which played on Tuesday night and the spectators appeared to be getting more familiar with the details of the game. As a result the contest proved to be even more popular than heretofore.

While the Ontario team was supposed to be Canadian, still its makeup is of players who get most of their practice here in New York. Major Nelson, the referee, insisted upon the players wasting no time in idling, as a result of which the game proved to be decidedly animated and interesting from the onlookers' point of view.

Game Without Deadline.

The game was played without any deadline at either end of the arena and added to the continued speed of the game. This method will be continued during the rest of the week. The great crowd in Madison Square Garden last night showed its enthusiasm in unmistakable manner. Those who had seats frequently stood. Those who were standing got on their toes.

In the first chukker Ontario started in like a whirlwind, and Hopping drove the ball to the New York goal within a minute from the time Major Nelson started the game. Grannis followed with a clever drive from the side, and then Sherman put home another out of a scrimmage. Grannis repeated, and then, before the period ended, Johnson tallied for little old New York.

It was quite evident that there was no "stalling," and that every one of each team was doing his best work—if not a little better than he ever did before. The intermission was brief, and when play was resumed, the New Yorkers started in to make up for lost time. They played like Comanches, riding off in great style, and showing unexpected accuracy in hitting but at that Hopping managed to drive home three goals in succession for Ontario.

New Yorkers Get Busy.

Then the tide turned, and Johnson tallied, while one of the ponies added the next goal for New York. Johnson repeated, and so did a pony, after which Sherman picked the ball out of a scrimmage and shot it for a goal.

Sherman was penalized half a goal, or Ontario was, for his hooking, but he made up for it by tallying the final goal of what all who saw it admitted was the liveliest indoor polo game ever witnessed in this city.

TIPPITY WITCHET IS FIRST AT BOWIE

Special to The New York Times.

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 17.—The handicap for all ages, which was the feature of the racing at Bowie this afternoon, fell easy prey to George W. Loft's Tippity Witchet. The winner was at home in the muddy going and won by three lengths from the small field of four starters. He took the measure of War Note, with Super third and Mock Orange bringing up the rear.

It was the second victory for the Broomstick gelding during the meeting. He outclassed his opposition, though he carried 120 pounds and conceded several pounds to each of the others. War Note, which had plenty of speed, rushed to the front and stole into a lead of three lengths going through the back stretch. Though he was well in front Tippity Witchet was able to get up to him when his rider was ready. Turning into the stretch, Johnson gave Tippity Witchet a chance to run, and he fairly ran over War Note to score the victory. War Note was as easily second best, for, after making all the pace, he was three lengths in front of Super at the finish.

A field of good mud runners went to the post for the fifth race at a mile and a sixteenth, and Sunnyland proved the best, winning by more than a length from Lord Herbert, with Snapdragon II. third.

Brookes, Patterson and Wood To Face U. S. Davis Cup Team

LONDON, Nov. 17.—A dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Melbourne says that Norman E. Brookes, Gerald L. Patterson and Pat O'Hara Wood will play against the American team for the Davis Cup, the international lawn tennis trophy. The dispatch adds that R. W. Heath or J. B. Hawkes will fill the fourth place on the Australian team.

WEAVER NOMINATED AS NET CLUB HEAD

West Side Tennis Organization Completes Slate—Heights T. C. Holds Election.

Officers of the West Side Tennis Club, to be voted on at the club's annual meeting, which will be held the third Friday in January, have been recommended by the Nominating Committee. The report suggests the selection of S. Fullerton Weaver as President. Mr. Weaver, in the due course of events, will succeed President C. S. Landers who, during his two terms in office, has guided the club's activities in such wise as to increase its prestige and maintain its high position in national tennis affairs. Mr. Weaver, who is a prominent figure in New York real estate and financial circles, has long been actively identified with the West Side Tennis Club. During the war he saw service at the front in France as a Major in the Seventy-seventh Division.

The list of officers recommended by the Nominating Committee follows:

President, S. Fullerton Weaver; Vice President, Stuart Johnston; Treasurer, Waldo D. Hadsell; Secretary, Clarence G. Heylman; Captain, James Rice; Governors to serve until the annual meeting of 1923 Charles S. Landers, Samuel Hardy, Theodore Hetzler and Dr. S. E. Davenport, Jr.; Nominating Committee for 1921, Watson M. Washburn, Marshall S. Hagar, Edmund W. Peaslee, Charles Bishop, Franklin P. Ferguson. The members of the present committee making this report are Howard J. Hildt, Edward C. Duble, Paul S. Brinsmade, Charles M. Bull, Jr., and Harvey T. Warren.

Officers of the University Heights Tennis Club, who will begin their administration on Jan. 1, have been elected as follows:

President, E. H. James; Vice President, J. A. Mersereau; Secretary, William Schmidt; Treasurer, John Whyte; members of the Board of Directors, W. M. Fischer, H. R. Howard, Dr. Mitchell and James P. Reid.

TIGERS' BASKETBALL DATES.

Schedule for Princeton 'Varsity Announced by Manager.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Nov. 17.—Princeton's basketball schedule was announced today by Manager J. P. Seiberling. The season will open Dec. 4 against Brooklyn Poly at Brooklyn. The team will play at Akron, Chicago, Columbus, Cincinnati and Springfield during the Christmas vacation, and from that time on the regular league games will hold sway for the most part. The complete schedule follows:

Dec. 4, Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute, Brooklyn; 11, C. C. N. Y., at New York; 17, C. C. N. Y., at Princeton; 21, Cornell, at Ithaca; 29, Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., at Akron; 30, Chicago University, at Chicago; 31, Cincinnati University, at Cincinnati; Jan. 1, Wittenberg College, at Springfield, Ohio; 3, Ohio State University, at Columbus; 4, Geneva College, at Beaver Falls, Pa.; 10, Columbia, at Princeton; 15, Stevens Institute, at Princeton; 21, Cornell, at Princeton; 28, Dartmouth, at Hanover; 29, Trinity College, at Hartford, Conn.; Feb. 22, Dartmouth, at Princeton; 26, Yale, at Princeton; March 5, Columbia, at New York; 12, Pennsylvania, at Philadelphia; 16, Yale, at New Haven; 19, Pennsylvania, at Princeton.

CANN IS OPERATED ON.

Swimming Champion Hurt in Motor Smash Undergoes Bone Grafting.

Tedford Cann, swimming champion at 50 yards, 100 yards and 220 yards and holder of two world's records, underwent a delicate operation yesterday at the Roosevelt Hospital. Dr. Charles N. Dowd opened Cann's left leg and grafted a piece of bone from his right in order to make the injured member knit.

Last May Cann was in an automobile accident in which Arthur McAleenan, also a swimming champion, was killed. Cann's left leg was fractured in six places and he was in the hospital for seven weeks. He has been on chutches ever since. It was found recently that one of the bones was not knitting and this operation became imperative. The doctors are quite satisfied that the operation was successful and expect his leg to heal quickly.

Tedford Cann is the son of Frank H. Cann, director of physical training at New York University, and was formerly a student at that institution. He is also the brother of Howard Cann, Olympic shotputter and a member of the National Champion basketball team.

COLGATE COACHES BLUE.

Are Discouraged by Storms, Which Hamper All Gridiron Work.

Special to The New York Times.

HAMILTON, N. Y., Nov. 17.—The poor weather conditions have discouraged the Colgate coaches, especially since they must exert every effort to prepare the team for Syracuse on Saturday and have been prevented thus far from doing so by the snowstorms that have been sweeping this part of the State.

The coaches fear that they will be unable to start the three veterans, Webster, Wooster and Harris, against the Orange. Webster is suffering from internal injuries that are not of a minor nature. Captain Wooster has had frequent relapses of injuries that have been bothering him all the season and Harris's dislocated elbow refuses to heal right.

NO POST-SEASON GAME.

Penn State Will End Football Year with Game Against Pitt.

Special to The New York Times.

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 17.—At a meeting of the Alumni Advisory Athletic Committee held today it was definitely decided that Penn State shall take part in no post-season games this year and that the game with Pitt on Thanksgiving Day shall officially close the football season. The decision met with the hearty approval of Coach Bezdek.

DAVIS CUP TEAM SAILS.

Tilden's Work Is Improving, Says Captain Hardy at Departure.

VICTORIA, B. C., Nov. 17.—Members of the American Davis Cup team sailed today for New Zealand, where they will attempt to win the Davis trophy. Tennis games will be played on the boat, and strict training rules will be observed.

Samuel Hardy, playing manager, said William T. Tilden Jr., Philadelphia, world's singles champion, who is a member of the team, is gaining rapidly in form, although he has not entirely recovered from a recent breakdown.

LONGER SCHEDULE MAY BE ADOPTED

Proponents of 168-Game Plan in Major Leagues Again Advocating Change.

The schedules which will be submitted by the joint committee to the moguls of the two big baseball leagues in February for their ratification may quite possibly call for twenty-four games between each two clubs of each organization, instead of twenty-two. This would add fourteen games to the schedule of 154 contests listed in both leagues last season, bringing the total to 168.

There has been an occasional volley of propaganda in favor of this move in recent seasons, but thus far the opposition has been too great to be subdued. The favorite argument in favor of lengthening the schedule, namely, that with all the clubs of both leagues save five now playing Sunday baseball on their own grounds, it should be easily possible to increase the number of skirmishes without extending the season unduly, is being advanced by its proponents more loudly than ever before, and there appears to be a chance that the scheme may be enacted into baseball law for the season of 1921. The clubs in whose bailiwicks Sunday ball is not allowed are the organizations in Boston, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

There is also considerable chatter in Winter league circles about the possibility that a decision to close the regular season on Aug. 15 and then have leading teams of the two major leagues meet in interleague clashes for a couple of months may be reached. This would do away entirely with the World's Series in its classic and familiar form, and grave doubt is felt in well-informed circles whether the change will even be seriously considered.

It is announced in the peaceful city on the Schuylkill that the Phillies will do their Spring training in Gainesville, Fla., on the grounds where the studious athletes of the University of Florida hold forth. The Giants tried these premises out in 1918, but were not highly impressed with the place as a training camp. It is said, however, that improvements have been made there recently.

Colonels Ruppert and Huston will foregather today with Miller Huggins, Ed Barrow, Joe Kelley, Bob Connery and Bob Gilks for that momentous conference on ways and means of increasing the playing strength of the Yankees. It is expected that a little hewing to the line, without much regard to the direction taken by the chips, will be outlined in the course of the proceedings.

GATES CLOSED AT STEVENS.

Engineers Try New Plays for N. Y. U. Game in Secret Workout.

No one was allowed behind the gates of the Castle Point Field, where the Stevens Tech 'Varsity held the usual long Wednesday afternoon practice yesterday afternoon. The weather and ground were rather a hindrance in a long scrimmage, but the first team spent a great deal of time on signal drill.

A mass meeting of the students was held after classes yesterday morning, at which time Coach Durborow and Captain Goodale addressed the students. The coach asked the student body to cooperate with the management and keep away from the field, saying that the work of the entire week might be undone in a few minutes. This is taken as meaning that they have an entire new répertoire of plays which they are going to spring on the N. Y. U. team on Saturday.

Following the workout on the field Coach Durborow and Quarterback Brune were seen in conference, evidently discussing with some energy the new plays which have been developed.

When the men came into the showers Anthony was limping badly with a bruised leg. All Coach Durborow would say when asked about the condition of the men was that they were all right.

The demand for tickets at the game on Saturday is reaching the 10,000 mark, and Manager Barker with his assistants is striving to provide accommodations for them. Temporary stands are now practically completed which with the permanent ones will provide for about 7,000.

The odds laid on the game have been as high as 5 to 1 in favor of Stevens, but N. Y. U. money has been scarce.

LEHIGH HAS LONG DRILL.

Special to The New York Times.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Nov. 17.—Coach Keady today called his Lehigh 'Varsity eleven out on a soggy field for the first practice outdoors this week.

The usual midweek scrimmage was abandoned today. However, it was no easy afternoon for the players. Following a long drill in kicking, running down punts and other fundamentals, the 'Varsity was sent through a long signal drill, many of the formations tried out being those outlined in the blackboard talk of yesterday when the team stayed in the gymnasium instead of going out on the field in a driving rain.

Due to the frequent changes in the line-up in the signal drill this afternoon, little could be gleaned on the probable lineup for the game with Lafayette on Saturday. Physically the men are in the best of condition, and after their showing against Penn State last week are confident of victory. The coaches, however, are drilling the team for the hardest game of the season.

BAN ON WILLIAMS PLAYERS.

Three of Squad Ineligible Because of Scholarship Difficulties.

Special to The New York Times.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., Nov. 17.—Three members of the Williams football squad were declared ineligible today because of scholarship difficulties. The players are Jones, Simons and Hoyt and all are barred from taking part in the Amherst game Saturday. All three are second string men, but they played in most of the games this Fall. Jones and Simons are linemen, while Hoyt is a halfback.

LAFAYETTE HAS WORKOUT.

Special to The New York Times.

EASTON, Pa., Nov. 17.—Coach Sutherland gave the Lafayette College 'Varsity football squad a hard workout today on March Field in preparation for the final game of the year with Lehigh University here this Saturday.

The 'Varsity team was put on the defensive shortly after the practice began the third team using the Lehigh formations. This scrimmage continued for more than an hour, when the 'Varsity team was given the ball for a very brief period.

March Field is very soft in places, due to the snow of Monday and the rain of yesterday. A sharp westerly wind late this afternoon, however, may put the gridiron in good shape for Saturday's game.

Hamilton Eleven Is Winner.

Hamilton Institute's football eleven defeated the Clason Point Military Academy team yesterday in a keenly-fought gridiron battle on the Clason Point field by the score of 7 to 0. George Mitchell, Hamilton quarterback, gave his team the victory in the fourth period when he broke clear through a mass of tangled humanity and raced 10 yards for a touchdown. James Cherry kicked the goal.

BELGIAN STAR HERE ON TRAIL OF HOPPE

Horemans, Professional Billiard Champion of Europe, Arrives for U. S. Invasion.

PLANS ARE STILL UNCERTAIN

But He Will Likely Give Exhibition Matches Before Meeting American Titleholder.

Edouard Horemans, the famous Belgian billiard player, arrived in this city on board the Holland-America Line steamship Nieuw Amsterdam yesterday. For nearly an hour after the ship docked the professional champion of Europe was bombarded by a battery of camera men intent upon taking "stills" and movies of the man who comes to this country heralded as the one player who has at least a fighting chance against Willie Hoppe. Accompanied by his secretary, F. J. L. Derks, Horemans smilingly acknowledged a reception that far exceeded anything he had anticipated. Never before in the history of billiards has the arrival of a foreign player attracted as great general interest as the coming of this cueist, who has been a sensation on the other side for the last several years.

Horemans comes here with the most impressive reputation ever imported by a billiard player. His record, made in matches played against the leading European amateurs and professionals in matches in Belgium, Holland and France, rivals that of Hoppe, and in some instances the figures even exceed those compiled by the man who has been sitting on the top of the billiard universe for the last fifteen years. In some respects the marks attained by Horemans in match play are almost incredible. For instance, his secretary yesterday stated that in a 1,000-point 18.2 balkline match against Sels, a French professional, Horemans had made a high run of 520 from the break and had compiled an average of 200, running out the game in five innings. This average far exceeds anything that Hoppe has ever done at the table in public competition. He is also credited with having made a high run of 645, but not in a match. The best run that Hoppe has ever recorded is 622 and the champion's official record run is 308.

Will Meet Hoppe Tomorrow.

Just as soon as he had withstood the camera barrage the Belgian went to the Hotel Lafayette, where he intends to stop while in this city. His plans have not yet been completed and probably will not be until late today or tomorrow morning. It is expected that they will be publicly announced at a luncheon to be tendered Horemans at the Hotel Astor tomorrow. He will then meet Willie Hoppe for the first time. Men prominent in billiards and newspaper representatives will be invited to attend the formal welcome to the man who aspires to take the measure of Hoppe.

The tentative arrangements which have thus far been informally discussed call for Horemans to play a series of exhibition matches against the leading professional players before engaging Willie Hoppe. It has been suggested that he play Albert Cutler, the Union Club's instructor, in this city, and he may also play Welker Cochran and Young Jake Schaefer, who finished first and second respectively, in the preliminary round of the national championship tournament in San Francisco last week and are coming here to play the final round against Hoppe at the Hotel Astor on Dec. 6, 7 and 8.

All that Horemans was able to state with any degree of definiteness upon his arrival was that he would insist upon a reasonable length of time in which to become acclimated before playing. He said that he is very anxious to play Willie Hoppe, but could not say whether he would tackle Hoppe before engaging any other players or not. The impression obtains in billiard circles in this city that Horemans will play quite a few exhibition matches before meeting the world's champion. Probable matches with Leonard Howison, instructor at the Racquets and Tennis Club; George Slosson, now of Boston, and Harry Cline have been mentioned, but everything in connection with Horemans's work here has been held in abeyance pending the arrival of the Belgian. Now that he is here arrangements will be rushed with all possible dispatch.

Rivals Won't Play Until Spring.

If Horemans sticks to this tentative arrangement the chances are he will not be able to meet Hoppe in a match before next Spring. The champion is extremely anxious to meet his rival immediately after the tournament at the Astor, with the proviso, of course, that he emerges from his matches against Welker Cochran and Jake Schaefer with the championship still dangling from the end of his cue. Hoppe has explained that he is booked solid for an exhibition tour with Charley Peterson through the Middle West that will keep him on the road from the first of the year until the Spring. Under these conditions, unless Horemans agrees to a match before the Christmas holidays, it will be impossible for them to meet before next April. The exhibition tour which R. B. Benjamin has arranged for Hoppe is so lucrative that the chances are the champion will not be willing to cancel any of the bookings he has made.

Horemans expressed the desire to see Hoppe in action. He said: "I have heard so much about Mr. Hoppe that I am very anxious to see him play. I should regard it as a real privilege to see so great a player perform. Ever since I began taking an active interest in the sport, about eight years ago, I have continually heard about the wonderful exploits of Mr. Hoppe."

The Belgian intends to do all of his practicing in private for the present. It is his custom to practice almost every day from 10 to 12 in the morning and from 2 to 5 in the afternoon. Whether or not he will plunge into so formidable a schedule immediately he has not decided, but it is understood that he will begin active preparations for his campaign in this country by the first of next week at the latest.

Secretary Praises Cue Star.

J. F. L. Derks, Horeman's secretary, speaking for the Belgian, said: "Horemans is a truly remarkable player. His performances have been really wonderful. He has beaten the leading amateurs and professionals in Europe and has made such remarkable averages and high runs in some of his matches that his friends back home are convinced he will prove a match for Mr. Hoppe. I believe that here in this country you people are familiar with what Horemans accomplished in his matches against Louis Cure last season. You will recall that he made runs up to 300 and averaged better than 60 in an 1,800-point match against the well-known French professional. In another match Edouard made a high run of 533 and averaged 80 for 2,400 points.

"The secret of Horeman's ability is the line nurse. He has mastered this feature of balkline play. He employs it wherever he finds the balls when he steps to the table. He is very strong on massé work, particularly on force massé shots. Incidentally, he is able to play position on his massé shots."

Greenleaf to Play Stoutenburgh.

Immediately following the close of his contest with Louis Kreuter last night Ralph Greenleaf, the professional pocket billiard champion, announced that he had completed negotiations for a match with Larry Stoutenburgh of Buffalo. They will play a total of 750 points, divided into afternoon and evening blocks of 125 balls each next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Fourteenth Street Billiard Academy.

Horemans Has Patched Cue No Less Than Seven Times

The more or less well-known crazy-quilts of other days had nothing on the cue which Edouard Horemans cherishes. It has been patched no less than seven times. The stick, which was originally made in Belgium, can no longer be classed as a Belgian-made implement. A section of it was made in Holland and still a third section in France. It seems that Horemans plays a very hard force massé. While attempting a shot of this kind in a match in Holland he broke the cue at the joint. This required making a new section. A similar accident happened in France. The cue weighs about nineteen and a half ounces. A stick of the same weight is used by Willie Hoppe.

SERVATIUS TAKES LEAD IN CLASS C

Louis A. Servatius gained a clear lead in the race for the Metropolitan Class C 18.2 balkline billiard championship of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players at the Broadway Academy last night. The veteran scored a remarkably easy victory over Joseph Johann. The final score was 150 to 84. The winner averaged 4 2-37 against Johann's 2 10-37.

For a player who showed such promising form during the Class C interborough tournament Johann has been a big disappointment in the current jamboree. Last night's was the second defeat he has suffered in the final round of the tourney, and the form he has displayed in the two matches has been far below that which featured his work earlier in the cue campaign. For some unknown reason he seems unable to find his best stroke. In his recent matches he has been handicapped by his inability to make open table shots. When the balls are spread he appears to be completely at sea.

Realizing this, Servatius seldom left the ivories together after missing. He gave Johann a regular "oil" massage and won as he pleased. The veteran took the lead at the outset and was never headed. Servatius now has won two games and lost none in the titular round.

In a second match played last night John Low defeated James Langdon, 150 to 101. It was Low's first victory and Langdon's second defeat. The loser again was way below his normal form. He could accomplish but little with the ivories. The winner's average was an even 3 and Langdon's 2 3-49.

Low jumped to the front soon after the beginning of the game. Although he was not brilliant in his work at the table he was very consistent and soon had accumulated a commanding lead. Langdon tried hard to get going but he was never able to press Low very closely, with the result that Low never had to extend himself. Low appeared to be in good enough stroke to have made a more impressive average had he been compelled to speed up by keener competition.

Player.	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
L. A. Servatius	2	0	1.000
G. Spear	1	0	1.000
C. Steinbugler	1	0	1.000
J. Low	1	1	.500
J. Johann	0	2	.000
J. Langdon	0	2	.000

GREENLEAF IN FORM.

Champion's Play Sparkling in Pocket Billiard Victory.

Ralph Greenleaf gave the best exhibition of pocket billiard playing at the Strand Academy last night that has been seen in this city this season. Playing the final block of his three days' 750-point match against Louis Kreuter, the champion ran out the game with an unfinished cluster of 84 balls. Greenleaf won in the afternoon by a score of 125 to 74 and captured the evening session, 125 to 35. The total score of the match was: Greenleaf 750, Kreuter 436.

The champion did not lose a single block to his opponent. The only honor that Kreuter had gathered in during the match was the high run, a cluster of 45 made in the first inning of the opening block on Monday afternoon. Even this consolation, scant as it was, Greenleaf stripped him of, and, strangely enough, Greenleaf turned the trick in the final inning of play. During the session Greenleaf made 115 of his total of 125 balls in two innings, making a second high run of 31. The other ten points he gathered in much smaller lots.

When Greenleaf stepped to the table for what proved to be the last inning of the match the score stood 41 to 35 in his favor. A lead of six points at that stage of the play was far from being commanding, and there was no reason to believe that the champion would make the runaway of it that he finally succeeded in scoring. There were five balls on the table when Ralph went to bat. Four of these he pocketed in short order, and played perfect position on the fifth not only to pocket it but to get a break when the balls were racked for the beginning of another frame. He then plowed his way through five complete frames and knocked off ten in another. All told, the run was continued in seven frames, five complete ones and portions of two others. This necessitated his making six breaks.

The champion's position play was the outstanding feature of his work. Particularly was this true when he was jockeying for position on the fifteenth ball in each frame so that he could break up the bunch. On no less than seven occasions during the run was he compelled to play combination shots and, incidentally, he made two kiss shots that "brought down the house."

The afternoon match was easy for him. He took the lead early and held it throughout. His high runs were 41, 20, 19 and 14. Against this showing Kreuter made high runs of 22, 17, 16 and 13.

TITLEHOLDER DEFEATED.

Morrison Succumbs to Driscoll, 240 to 198, in Billiard Play.

This has been an unlucky season for amateur billiard champions in the handicap tournaments at John Doyle's Academy. Last week the snooker titleholder, Ray Crane, was eliminated, while last night Robert Morrison, who holds the amateur championship at English billiards, was beaten by James Driscoll by a score of 240 to 198 in twenty-five innings. There are twenty-two entries in this event, which is divided into four sections. The winners of the sections will ultimately meet in the finals. Morrison was slated to play 300 points while Driscoll enjoyed a handicap of sixty buttons.

That Driscoll played a splendid game is shown by his high breaks of 23, 20 and 18. Morrison made the highest break of the match when he collected 33 in the tenth inning.

In an earlier game Fred Ryecroft won from Herbert Hall by the close score of 215 to 211. The loser was scheduled to play for 225 points.

In the pocket billiard handicap tournament, Charles Le Huquet won from Edward Smith, 50 to 41. The victory insures the winner of a place in the final round which will begin next week.

Layton and Capron Win.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—John Layton of Sedalia, Mo., continued today his steady playing in the preliminaries for the national three-cushion billiard championship, defeating Charles Morin of Chicago, 50 to 23, in forty-five innings. Joseph Capron of Chicago won his first game, defeating Hugh Heal of Toledo, 50 to 49.

DICKENS'S INJURY PROBLEM AT YALE

Star Tackle Not Likely to Start Harvard Game—Line-up Now Fairly Definite.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 17.—Tom Dickens, Yale's rushline star, today joined the Eli eleven, but Trainer John Mack said that his leg still troubles him and that there is no chance for the veteran tackle to expect to play the entire game against Harvard. It is doubtful whether Dickens will start the game, but the coaches hope to be able to use him in one of the middle playing periods. Instead of returning to the 'Varsity line-up today he went to left tackle on the second team for the dummy breaking-through drill, which comprised the only strenuous activity of the afternoon. The coaches fully expect to start Albert Into and Leon Walker in the two tackle positions, and do not count upon Dickens for the all-round form which he exhibited previous to his injury.

No other line-up changes were made today and the coaches now feel that the eleven, as they reorganized it yesterday for the Harvard campaign, is the strongest playing combination which they can hurl against Coach Fisher's giants. This includes using Perry Bean, a 200-pound player, at right end. He is the heaviest end rush who ever wore a Yale uniform. Douglas Bomeisler, Johnny Kilpatrick and Tom Shevlin all weighed about 185 pounds.

Justin Sturm who, like Bean arose from the third eleven to 'Varsity ranks, was continued at fullback today, having displaced Doc Jordan, the former Exeter and Yale freshman star, probably permanently. Jordan's ideas of team play have been lethargic at times and his game against Princeton included several valuable missed opportunities.

The entire Yale squad went to the Bowl today in a driving rain, but found the field so muddy that Head Coach Tad Jones decided to take no chances. He ordered the players back to the baseball cage, where they spent nearly two hours in signal practice and later a dummy breaking-through drill. The 'Varsity elevens were kept at work during the long signal drill, under the direction, respectively, of Jones, Dr. Billy Bull and Dr. Arthur Brides. The first and second 'Varsity teams were worked at forward passing and such limited punting practice as the roofed cage allowed, most of the passing being directed at improving the 'Varsity defense for this style of game, which the coaches expect Harvard will hurl at Captain Tim Callahan's men Saturday.

An unusually large number of former stars, including several head coaches and captains, joined the resident staff today, including former chief coaches Paul Veeder and Foster Rockwell, ex-Captain Burr Chamberlin, Carl Wiedemann, Ted Lilley, Charlie Taft and Chester Laroche.

The 'Varsity eleven, as it lined up today and will probably play Saturday, was as follows:

CALLAHAN AND JONES HOPEFUL

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 17.—Captain Tim Callahan told 2,000 Yale students tonight at the biggest undergraduate rally of the year that the team hoped and expected to give the university a victory in the Harvard game next Saturday. He said: "We are going into the game mentally and physically right. Many Yale teams have outplayed themselves, and we expect to do so next Saturday."

Head Coach Jones said: "Our team will fight to its last ounce of strength and will give you a victory. Yale is supreme in defeat and in victory. I shall tell the team before it begins the game Saturday that Yale men the country over are looking to it to come through with a triumph, and I believe that the team will do it."

The entire Yale eleven was compelled to show itself on the stage of Woolsey Hall in response to prolonged cheering before the mass meeting closed.

HOPPE AVERAGES 150.

Willie Hoppe, the world's professional balkline billiard champion, ran out his 300-point match against Charley Peterson in two innings last night at the Yale Club. This gave the champion an average of 150. The final score was: Hoppe 300, Peterson 17.

On his first turn at the table Hoppe made a run of 106, and in his second inning he ran out the game with an unfinished run of 194. A gallery that was estimated at 500 saw the champion play some of the best billiards he has displayed this season. His nurse shots were almost perfection, and his massés frequently caused the spectators to break into prolonged applause. During his long run he made 100 of the points without once driving the balls the length of the table. He made the points by nursing the ivories about nine inches from the lower rail.

HURD WINNER WITH CUE.

Defeats Gardner in Interborough Pocket Billiard Match.

Consistently good playing enabled Clarence Hurd to score a decisive victory over Gus Gardner last night in the pocket billiard tournament being held at the Rational Recreation Academy in Brooklyn for the interborough championship of the National Association of Amateur Billiard Players. The score was 100 to 54. As a result of the victory Hurd passed Gardner in the standing of the players and is now third, while Gardner, F. A. Saunders and Jack Renauld are tied for fourth place.

Hurd's best run was a collection of 23, but, aside from this, there was nothing outstanding about his playing. He plugged away, knocking off the balls in small lots while the veteran Gardner was floundering around trying in every way he knew how to get going.

Played.	Won.	Lost.	P. C.
J. Mills	3	0	1000
R. Crespi	2	0	1000
C. Hurd	2	1	.667
G. Gardner	1	2	.333
F. A. Saunders	1	2	.333

GARFUNKLE BEATS LIPTON.

Wins Closest Match of Amateur 3-Cushion Billiard Tourney.

Sam Garfunkle last night defeated Louis Lipton in the closest game that has yet been played in the amateur handicap three-cushion billiard tournament at Joe Thum's Academy. The score was 35 to 33. Lipton's every shot during the game was designed to leave Garfunkle safe. This free use of "oil" prolonged the match for 108 innings, but it served to show Garfunkle's patience and his ability to overcome billiard obstacles.

Garfunkle held the lead up to the ninety-sixth inning, when Lipton, by making his high run of 4, forged ahead. Lipton then lead by a score of 32 to 30. Garfunkle passed Lipton in the 106th round and finally won.

The standing:

Player.	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
M. Letzter	6	0	1.000

HARVARD IS READY FOR TEST IN BOWL

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 17.—Except for a short signal drill tomorrow and a trot up and down the stadium field in front of alumni and undergraduates, Harvard's preparation for the Yale game at New Haven ended this afternoon.

Coach Fisher had his squad out today despite the wet and slippery field, and, much to the surprise of the players, he ordered a short scrimmage between the regulars and the second team. The regulars scored one touchdown against the scrubs, who were not allowed to carry the ball for fear of injuries to the 'Varsity players.

In the 'Varsity line-up Kane and Crocker were the ends, Faxon and Hubbard tackles, Tolbert and Brown guards, Havemyer centre, Buell quarterback and Owen, Horween and Churchill made up the backfield. Coach Fisher declined, however, to announce this line-up as the one he will use at the beginning of the game at New Haven.

Every day now it looks more and more as if Sedgwick rather than Faxon would be at left tackle when the whistle blows in the Bowl on Saturday. His extra weight, and it is more than fifteen pounds, will be needed on the line if Yale uses Dickens, which seems likely. Fitzgerald seems to have the edge over Buell. Buell has made good strides in the last three weeks, but Fitzgerald's age and experience are big assets. The fears of the undergraduates regarding the condition of Woods were relieved by the announcement that he is all right to start the game. Fisher says Woods could have been used any day this week.

Since the Princeton game the 'Varsity team has been putting in most of its time on the offense. The team has some driving plays for Horween and Owens, but also has made unusual effort to perfect its strategic plays, particularly the short forward passes.

ROBERTSON TO START GAME

Dartmouth Captain Will Be in Opening Line-up Against Brown.

Special to The New York Times.

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 17.—Two inches of snow on Alumni Oval today sent the Dartmouth squad indoors, and in consequence Coach Spears had to content himself with a two hours' drill in the gymnasium baseball cage. The full squad was out in togs with the exception of Gus Sonnenberg, star tackle, whose shoulder, injured in the Penn game, is still a bit sore. However, Trainer Hillman announced today that he would be in perfect condition by Saturday, and as a result the Green lineman will start the game against Brown at Braves Field, Boston.

The Dartmouth camp was considerably cheered today by the announcement of Coach Spears that Jim Robertson, Green Captain and star kicker, was again in condition, and would be in the opening line-up against the Rhode Islanders. For the other halfback position Spears is undecided between Chick Burke, youthful star, who distinguished himself against Penn, and Pat Holbrook, veteran of two years, and considered the most spectacular open-field runner on the Dartmouth squad. John Shelburn is fully recovered from his early season injury and will play his old berth at fullback. Zack Jordan will be at quarter as usual, and Grundman and Bower, substitute halfbacks, are also sure of getting in the contest some time during the afternoon.

The drill this afternoon started off with an hour's dummy scrimmage, in which the 'Varsity was opposed by a second team drilled in the Brown plays by Coaches Cannell and Sid Holbrook. The first string men put in a lot of time analyzing the defense against the Brunonian attack, and at the conclusion of the scrimmage Spears announced himself as well satisfied with the results. Following this the squad went through an hour's signal drill, with special attention paid to the overhead game which Spears expects to use extensively against the Providence eleven.

NAVY HAS SPIRITED DRILL.

Three of Folwell's Cripples Return for Long Scrimmage Session.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 17.—A long and fairly satisfactory football practice was held at the Naval Academy this afternoon. The grounds were soft from the rains of yesterday, but the sky was bright and the weather crisp, while the high winds made possible excellent practice for the backs in handling punts. The scrimmage was especially spirited. Lasson, centre; Moore, right guard, and Cruise, back, who have been out of the playing on account of injuries, took part in all the practice this afternoon.

Folwell commands the services of two fine sets of backs between which little choice can be made. Koehler, Conroy, Hamilton and McKee played on the first team this afternoon. But the second string, made up of Rawlings, Noyes, Cruise and Watters, is hardly behind in any element of backfield work. Noyes is probably one of the most brilliant runners on the squad. Cruise was a regular last season and Watters and Rawlings were substitutes of high rank.

The line has also a change man for each position, except the ends, nearly as good as the regular. Wiedern, who has been substitute to King at right tackle, was moved over as regular left tackle this afternoon as his work excels that of either Bolles or Carney. Carney will be substitute to King. Wiedern was a substitute tackle last year and took part in many games last season and this.

DALY CALLS SIGNALS.

West Point Coach in Good Voice at Long Football Workout.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 17.—Handicapped by the distressing weather conditions which have prevailed all the week, the Army eleven went through a two hours' drill today in further preparation for the Navy game. The practice was far from satisfactory. Two sessions were held. The men were first sent into the riding hall, where they worked out in the tan bark, which was ankle deep. Later they appeared on a field soaked after a three days' rain. The drill was without speed, due to the heavy going. Coach Daly himself called signals and caustic criticisms, and he was in good voice.

At centre Greene and Enderton alternated. Strohecker was not used except in a passing drill. Pitzer, who has played as a substitute tackle, was shifted to end in the scrimmage. He is fast and full of fight. White was at the other wing, but Don Storck, regular end, was missing.

Lawrence, Smythe, French, Warren, Dodd and Ascher were all used behind the line. Ascher, an aggressive and rugged type of runner, carried the ball over for the one touchdown which the 'Varsity registered. Ogden was worked longest at the quarterback position. Searchlights on Fort Putnam and acetylene flares which have been installed on the side lines of the gridiron enabled the men to go well into the darkness with their drill.

Harvard Harriers Selected.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 17.—The cross-country team which will represent Harvard at the intercollegiate championship run to be held at New Haven on Saturday was named today. The men who will wear the Crimson are: Captain F. G. Bemis, C. S. Dexter, H. M. Mahon, H. L. Pratt, C. E. Reycroft, H. E. Small and J. G. Winchester.

CARVING UP TURKEY.
In this week's MID-WEEK PICTORIAL there is a map showing how Turkey has been carved up into "spheres of influence" divided between France, Italy Greece and Great Britain. There are 87 etchings in this issue. News of the world in pictures. On news stands, 10 cents.—Advt.

BENNY LEONARD IS VICTOR OVER KELLY

ACTION AVERTS KNOCKOUT

Harlem Boxer Is Completely Outclassed from Start—Commissioner O K's the Contest.

It took Benny Leonard, world's lightweight champion, less than five full rounds to dispose of Harlem Eddie Kelly, a welterweight, in their bout, scheduled for twelve rounds, before a disappointing crowd last night at the Commonwealth Sporting Club in East 135th Street. The end of the contest came one minute and thirteen seconds after the start of the fifth round, and in an unsatisfactory manner.

Confusion attended the finish of the contest. A powerful left hook to the jaw soon after the start of the fifth round made Kelly a fit subject for a crushing, decisive blow, if Referee Skelly had not interfered. The impact of the blow sent Kelly, dizzy and thoroughly shaken, sprawling toward the canvas. Kelly stuck out his gloved right hand as he was going down, and saved himself from falling prone from the punch and others which Leonard rained on him as he was toppling.

The crowd was yelling wildly in tribute to Leonard's punching ability. Referee Skelly stepped between the combatants to stop the bout. The crowd and Leonard expected the referee to start a count, but Kelly quickly became erect as Referee Skelly walked away with his back to the boxers. Kelly squared off at the titleholder again, and Leonard, evidently confused but taking no chances, quickly stepped in with a crushing right to the jaw, which sent Kelly against the ropes with a crash, his knees sagging. Referee Skelly quickly jumped between the boxers again, and this time sent Kelly to his corner. Then, Announcer Humphries stepped between the ropes and announced that the referee had stopped the bout and declared Leonard the winner. Referee Skelly declared after the bout that he had disqualified Kelly.

Leonard Takes It Easy.

The contest was little more than a workout for the champion. Had it not been for the fact that Leonard was boxing before a crowd which had paid admission, and under commission regulations, the bout might have been taken for a training muss by the title holder in preparation for his coming bout against Joe Welling at Madison Square Garden, Nov. 26. In the final analysis the match only provided Leonard with a little competitive preparation for this bout.

Despite the confused and involved atmosphere which surrounded the finish, there was absolutely no question that the contest was decided strictly on its merits. The champion completely outclassed Kelly and played with him as with a toy while the contest lasted. Kelly had a combination of willingness and gameness as his only qualifications for the distinction of being in the same ring with Leonard. The Harlemite did not land with a solitary clean, heavy punch through the bout. He did manage to land with sweeping overhand left, which connected with Leonard's head when the champion did not withdraw from the line of fire quickly enough in the fourth round. And in one of the clinches Kelly landed a few interrupted body blows past Leonard's protecting arms. Otherwise Kelly's work was conspicuous by its absence. The Harlem boxer was made to look ludicrous before the champion.

Through the first round Leonard didn't try hard. He was sizing his man up, although there was no real excuse for this precaution. Kelly lashed out with wild, sweeping lefts which did nothing but disturb the heavy, smoke-laden atmosphere about Leonard's head as the champion stepped back just out of reach of the blows. In the second round Leonard opened up a notch. He jabbed his left and started a trickle of blood from Kelly's lower lip. A right cross shook Kelly and made the latter wary. Near the end of the round Leonard sent a left to the pit of the stomach and Kelly doubled up in pain. He covered from subsequent assault, but was unsteady going to his corner.

Kelly Bewildered by Blows.

Leonard continued his jabbing in the third round, dancing cleverly in and about Kelly and completely bewildering the Harlemite. A flurry in the first minute, in which Leonard landed with powerful rights and lefts to Kelly's jaw, made the latter cover his jaw with folded arms. Then Leonard ripped successive left hooks into Kelly's stomach, and when the latter sought to retaliate he missed like the veriest novice. A left hook blackened Kelly's right eye early in the fourth and a right cross made the Harlem boxer blink. He shook his head clear of the cobwebs and squared off, flat-footed, only to be shaken by a left and right to the jaw. Again Kelly shook his careening brain to steady himself, but he was slipping, and it was only a question of when the opening would present itself for the finishing blow. It came soon after the start of the fifth round and the bout ended.

Leonard appeared in better condition than he has been in for several years past. He weighed 136¼ pounds and looked down to real fighting condition. His speed of hand and foot was always manifested and he shot his punches home with the old-time precision and direction, and with the characteristic crushing force behind them.

The first of the contests scheduled for ten rounds ended abruptly in the first session after the lapse of forty-five seconds. The principals were Jeff Duffy, Chicago middleweight, and Terry Mitchell, a Bayonne welterweight. Duffy met his rival coming out of the corner at the starting bell and with a succession of rights and lefts sent Mitchell down for a count of nine. Arising, Mitchell was met with another withering battery of blows and he went down for the full count. Duffy weighed 159½ pounds and Mitchell 145¾ pounds.

MANY ENTRIES FOR BOUTS.

Clark House A. A. to Be Well Represented in Garden Events.

The Clark House A. A. yesterday notified the Metropolitan A. A. U. headquarters that the club would have a heavy entry in the metropolitan amateur boxing championship tournament, which will be held at Madison Square Garden Nov. 29 and 30. Al Hartman, manager of the east side club's boxing team, anounced that he has seventeen youngsters in training for the title bouts. From this material he will select the club's representatives in the eight classes which will be contested.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 17.—Harvard supporters are so confident of victory over Yale in the Bowl Saturday that they are offering bets at 10 to 4, with the Crimson eleven the favorite. Even at these odds there are few takers in sight, although there is plenty of Harvard money waiting.

LYNCH AND SHARKEY TO BOX AT GARDEN

Promoter Rickard Changes Plans and Will Stage Return Bout Before Herman Match.

Plans for the proposed bantamweight championship bout, in which Pete Herman of New Orleans will defend his title over the fifteen-round route to a decision at Madison Square Garden next month, underwent a change yesterday. The Crescent City boxer probably will not be called upon to defend his laurels in the famous fistic arena until Dec. 21, a week after the proposed Jack Dempsey-Bill Brennan heavyweight match, which is tentatively scheduled for Dec. 14, awaiting the sanction of the Boxing Commission.

Promoter Tex Rickard last night announced the change in plans for the midget title bout. The Garden boxing impresario declared that he will stick to his original schedule of bouts, and will conduct the return meeting between Lynch and Jack Sharkey, the Italian bantamweight, on Dec. 2, as was originally planned. The winner of this bout, according to present plans, will get the title meeting with Herman.

This arrangement was decided following a protest from Joe Wagner, manager of Sharkey. Wagner yesterday held a long consultation with Promoter Rickard and objected strenuously to the cancellation of the return meeting between Sharkey and Lynch. The little Italian's manager insisted that this match be held before Sharkey departed for England to box Jimmy Wilde. In the event of Sharkey's victory, Wagner said, the little Italian would defer his sailing date in order to clash with Champion Herman. Promoter Rickard was in accord with this view, particularly because he was not positively reconciled to the proposition of conducting the bantamweight title bout before the date tentatively set for the Dempsey-Brennan clash.

Although it has not been positively ascertained, it is understood from a reliable source that Herman's signature has been actually affixed to a contract calling for his defense of the title in a bout at Madison Square Garden. The weight agreed upon is the recognized bantamweight limit, 118 pounds at 2 o'clock on the day of the bout. Any possibility of Herman being prevented from arranging for a bout at the Garden through his prior contract with the International Sporting Club was removed yesterday when an official of the I. S. C. announced that Herman would be released from his contract today. The contract which the I. S. C. held with Herman, it is understood, stipulated a meeting with Jimmy Wilde or Lynch, and gave the I. S. C. officials a call on the title holder's services up to Nov. 18.

The release of Herman from this contract was reflected in the following letter sent to Tex O'Rourke, I. S. C. matchmaker, signed by Sammy Goldman, Herman's manager, and the bantamweight champion:

"I appreciate very much your kindness and sportsmanship in releasing me from my agreement with you and so enabling me to engage in a contest with Joe Lynch at Madison Square Garden on Dec. 2 next. In consideration of this action on your part, I agree to hold myself bound to the International Sporting Club for all future engagements in the East up to June, 1921, the terms, of course, to be the same as previously agreed upon."

INTERCITY BOUTS TONIGHT.

Philadelphia Boxers to Meet New York in Amateur Tourney.

The first intercity amateur boxing tournament of the season will be held this evening in the gymnasium of the City A. C., when a team of Philadelphia boxers will exchange blows with the pick of the local talent in four classes. The bouts have been scheduled at 110, 118, 135 and 145 pounds. In addition there will be a middleweight bout between A. Schardt of Staten Island and S. Colt, a local amateur.

135-Pound Class—Frank Hyland, New York; Ben Bostein, Y. M. H. A., New York; Frank McGurk, Philadelphia; Frank Smith, Philadelphia. Substitutes — Cliff Bent, Philadelphia; J. Hogan, Paulist A. C., New York.

FORDHAM IN SECRET DRILL.

New Plays for Holy Cross Game Tried Out by Maroon.

Coach Joe Dumoe put his Fordham football team through a strenuous practice on a mudsoaked field yesterday afternoon. He pitted the 'Varsity against the scrub eleven in a thirty-minute scrimmage and in spite of the slippery ball and wet gridiron the Maroon backs showed up surprisingly well.

The heavy going made open field running practically impossible and the 'Varsity was forced to revert to the straight football tactics which were used to such good effect earlier in the season. The regulars succeeded in ripping big holes in the scrub line without much difficulty.

The earlier part of the session was devoted to signal practice in which the new set of plays which Fordham is developing for Holy Cross, were thoroughly worked out. The practice was again strictly private, none but players and coaches being admitted.

The line-up of the Maroon backfield for the remainder of the season is still very much in doubt. Steele's return displaces Noonan at quarterback, but another position will be found for the latter as he is far too valuable a player to be allowed to sit on the bench. He may supplant Gately at fullback or Dumoe may shift him to right end in place of Ryan. This would be the better move as Gately is needed in the regular backfield because of his punting ability. Noonan is not unfamiliar with the flank position and would make an excellent running mate for Captain Fitzpatrick, the left end.

PANTHERS MAY LOSE STAR.

Injuries Likely to Keep Harman Out of Penn State Game.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 17.—It has been announced that Harvey Harman, left tackle on the University of Pittsburgh football team, may not be able to play against Penn State here on Thanksgiving Day, due to injuries received last Saturday against Washington and Jefferson. Sacklowski is being groomed to replace him.

Roper and Martin Matched.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—Captain Bob Roper and Bob Martin, heavyweights, tonight were matched to box twelve rounds to a decision in Baltimore, Nov. 24. They have met twice before, each winning once.

COLUMBIA SHOWS POWER IN ATTACK

Bowls Second Team Over and Scores Easily in a Long Scrimmage Workout.

The going was still muddy on South Field yesterday afternoon but Coach Buck O'Neill lined up his Columbia 'Varsity against the scrubs in a prolonged scrimmage, probably the last before the final game of the season with Pennsylvania at the Polo Grounds on Saturday. The scrimmage workout was preceded by a line drill for the forwards and a strenuous signal practice for both the first and second elevens.

The 'Varsity, in its skirmish with the second combination, displayed unusual strength in its attack and bowled the opposition over with ease. No regular playing periods were observed but in the informal tussle the first eleven pushed over five touchdowns before O'Neill called a halt. The drill with the forward pass continued with briskness, and despite the mud underfoot the ends and backs showed encouraging proficiency in catching the tosses. It is becoming more evident that the Blue and White will rely strongly on the aerial attack in the coming game with Heisman's Pennsylvanians. The Red and Blue is said to possess a neat attack of its own through the air, and Columbia made effective but limited use of the weapon against Cornell.

O'Neill stood pat on his 'Varsity line-up with one exception. He removed Korn, the massive guard, from the 'Varsity line-up and sent Herman back to the post, which has been left vacant by the shifting of Calloway to tackle. When Modarelli gets back into togs and returns to the latter position, Calloway will probably reappear in his accustomed place, leaving the line the same as it was last week-end. Captain Kienninger was still kept at end yesterday in place of Pulleyn and the latter's chances for starting on Saturday are growing dimmer every day. His sudden reversal of form is still a mystery to the coaches, for he had played an alert and dashing game for most of the season and had made an unusually great number of touchdowns for an end. It is possible that he will be allowed to break into the line-up after the game has passed the first period.

The line drill was a strenuous affair and the forwards went back over the entire list of fundamentals before O'Neill stopped the exercise. The linemen showed on Saturday that they are still far from the top of their form. In fact, they have slumped badly from their early season standard and Tom Thorp and O'Neill are working hard to bring the forwards out of the ruck. The ends are also coming in for their share of attention, for it is realized that the wing men will have their hands full taking care of Penn's backfield. Rex Wray in particular is counted on as a man who will be hard to stop on his dashes around the flanks of the New York line.

Recommends Expulsion for Student Ticket Speculators

URBANA, Ill., Nov. 17.—Director Huff of the University of Illinois Board of Athletic Control today began a special campaign against gambling and ticket speculation in connection with the Illinois-Ohio State football game this Saturday and future Illinois contests. Director Huff requested that the university Council of Administration expel any student found guilty of speculating.

"Original purchasers are to be held responsible for their tickets, which, if found in the hands of speculators, will result in those original purchasers being barred from purchasing tickets in the future," he said.

The board has agreed to blacklist for ticket purchasing hereafter persons known to have wagered money on the contest. Director Huff's first striking coup of his campaign was made today when he secured the promise of cigar stores and other establishments not to act as stakeholders for bettors.

ROPER UNCERTAIN ABOUT COAST TRIP

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17.—No decision has yet been made with regard to the Princeton University football team playing a game with a Pacific Coast eleven at Pasadena, Cal., on New Year's Day. William W. Roper, coach of the Princeton team, who lives here, said tonight that he had been unofficially advised an invitation would be extended to have the Princeton team play in Pasadena. He has not been in Princeton for several days, he said, and does not know whether the official invitation has arrived. Mr. Roper added that nothing would be done toward accepting the invitation without consulting with him.

From what can be learned here the prospects at this time are against the trip unless great pressure should be brought to bear. A graduate in touch with football at Princeton said it would be a big undertaking to keep the squad in training and condition for more than six weeks until New Year's Day and would also result in seriously cutting into the studies of the students because of their long absence from the University.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 17.—Neither affirmation nor denial could be obtained from authorities of the Pasadena Tournament of Roses tonight regarding reports that Princeton University had been invited to send its football team there for the annual East-West game New Year's Day.

Seward A. Simons of the Tournament of Roses Association said: "It is not the custom to invite any team unless assurance has been received that the invitation will be accepted."

The sign of a reliable dealer and the world's best Gasoline

Every motor highway and byway throughout picturesque New England and New York is a part of the long "Socony Trail".

SOCONY service doesn't just happen to be as efficient as it is. It is the result of effort, a large investment of capital and the co-operation of thousands of motorists.

The Socony sign means much to the motorist. Its appearance and reappearance along the highways mean convenience. The quality of Socony products insures complete motoring satisfaction. These two spell service supreme—the service that has really made motoring the pleasure it is today.

To thousands of gasoline users, "Socony" and "satisfaction" are synonymous. The quality of Socony gasoline is constant. It isn't "streaky"—powerful today in Boston, weak tomorrow in Albany, N. Y., but every gallon is the same. Socony in your tank is a promise of maximum power and mileage from your motor.

Socony dealers are good dealers, reliable merchants, courteous salesmen. They are as dependable as the products they sell.

A POLICY OF UNWISDOM.

The defeat and dispersion of the forces of General Wrangel have been followed, as was to be expected, by a renewal of pressure upon the British Government to establish immediate trade relations with Russia, a policy which would necessarily lead, at no great distance of time, to a recognition of the Soviet Government. The pressure comes from two sources: First, from banking and commercial interests, and this is by far the more influential; second, from the extreme faction of the laborites, who are more or less in sympathy with the professed aims of the Bolshevist Government. The protracted negotiations with Krassin and Kameneff, continued with the sanction and participation of Lloyd George, have indicated an inclination on the part of the Government to yield to the persistent solicitation for a resumption of trade with the Russians. The political correspondent of The Daily Chronicle, a newspaper which is supposed to reflect official views, reports that a draft agreement with the Moscow Government for the opening of trade with Russia will come before the British Cabinet this week; and he adds that it is expected that the agreement will be completed and in operation within the next fortnight.

The anxiety of the British bankers and merchants to secure the advantages of Russian trade are perfectly understandable. There is doubt in the minds of a large part of the British public, however, whether in their desire for immediate profits they are not losing sight of the dangerous consequences of entering into relations with the Soviets. Mercantile and banking interests, by their proverbial conservatism, often exercise an influence of the highest value in opposing the beginning of war; they are not always the best judges of national policy in devising and applying means of preventing war. A little more than ninety years ago British merchants stoutly opposed the policy of Lord Grey and Palmerston in blockading Holland to force the stubborn King of the Netherlands to agree to the separation treaty with Belgium and to surrender Antwerp which had been given to Belgium. They protested against "the idea of hostilities against England's old allies, the Dutch." But England's old allies were holding a course of action which threatened a great war, with the autocratic Powers of Northern and Eastern Europe arrayed against England and France. The Government was right, the British merchants were wrong upon that occasion.

In view of the character of the Soviet Government, representing but a small minority of the Russian people, established by an act of violent usurpation and continued in power by terrorism, professing its insolent disregard of good faith and probity in international agreements and engaged, as it all the time is, in propagandist work for the overthrow of other Governments, the peril involved in entering into relations which must inevitably strengthen its autocratic rule makes it a matter of the gravest doubt whether the British bankers and merchants are not now as seriously in the wrong as they were ninety years ago. The lure of present profits cannot obscure the dangers that would accrue from seeking them in this way; and inasmuch as France stands altogether opposed to this move toward Soviet recognition, the Lloyd George Government might well reflect upon the unwisdom of swerving from the course of unity and co-operation that carried the Allies successfully through the great war. The evils and dangers which buttressing up the Soviet Government might bring upon Western nations would be very great. England should not put herself in a position where it can be said of her

Declinat cursus aurumque volubile tollit.

The true policy toward the Soviet Government, the wise and sound policy, was laid down by the firm hand of Secretary Colby in his note of last August replying to the Italian Ambassador's inquiry as to the position of the United States upon the then threatening Russo-Polish situation. Our sincere friendship for the Russian people was proclaimed; it needs no evidence to prove its sincerity. But Secretary Colby declared that "it is "not possible for the Government of "the United States to recognize the "present rulers of Russia," and to attempt the maintenance of friendly relations with them. He continued:

> This conviction has nothing to do with any particular political or social structure which the Russian people themselves may see fit to embrace. It rests upon a wholly different set of facts. Those facts, which none disputes, have convinced the Government of the United States, against its will, that the existing régime in Russia is based upon the negation of every principle of honor and good faith, and every usage and convention underlying the whole structure of international law, the negation, in short, of every principle upon which it is possible to base harmonious and trustful relations, whether of nations or of individuals.

Another obstacle to the recognition of the Soviet Government, to which agreements concerning commerce inevitably must lead, is the refusal of our Government to sanction the dismemberment of Russia. Finland and Poland have been set free. That deliverance we recognize. But our Government takes the position that it is "unwilling that, while it is helpless "in the grip of a non-representative "Government whose only sanction is "brute force, Russia shall be weakened still further by a policy of dis"memberment conceived in other "than Russian interest." The policy declared by Secretary Colby, in short, leaves the Russians to determine for themselves, without foreign interference, how they will set their household in order. Opposition is declared to any further use of foreign troops or force within the boundaries of Russia. It is believed, as all experience teaches, that the present brutal and despotic rule of the Bolsheviki must come to an end; for their own preservation the Russians must find a way of deliverance. Then will come the hour for recognition. But it does not help them toward deliverance, beyond doubt it must strengthen the arm of their oppressors and tend to perpetuate the miseries of the people, to enter into relations, political or commercial, with the men at Moscow who openly profess, as their great aim, the destruction of all civilized Governments. The policy proclaimed by Secretary Colby has the well-nigh universal approval of the American people. It is cordially approved by France. We are confident that it is sanctioned by a very large part of British public opinion.

THE GOVERNMENT IN BUSINESS.

Senator Harding has said nothing more praiseworthy and hopeful than that it is his purpose to take the Government out of business. It is a big job, and he will have a hard time doing it. The set of the current has long been the other way; still is, if we may judge by the modest proposals which Senator Kenyon is putting forward in Washington. He would have the Federal Government take hold of housing. He also thinks that the nation may have to take charge of the coal industry. The "appropriate bills" to effect these ends will be introduced by the Senator from Iowa. What their result would be can easily be foretold. We should have an expensive army of house-builders, but no houses. We should see the production of coal so inspector-ridden that prices would be doubled for fuel that is not to be procured.

The "changeless truth" that the Government transacts business in a cumbrous and wasteful way is really the chief moral of the Shipping Board inquiry. Doubtless there was much minor grafting. Scamped work was often fobbed off on the Government and exorbitant prices charged it. But the main thing that causes depression and chagrin is the evidence of floundering incompetence. The Government seemed unable to build the necessary business structure for the great work it took in hand. The system was more vicious than any of the men connected with it. Direction was feeble and vacillating. Inspection was limping. Checking and auditing were almost unknown. Co-ordination of labor was sadly lacking. These faults, added to misfortunes some of which were perhaps unavoidable, will compel the writing off of vast losses in this whole governmental undertaking.

No confession of bankruptcy will be made. The Government when in business does not, like private concerns, go into liquidation or assess the stockholders. It merely assesses the taxpayers. This is one great reason why the Government does business badly. It is not on a competitive basis. It does not have to watch its balance-sheets with a jealous eye. Generous Uncle Sam always stands ready to meet any deficits. In such circumstances, with the ordinary and wholesome spurs to success wanting, an organization of archangels could not make the Government do well in business.

The actual officials engaged in governmental enterprises are not at all angelic. Few of them are unscrupulous featherers of their own nests, but the great majority of them have their full share of human weaknesses. One of these is the tendency to "lie down" on the Government, to be indolent and careless when working for the public. It is what the French call the "mania" of official employés. They move heaven and earth to get their places. Once in them, the feeling is that they can thereafter be wholly at ease in Zion. Years ago, when Clemenceau was Minister of the Interior, he made a sudden descent upon the offices to see how the clerks were working. It was a delightful Spring afternoon and they had slipped out to see the chestnuts in blossom in the Champs Elysées. At last one faithful bureaucrat was found. But he was asleep behind his desk. "Don't wake him up," cried Clemenceau in alarm; "if you do he, too, will go out."

This sort of slacking appears to have been frequent under the Shipping Board. Men sent to do one day's work took seven, and were paid for seven. The Treasury can stand it, so why not? The question is, however, how long the people will stand having the Government rushed into business which it is ill-fitted to conduct, with the outcome certain to be disappointment and disgust.

THE RIGHT KIND OF PUBLICITY.

Good sense marked the decision of the Assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva to have its committees do their work behind closed doors, while making public a full report of the results arrived at. This is really all the publicity that is needed or is, indeed, desirable.

Delicate questions affecting international relations cannot be flung into a mass meeting with the reporters taking down every indiscreet word. That way would lie friction and provocation. It would be an unhappy restriction on true freedom of speech. Prudent men would not frankly give their confidential information in such circumstances. On the other hand, loose-tongued orators would seize the occasion to address, not their fellow-committeemen, but the outside, sensation-loving public.

International business simply cannot be done in that way. The sole assurance which the case demands is that there shall be no secret agreements at Geneva and that all decisions reached shall be given out. This is made certain by the rule adopted by the Assembly.

RELIEF FOR TREASURY AND TAXPAYERS.

Senator Penrose, the leading authority on the perfect tariff bill which will give the Republicans a round billion to remedy the defects of Democratic tax methods, urges Republicans to delay tax legislation until after President Harding summons the next Congress in special session. As organization will occupy weeks thereafter, there is no hope of relief for business from taxation until after the time for filing the March tax returns under existing laws. The taxpayers' troubles with the taxes will be removed very much at the leisure of the party coming into power.

Since the result of the election is like the funeral of the mining town's bad man—"no complaint, everybody satisfied"—why should there not be an agreement upon prudent haste with non-contentious legislation? The Republicans cannot hope for Democratic assistance with their billion-dollar tariff bill, and there is no hope, or fear, of getting that until the Republicans can assume undivided responsibility for it. But there is legislation for the relief of taxpayers and Treasury alike which might almost be passed by a show of hands, except for letting the country know who opposes it. The excess profits tax has become a broken reed for the Treasury's reliance, and it is not popular with taxpayers who are under compulsion to pay it when they have only remnants of the excess profits for which they were to be punished, and are unable to make such deductions for war losses as Congress itself intended.

The law provides that inventory losses during the taxable year 1918—now of paralyzing proportions in the case of the biggest taxpayers—may be deducted during the taxable year 1919, for payment in 1920. But the inventory losses have fallen in the taxable year 1920, Congress having anticipated the fall due to the end of the war sooner than it came. Accordingly, it would only be fulfilling the intention of Congress if there were to be passed forthwith an amendment allowing the deduction of inventory losses during any taxable year, for the preceding taxable year, and payment in the following year. The suggestion comes from the silk trade, because its losses fell in this year, but it is applicable to all in like case. The British Treasury is now making refunds under its excess profits collections, and the same necessity confronts our Treasury.

The urgency of action on this and other non-contentious points appears from the fact that the leaders of Congress are to meet for the settlement of their policy in about a fortnight. If the country is to light a fire under the leisurely Republicans and their leaders, not a day should be lost. It might even be possible to repeal the excess profits tax altogether if there could be like agreement upon the substitute until the country is blessed with a billion from customs. Next to finding taxes the best thing is to find how to make taxes unnecessary. There is a Republican suggestion that they will void $200,000,000 taxes by dropping from the civil list 40,000 tax-eaters. With ingenuity they might increase the saving in the military lists, but to that there is a limit. The debt service is among the largest and most compulsory tax items, and that is now unnecessarily swollen by the necessity of taking care of $2,500,000,000 of floating debt, and some other billions of near maturities. It would lessen the immediate burden upon the taxpayers if there were substituted for these principal payments interest on a refunding loan which should take their weight off the money market. It troubles private borrowers for a preferred borrower constantly to be absorbing their accommodations. Such a refunding loan would not be inflationary, for it would substitute one loan for others and would supply no fresh credit. The money market rate would have to be paid, but the relief would be worth it.

THE ART MUSEUM.

In the amplitude and splendor of its collections, in public use and usefulness, the Metropolitan Museum of Art was never so rich as now. More and more it brings to New York artists, scholars, connoisseurs, students, from all parts of the country and the world. In a great and ever-increasing degree it is to the people of New York a university of unfailing interest, instruction and pleasure. Yet the city is niggardly to it. Its expenses are continually in excess of its receipts, a condition which, of course, has been growing worse in the last few years. Its Trustees have long been paying out of their own pockets a deficit incurred for the general benefit. Sky-scraping cost of living and taxes hamper these generous, long-suffering givers. They have to ask the public to help support this public benefit. This year the deficit will be $50,000. Next year it may be twice as much.

It is with the Museum as with our richest colleges. They have imposing funds which they can spend only for certain specified purposes. The money at their disposal for the general uses and current emergencies of the university is scant. They are poor in the midst of riches. It is to be hoped that forehanded admirers of the Museum will give or leave it money enough for unrestricted general purposes to save it from the necessity, which now threatens it, of using for administration expenses the principal of its existing unfettered funds. Hitherto it has used only the income.

The Museum is run as economically as it can be. It must have $50,000 this year. The public must raise this sum. One doesn't have to be a purple plutocrat or even a "bloated bondholder" to do his share. It costs only $10 a year to be an annual member. Five thousand new annual members are enough to fatten the fund. Then there is a plethora of people who can afford to pay $25 a year to become sustaining members, sustain the Museum, wipe out the deficit. And there are plenty of people who can pay $100 a year, and never miss it, to be fellowship members. There is no famine of persons who can afford to give $1,000 to become fellows for life. Suit the contribution to the purse; give what you can. It is a shame to the City Government and to the city that this noble foundation, a chief glory of New York, should have to beg for its living expenses.

MR. O'BRIEN'S OPPORTUNITY.

It is expected that Mr. Samuel Untermyer, again robust of health and always multiacute of intellectuals, will perform another operation on the Mayor in the Lockwood committee clinic tomorrow. Meanwhile, we must gently but firmly remonstrate with him for writing Mr. Hylan that the proposed "inquiry by the depart"ments, without adequate power, of "their own acts" "might be gener"ally regarded as a 'whitewashing "operation.'" From the President of the Board of Aldermen, so habitually urbane, a similar expression about "the Whitewashers' Union" is only natural and characteristic. Mr. Untermyer is an artist in cross-examination. Surely his esthetic sense should have restrained him from his unfortunate reference to "whitewash." Who thinks of whitewashing Parian marble, or even limestone?

Mr. John P. O'Brien, the Corporation Counsel, is going to begin his independent inquiry on Monday. He was appointed to discharge that duty by Mayor Hylan, who has perfect confidence in him and in himself. Efforts are made by unruly members of the Board of Estimate to represent this inquiry as a family affair. There has seldom been an unhappier family than the present municipal administration. Who can suppose that municipal family feeling or loyalty to the Mayor can influence Mr. O'Brien in the conduct of his inquiry? The Mayor himself, abating his pride of intellect, has frankly confessed that he has been "fooled." Ceasing to rely upon his power of brain, he trusts his moral virtues. If any members of his administration have wandered from the straight and narrow path traced by his footsteps, they can expect no mercy or tenderness from him. The People's Mayor expects all his official associates to live up to him. If any of them have failed to do so, shall not their errancy be exposed by the vigilant Mr. O'Brien? Besides, it is only too well known that Mr. Untermyer doesn't possess the Mayor's full confidence. That is given only to simpler and more sympathetic souls. Mr. Untermyer can't be "fooled."

Even if the Mayor were guileful, instead of guileless, wouldn't Mr. O'Brien disappoint him? If iniquity has invaded that paradise of the City Hall, what an opportunity for an ambitious lawyer to make himself famous! Doubtless the names of William M. Ivins among the dead, of Mr. Hughes and Mr. Untermyer among the highly living, inspire Mr. O'Brien as he contemplates his task. In his ears rustle the laurels of Miltiades. Let us look for the best. The only fear of the good in regard to Mr. O'Brien's enterprise is that the insatiable Mr. Untermyer won't leave anything for anybody else to find out. Even in that case Mr. O'Brien may console himself by the reflection that the Lockwood inquiry is without the moral authority of the Protector of the People.

HAZING AT ANNAPOLIS.

A midshipman has been dismissed from the Naval Academy for hazing, two or three other cadets have incurred demerits and been restrained of their liberty for the offense, and "plebes" have resigned after identifying upper classmen who hazed them. The present exposure does not seem to amount to a scandal, but Secretary Daniels denounces hazing as a practice, which is commendable, and says that he would just as quickly expel a thousand offenders as one. Discipline must be preserved, he properly insists. However, it would be regrettable if a class or two, a thousand or more embryo officers, were dropped from the rolls, for the country would sorely miss them, the navy being its first line of defense. Obviously, hazing would be very brutal and cowardly, and not of a mild type, if this had to be done. It is reassuring to know that a son of Mr. Daniels, whose resignation from Annapolis in 1919 was supposed to be due to hazing, intimates that he was not abused and says he left the Academy after the armistice to study medicine, as he had planned to do before the war.

Cases of cruel and unusual punishment have been cloaked as hazing at the Academy in the past, but rarely. As a general thing, hazing does not take a malignant form; quite the contrary. The victim is not persecuted, but played with, and he enters into the spirit of the occasion if he is a normal boy. It is not unnatural for upper classmen to impose modesty and introspection upon the "plebes," who may be the better for it; anyway, hazing blended of a feeling of superiority and a spirit of mischief will always be so hard to eradicate that a wise Superintendent, while he should draw the line at excess, is inclined to let boys be boys. The discipline of the Academy at the present time may be left with confidence to Admiral Scales. The midshipman who was dismissed deserved his punishment, according to the Superintendent, and it is clear that the infliction of demerits in other cases could not have been for vicious behavior. Hazing, even of the mildest kind, can never be officially countenanced, but it must be dealt with sometimes as a human weakness.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

They Do Not Pose as Victims.

Though an organization hitherto unknown to fame, the Associated General Contractors possess an Executive Committee that evidently has just the right belief as to how fame is to be acquired—the right way, of course, being to earn it. That the Associated General Contractors can and will do by the position which they have taken—or which their Executive Committee has taken for them—at a meeting in Washington, this week, in regard to the payment of bribes and of blackmail.

Instead of posing as the innocent and helpless victims of assorted extortions, as is the far too common practice, the committee recognizes that between bribe-takers and bribe-givers there is no difference in morals or in moral responsibility, and that blackmail can be levied only on those who have evil actions to conceal or evil plans in course of execution. Going still further, the committee exhorts the Lockwood investigators to continue their work until they have exposed and brought to justice, not only the corrupt labor leaders who have been abusing the powers of unionism, but also until appreciation has been gained for "those who, condemning the principle of the settlement of, or purchase of immunity from, labor troubles by the corruption of labor officials, desire an honorable settlement of the labor problem, based on fair dealing."

As "language," that will win no prizes for elegance, but it is entirely lucid, and it is in truly refreshing contrast with what has been coming of late from contractors who disliked the paying of blackmail, indeed, and yet were willing to go on doing it as long as they could collect as much or more from somebody else. They pretend deep gratitude to the Lockwood committee for rescuing them from their exploiters, but they could have rescued themselves at any moment if they had been decently courageous and really honest.

All Ready to Join the League.

From the proclamation of the Associated General Contractors it must or may be assumed that the members of their organization have never been guilty of the practice they condemn. They are eligible, therefore, for admission to the league suggested in this column the other day—the league of people who are going to put an end to bribery and blackmail by the very simple expedient of never, for any reason or in any circumstances, paying either the one or the other. Nothing more than that is needed to end the whole miserable business, but to do it will not be as easy as it is simple, for involved will be, necessarily, the abandonment by the leaguers of all hope to get illegitimate advantages over other people or to buy privileges for less than they are worth. And that, alas, would be regarded as a painful form of altruism by what one cannot help fearing is a considerable fraction of the world's present-day population.

But perhaps the fraction is not as large as is thought to be the case by pessimists and other too quick despairers, and, anyway, the Associated General Contractors have made a good beginning.

Consumers Are Not Convinced.

Secretary Baker, in answering charges against the financial operations of his department, is more than fairly successful in defending its enormous purchases of supplies. He well might have said that the significance of these purchases, as bearing upon American purposes and determination, had not a little to do with the decision of the Germans in the November of 1918 that the time to stop fighting had come—a decision that was cheaply bought, high as was the cost.

Perhaps the Secretary's argument as to the disposition made after the armistice of what then became excess stocks was equally sound, but its soundness is not appreciable quite as easily. One can see, of course, what the effect on business and employment here at home would have been had these mountains of all sorts of goods and materials been dumped on the American market at once, to be sold at auction for what they would bring. One also remembers, however, that both labor and capital already had made at least reasonable profit, and not infrequently profit reasonable only because made in a great emergency, on those same goods and materials. The American consumer inclines to think that he was entitled to something of the same sort of consideration that was given to business and employment.

Said consumer had no previously acquired profits on which to fall back, and when what looked to him like a chance to lower the cost of his living was not utilized he naturally was displeased. He is an obstinate fellow, that consumer, and he still finds difficulty in keeping his temper when he reads the many tales of what looks to him like deliberate waste, carried on in order that the high cost of living may not come down. That is a selfish view of the situation, no doubt, but in taking it the consumer is not out of the prevailing fashion.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Many of us are asking just what the "overwhelming verdict" rendered last Election Day, of which, in one way or another, we are hearing so much, really means.

I take up the daily issues of the Italian press in this city and I find that overwhelming verdict hailed as "a triumph for the Fatherland."

I take up the German language press and I find the verdict interpreted as a rejection of the Versailles Treaty and a vote for a separate peace with Germany.

I turn to the Irish press, and the overwhelming verdict is claimed as the result of the solid Irish vote against England and the "English League of Nations."

If these claims are correct, without looking any further, the Republican majority of 6,000,000 votes is amply accounted for.

I have asked several unhyphenated Americans who helped to swell the overwhelming verdict what their interpretation of this verdict was, and I have been answered that it was due to Wilson being an autocrat; that it was due to a desire for a change of administration; that it meant Burleson should be kicked out; that it was because the League of Nations was being put over on us by the selfish nations of Europe; that it was because Cox was pro-German, and so on down through all the irrelevant charges, including the statement that the President had no right to go to Europe.

This was the source of the solemn referendum to which President Wilson appealed. This was the great silent vote from which some of us hoped for a counterbalancing of the great blind vote, ignoring the fact that the two were one and the same! An overwhelming majority, indeed.

ROBERT ADGER BOWEN.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Allowing that thousands upon thousands voted against Cox who were pro-Germans, pro-Irish, pro-Italians and pro-every other European nation, still what about the many other voters who counted into the millions? Can you consistently deny that the Wilson Administration was on trial and the great American jury rendered a "solemn" verdict upon the "solemn" referendum submitted to the people involving the acceptance or rejection of the Wilsonian League of Nations? Is it not a fact that the League of Nations was purposely intertwined with the Versailles Treaty, so as to force its acceptance regardless of the fact that millions of good honest Americans (not pro-Germans, &c.) believe that the treaty itself was the worst treaty ever drafted by warring nations and their diplomats?

It does not make any difference what explanations or excuses you may offer, the fact remains that the Wilson Administration was tried and found wanting and the people registered a "solemn" protest against the League of Nations as insisted upon by the President, and it does not matter whether Mr. Root or Mr. Wickersham or any other big Republican desires the entering of America into the League of Nations, for President Harding will certainly not disregard the "solemn" referendum, and you can rest assured that he will act accordingly and it will be in the interest of the American people and not in the interest of foreign countries. THE DINOSAURS.

Where are the monsters of the land and water
That ruled the nightmare world of ages past?—
Towering reptiles ravenous to slaughter?
Great armored lizards, looming mammoth-vast?—
Of whole great races there survives alone
A fragmentary wing, a crumpled bone.

A crumpled bone!—is only that abiding?
On other planets, younger than the earth,
May not their souls in giant frames be hiding,
Bestial as those that gave them here their birth?
And are their spirits not alive once more
In tales of dragons and in goblin lore?

Have they not now a resurrected being
Deep in our souls, where slumbering they lie,
Save when at times we summon forth, unseeing,
The monstrous passions of an age gone by?
Or have they been refined and purified,
And do they now in gracious forms abide?

Perhaps, as sullied water may be seeping
Back to the sea, and lose its brownness there,
And once again on breasts of clouds be leaping,
And plunge transmuted through the crystal air,
So souls of men and monsters are reborn,
Their grayness shining golden in the dawn.

Post Likely to Be Filled Before the Christmas Holidays.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 17.—The special committee which was appointed by the Yale Corporation last Spring to make recommendations for filling the Presidency of the university is preparing to record its findings, and Yale Alumni believe that this will be done before the university closes for the Christmas holidays.

While every detail of the report which will be made is kept a profound secret by the committee, a report which is based on apparently reliable information asserts that the committee is weighing the final merits and claims of three prominent graduates of the university: The Rev. Dr. Anson Phelps Stokes, Secretary of the university; Dean Herbert E. Hawkes of Columbia University and the Rev. Dr. Henry Sloane Coffin of New York City.

Messrs. Hawkes and Stokes were classmates in the academic department in '86 and Dr. Coffin was a member of the academic class of '97. He is popular with the undergraduates and alumni as a pastor who has frequently preached at Yale, as a leading officer of the Northfield group and a leading Presbyterian. The clerical element among the alumni and the corporation favor him heartily.

Dr. Stokes has been Secretary of the university since the election of Dr. Hadley to the Presidency twenty-one years ago. He is more familiar than any other person with the details of the executive work of the university, with the Faculty, the alumni and the undergraduate situation, and is recognized as one of the ablest of the distinguished alumni of the university.

Dr. Hawkes, who was a member of the Faculty of Yale in the mathematical department until about ten years ago, has won an enviable reputation at Columbia as an organizer.

All three of the candidates are comparatively young men, according to present standards, and are in close touch with university life.

SAYS THE DISABLED SUFFER.

American Legion Commander Complains of Hospital Facilities.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17.—Charges of inhuman treatment of former service men in hospitals were made today by F. W. Galbraith Jr. of Cincinnati, National Commander of the American Legion. This is Mr. Galbraith's first visit here since his election last September. He said that conditions in some of the States were appalling.

"I found several former service men convalescing in a New York hospital where, with the exception of the soldiers, only imbeciles are treated. The American Legion does not want to arouse the animosity of any State against the former service men, but it does make a plea for a sympathetic understanding of the situation.

"We realize the Government is doing everything possible with the facilities available. The facilities, however, are far from adequate and conditions are breeding discontent among the veterans.

"The American Legion believes Government hospitals should be regionalized as far as possible, and cases segregated."

CHARLES SALE, $276,522.

Small Heraldic Tapestry Brings the Highest Price, $16,700.

Fine old tapestries at the Charles of London sale at the Plaza last evening, sold under the auspices of the American Art Association, Thomas E. Kirby in the auctioneer's chair, brought the top prices, the highest, No. 724, a millefleurs Arras tapestry of a late Gothic period, going to P. W. French & Co. for $16,700. This was the "Heraldic Tapestry of a Crusader," comparatively small, 6 feet 11 by 14 feet 8. It was unusually perfect and finely woven, and is said to have been executed for Cardinal Caesarini, the leader of the last crusade, defeated at Varna.

No. 717, a Renaissance tapestry, one of a series illustrating the history of Alexander the Great, "The Family of Darius at the Feet of Alexander," sixteenth century Brussels, also went to French & Co., and for $14,000, the third highest price of the evening. The second highest price was given for a great Ispahan rug, No. 728, the last in the evening's sale. This was a wonderful old sixteenth century carpet, with a rose du Barry field. It started at $10,000, and was knocked down to Kent Costikyan for $16,500.

A couple of Gothic tapestries, Arras of the fifteenth century, were the only pieces in the sale with an upset price. They were put up last evening, No. 726, "The Triumph of Vespasian," the largest, for $25,000, and the smaller one of the same kind and period, No. 727, "Titus Capturing and Sacking Jerusalem, A. D. 70," at $15,000. No bids were made and both were passed.

No. 693—Gold-enriched panel; D. G. Kelekian	$2,650
697—Flemish renaissance seventeenth century Cantonniere; P. W. French & Co.	$3,000
700—Early Gothic allegorical; D. Kelekian	$1,000
702—French seventeenth century petit and gros-point hanging; Mme. Cattadori	$1,450
703—Brussels sixteenth century renaissance; A. Michael Yan	$3,300
704—Brussels sixteenth century renaissance; Keller & Funaro	$4,200
705—Brussels sixteenth century renaissance; French & Co.	$4,500
706—Flemish sixteenth century renaissance; G. F. A. Naphen	$2,500
707—Flemish sixteenth century renaissance; Mrs. Guest	$3,600
708—Flemish sixteenth century renaissance; French & Co.	$4,500
709—French Gothic tapestry; D. G. Kelekian	$4,950
710—Italian seventeenth century renaissance; H. J. Bliss	$2,600
711—Italian seventeenth century renaissance; French & Co.	$3,000
713—Arras tapestry, Gothic period; Keller & Funaro	$3,300
714—Brussels sixteenth century renaissance; French & Co.	$4,500
715—Brussels sixteenth century renaissance; French & Co.	$5,400
716—Brussels sixteenth century renaissance; W. O. Lindley	$3,900
718—Brussels sixteenth century renaissance; Mme. Cattadori	$3,000
720—French gold-enriched tapestry; Frank B. Storrs	$5,100

The returns for the evening sale, pictures and tapestries, amounted to $152,700, making, with the afternoon sale, a grand total to date of $276,522. There was a very large attendance last evening.

In the afternoon sale a set of six oak chairs, Stuart style, the seat and back upholstered in seventeenth century Italian crimson damask and trimmed with gold galloon, went to Mrs. Edward Brooks, Jr., for $720, and an oak gateleg table of the Stuart period, about 1665, with oval top, to Mrs. Brooks for $370. Five carved mahogany chairs of the Queen Anne period on slightly cabrioled legs and club feet, the loose seats upholstered with uncut Florentine velvet of an earlier period, were bought by Mrs. L. S. Morris for $600, and to Mrs. E. St. Cyr went a sculptured walnut cassone of the Italian Renaissance; the front in elaborate bas relief, with a coat of arms in cartouch in the centre, went to Mrs. L. S. Russell for $600.

Another carved walnut cassone of the same period, the coat-of-arms, in the elaborate front, mantled by an eagle and supported by two winged angels, went to J. Feffercorn for $700. A French eighteenth century illuminated leather screen, three fold, with pastoral scenes, sold to C. R. Yandell & Co. for $600. To Miss Marie Russell went an interesting old Welsh oak court cupboard of the Jacobean period for $475, and to Miss R. S. Hoyt went another illuminated leather screen, French, eighteenth century, painted with pastoral scenes in the style of Lancret, for $550. Two carved walnut side chairs of the William and Mary period, with seats upholstered in crimson velvet of the period, went to Bernet, agent, for $340, and to the same buyer four walnut chairs of the Cromwellian period, the seats and backs upholstered in crimson damask of the period, for $840. The total for the afternoon was $42,815. The sale will be continued this afternoon.

SENATORS URGENT FOR AID TO FARMERS

DIAL APPEALS TO WILSON

Farm Organizations to Press for Bill to Legalize Collective Marketing.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Senators from the Western and Southern States are considering the matter of urging legislative action to revive the War Finance Corporation. They said today that this was the only agency that could give immediate help to agricultural interests in the "appalling" situation resulting from the sudden fall in prices.

A conference of Western Senators and Representatives to discuss the matter will be called, it was stated, when Senator Gronna of North Dakota, Chairman of the Agricultural Committee, arrived in Washington.

One suggestion is that Congress adopt a mandatory resolution directing the immediate revival of the corporation.

In an appeal to President Wilson to restore the corporation, Senator Dial of South Carolina wrote that he had discussed the matter with Secretary Houston, adding:

"I must say that he does not comprehend in the least the situation, or he does not desire to assist the American producer, and I feel that it is absolutely useless for any one to confer with him further on the subject.

"I have conferred with all the leaders of our party and I have not yet found a single man who does not agree that the War Finance Corporation should resume operations at once."

The Executive Committee of the National Board of Farm Organizations will meet here Monday to discuss possible relief measures.

Delegations named at the recent agricultural conference here also asked Secretary Houston to rehabilitate the War Finance Corporation, and were met with the statement that it was not necessary. The Secretary quoted export statistics to show the amount of agricultural products which had moved overseas.

Passage of the Capper-Hersman-Volstead bill legalizing collective marketing will be urged by the farmers' representatives at the coming session of Congress, it was said today. It will also ask for a Congressional investigation of credit and rates of interest.

SENATE SELLS FURNITURE.

Champagne Cooler Brings $1, Electric Runabout $6.50 at Auction.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The Senate went into the salvage business yesterday by the sale at auction of accumulated fixtures and furniture dating back to the days of the Sixty-first Congress.

A lemonade bowl from which tired Senators quenched their thirst in the cloakroom, went for $3; a champagne cooler brought $1. A sofa and five big leather chairs were knocked down for $140. Two of these chairs formerly adorned the marble room. Four old oak sideboards realized from $5 to $18.50. An ice box, formerly a regular attendant at Finance Committee deliberations, went for a song. An electric runabout, once the property of the late Senator Elkins of West Virginia, and which had stood for years in the Senate garage, brought $6.50. Altogether the Sergeant-at-Arms collected $1,200.

WANTS $500,000,000 TARIFF.

President of Home Market Club Says Europe Is Fast Recovering.

BOSTON, Nov. 17.—The United States is lagging behind European countries in economic readjustment, William B. H. Dowse, President of the Home Market Club, said in his address at the annual meeting today.

On a recent trip to Europe, he said, he found that over there "they seemed in many particulars farther from the recent war than we, that money seemed to circulate freer than with us and that there was a general display of energy and recuperation far greater than here. Germany is settling down to a peace basis and is getting down to work in a manner that will certainly cause us a great surprise when we review their accomplishments at the end of the next twelve months.

Asserting that the Underwood-Simmons tariff has been a failure as a revenue measure, President Dowse said that had the higher average ad valorem duty of the Payne-Aldrich law been in effect during the last seven years the customs revenue would have been three times larger on the same volume of importations.

"It is safe to say that the Government can derive an income of $500,000,000 from a wise revision of the tariff schedules," he added. "And such a revision is imperatively needed not only from a revenue point of view, but also to protect American employment and American industries, and to stabilize American business now in a chaotic and demoralized condition."

CHILD CONFERENCE OPENS.

Agencies Interested in Finding Homes Meet at Sage Foundation.

An important conference of agencies placing children out to board in private homes was opened under the auspices of the Babies' Welfare Federation at the Russell Sage Foundation, 130 East Twenty-second Street, yesterday afternoon. It will end this afternoon. This is the first conference of the kind, and thirty-two different organizations accepted the invitation to be present. Dr. Hasting H. Hart is Chairman.

Two papers were read upon the "Qualifications of Foster Mothers," by Dr. Lee Thomas of the Department of Health, and "Standardization of Board Paid," by Dr. Mary Beattie of the New York Foundling Hospital. All the large and important organizations interested in the welfare of children were represented. The two papers to be read today will be on the "Supervision of the Home" and "Technique of Home Finding."

CITY GETS NEW TROLLEYS.

Twenty-eight Delivered for Use on Staten Island Lines.

The twenty-eight trolley cars ordered by the city for operation on the lines of the Staten Island Midland Railway Company were delivered yesterday and their operation will begin on Dec. 1, according to schedule. In making this announcement of the progress of the city's first essay at municipal operation of a trolley service Commissioner Grover A. Whalen said the cars were of the Birney safety type which had proved so popular that 40 per cent. of the cars bought by traction companies in the large cities in 1918 were of that type.

New President at Trinity College.

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 17.—The Rev. Remsen Brinckerhoff Ogilby, former Master of Groton School at Groton, Mass., was inducted as twelfth President of Trinity College today. In his inaugural address President Ogilby said that Trinity would still remain a church college, and its aim was to produce leaders rather than specialists.

MISS MOCK WED TO DR. PAUL M. WALTER

WILL LIVE IN BETHLEHEM

Bridegroom Served Overseas as a Captain in the United States Army Medical Corps.

Dr. Paul M. Walter and Miss Mary Elizabeth Mock, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Francis Mock of Philadelphia, but formerly of Pittsburgh, and a niece of Charles M. Schwab, the steel magnate, and Mrs. Schwab, was celebrated at 8 o'clock last evening at the New York residence of Mr. and Mrs. Schwab at Riverside Drive and West Seventy-third Street, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion. It was a simple ceremony, neither the bride nor bridegroom having any attendants, and none except the immediate families and a few close friends were invited to it. There was no reception, but a bridal supper was served.

Mrs. Walter has spent much time with Mr. and Mrs. Schwab and her engagement to Dr. Walter was announced last Easter Sunday at a dinner they gave for her and her fiancé at their New York house.

Dr. Walter studied at Lafayette College, but was trained in medicine at Jefferson College, from which he was graduated in 1913. Later he served as a Captain in the United States Army Medical Corps, for twenty-two months overseas. A year ago he went to Bethlehem, Pa., his home having formerly been in Pittsburgh, and has ever since been connected with St. Luke's Hospital in that city. After their honeymoon Dr. Walter and his bride will go to Bethlehem and occupy the house on Fountain Hill in that city owned by Mr. Schwab.

WEDDINGS.

Miss Edith Dow Merrill the Bride of Dr. Arthur L. Root.

Miss Edith Dow Merrill and Dr. Arthur Lewis Root were married yesterday in All Angels' Church by the Rev. Dr. S. De Lancey Townsend.

The bride is the daughter of the late Horace E. Merrill. Dr. Root is a graduate of the University Medical College and has been visiting physician to the Metropolitan and Hannemann hospitals for many years. He is a member of the West Side Club and the West End Association, also of the Mayflower Descendants and Englewood and York (Me.) Country Clubs.

After returning from their bridal trip Dr. and Mrs. Root will be at home at 114 West Eighty-first Street.

Nathan—Harris.

Miss Jannette Livingston Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Harris of 1 West Ninety-third Street, formerly of Hornell, N. Y., was married last evening in the Crystal Room of the Ritz-Carlton to Emanuel Nathan, son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Nathan of Brookline, Mass. The Rev. Dr. Nathan Stern of the West Eighty-second Street Synagogue performed the ceremony.

The bride was gowned in white satin embroidered with pearls and crystals. Her veil was draped from a crown of rose point lace. Mrs. L. Ginsburg attended her as matron of honor and the bridesmaids were the Misses Gertrude and Mildred Mayers of this city. Joseph Nathan, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan will spend their honeymoon in Florida and upon their return will reside in this city. Mr. Nathan is a graduate of Harvard University and during the war he served as an Ensign in the navy.

Heartt—Comstock.

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Comstock, daughter of Mrs. Albert Comstock, and Philip Heartt, both of Montclair, N. J., took place last evening at St. Luke's Church in that city. The ceremony was performed by Bishop Coadjutor Wilson R. Stearly, assisted by the Rev. Luke M. White, rector of the church.

Miss Elsie Comstock was her sister's maid of honor, and the bridal attendants were Mrs. Charles McKnight and the Misses Mary McDonald, Sabra Bradlee and Annette Farish. T. Perry Black of Montclair acted as best man, and the ushers were Harry Adinsell, Kenneth Pettigrew, Gustav Dannreuther, N. Taylor Dannreuther, J. Graham Carswell and Karl Mann. A reception at the home of the bride followed the ceremony. After their wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Heartt will reside in Glen Ridge.

Christie—Aplanalp.

The marriage of Miss Martha Aplanalp, a young Swiss girl, and James Henry Christie of this city took place at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Assembly Hall of the Central Branch of the Y. W. C. A., the Rev. Dr. Percy T. Edorp, rector of the Reformed Episcopal Church of this city, officiating. The hall was decorated with white chrysanthemums and laurel and with a large American and Swiss flag.

The bride wore a traveling suit of tan broadcloth and carried a shower bouquet of white roses. Miss Anna Kuechler, who attended her as maid of honor, was in a blue satin frock and had a bouquet of pink roses. Young Miss Marjorie Kahn and Walter Kahn acted as flower bearers. Prior to the ceremony Miss Katherine Cooksey of Mount Vernon sang. A reception attended by about five hundred guests was held at the Y. W. C. A.

ENGAGEMENTS.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Kamaiky of 61 East Eightieth Street announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Rebecca Kamaiky, to Arthur Schur of Boston, Mass.

Miss Kamaiky is in her senior year at Teachers College, Columbia University. Her father, who is the publisher of The Jewish Daily News, is Chairman of the Central Jewish Relief Committee and Vice President of the Hebrew Sheltering and Immigrant Aid Society of America. She is a grand-daughter of the late Kasriel H. Sarasohn, a pioneer of the Yiddish press in this country.

Mr. Schur is a graduate of Harvard, class of '17. He is a member of the Phi Beta Kappa fraternity. The marriage will take place in the Spring.

Mrs. Harry Canfield of 53 West Eighty-seventh Street, formerly of Brooklyn, announces the engagement of her only daughter, Miss Catherine Flavia Canfield, to Leighton Elliott of Toronto, Canada, a son of Dr. J. E. Elliott and Mrs. Elliott. Miss Canfield is a junior at Smith College. During the war Mr. Elliott served as a First Lieutenant in the Royal Canadian Field Artillery and spent three years overseas. He is now in business in Toronto. No date has been set for the marriage.

The engagement is announced of Miss Lois Walcott Kellogg, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Kellogg of Utica, N. Y., to Philip C. Jessup, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wynans Jessup of 901 Lexington Avenue, New York. Mr. Jessup is a brother of John E. Jessup, and both were in the service.

Theatre Party for Miss Wells.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Rossiter Betts of 270 Park Avenue last evening gave a theatre party for their debutante niece, Miss Georgine Lawrence Wells, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Tilston Wells. After the play the party were taken to the Ritz-Carlton crystal room for supper, followed by dancing. There were fourteen guests besides Miss Wells, including the Misses Annie Burr Auchincloss, Lee Dodge, Louise Vanderbilt Schieffelin and Laura Harding, all debutantes; also John Jay Schieffelin, W. M. V. Hoffman, Jr., William A. Taylor, Jr., A. Coster Schermerhorn and Louis G. Pooler.

MOROSINI TROTH ENDS FAMILY ESTRANGEMENT

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ottilio P. Morosini Engaged to Capt. Lafayette Crabbe.

The engagement of Miss Mary Washington Bond Morosini, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Attilio Pertinax Morosini of this city and Essex Fells, N. J., to Captain Lafayette Crabbe, U. S. Marine Corps, was announced recently at a dinner given by the aunt of the bride-elect, Miss Giulia Morosini, at the latter's home, Elmhurst, at Riverdale-on-Hudson. The ceremony, which will be a quiet one, will take place on Jan. 19 in the armory at Elmhurst, with only a few immediate relatives and intimate friends in attendance.

The engagement comes as the result of a friendship between Miss Morosini and Captain Crabbe, who met at the United States naval rifle range near Caldwell, not far from the Essex Fells home of the Morosinis.

The proposed match has been the means of ending the estrangement that has existed between the girl's father and her aunt, Miss Giulia Morosini, since Attilio's marriage to Mary Washington Bond, who is a greatgranddaughter of Colonel Samuel Washington, a brother of George Washington, and a greatniece of Dolly Madison. This marriage also caused a breach between Mr. Morosini and his father, Giovanni Pertinax Morosini, the banker, of this city.

Captain Crabbe, whose home is in Louisville, Ky., is a grandson of Admiral George Crabbé, U. S. N. He is a graduate of Annapolis, and has served with the marines in many parts of the world. He is at present stationed at the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

$20,000,000 CONTRACT FOR TALMADGE SISTERS

Associated First National Pictures, Inc., to Exploit Norma and Constance for Three Years.

A contract in the film industry putting into the background Charley Chaplin's famous "million-dollar contract," was announced yesterday by James D. Williams, manager of Associated First National Pictures, Inc., 6 West Forty-eighth Street. The amount invoved, according to the announcement, is $20,000,000 for the future productions of two stars, Norma and Constance Talmadge.

E. J. Hudson of the First National said that the $20,000,000 is to cover the expenses of production and distribution for the next three years of twenty-four feature productions to be appeared in by the Talmadge sisters. Each of the sisters will be featured in four pictures a year.

The contract was announced following the signing of a contract with Joseph M. Schenck, producer, and husband of Norma Talmadge. Under the terms the Talmadges and Mr. Schenck will share in the profits accruing under this contract.

AMBASSADOR IS ITS NAME.

First of Six New Shubert Theatres to Be Opened in January.

The first of six theatres which the Shuberts are building in Forty-eighth and Forty-ninth Streets will be called the Ambassador and will be opened in January. This will be a theatre seating 1,200 persons, and is being built upon the site at 215 to 225 West Forty-ninth Street, just west of Broadway.

The Ambassador offers a novelty in construction, in that it runs diagonally upon the plot, so as to gain the benefit of additional space. Herbert J. Krapp is the architect and Edward Margolies the builder.

Four of the new Shubert theatres will be on Forty-ninth Street and two on Forty-eighth. One of the latter, immediately across from the Longacre, is now in course of construction. Another Shubert house is in process of construction on Seventh Avenue, immediately below Fifty-ninth Street, and still other Shubert houses are planned for Eighth Avenue and Fifty-fourth Street and Broadway and Sixty-eighth Street.

Tito Schipa, Opera Tenor, Sings.

Tito Schipa's singing of the "Panis Angelicus" of César Franck was a new departure for an opera tenor, and particularly for the youthful tenor of the Chicago Opera, at his well-attended matinee yesterday in Carnegie Hall; a fresh, virile tone to a full organ accompaniment, and still more a fine seriousness of ambition shown, merited critical praise, which as composer he could not approach in an ensuing "Ave Maria" of his own. Mr. Schipa mingled old Italian airs with one of Wolf-Ferrari's quaint lyrics from the "Dome Curiose" and others from Lalo's "Roi d'Ys" and Massenet's "Werther." He was happiest in a dozen wholly new and tasteful songs by latter-day Latins, repeatedly encored.

GEN. HAWKINS GIVES $200,000 TO ACTORS

Residue Goes to Norwich University—$125,000 to Combat Vivisection.

The will of General Rush C. Hawkins, filed for probate yesterday, disposes of an estate estimated at more than $1,000,000, chiefly in public bequests. General Hawkins, who was the leader of the Hawkins Zouaves in the Civil War, and died as the result of being run over by an automobile near his residence, 42 Fifth Avenue, lived alone and had no heirs at law.

The residuary estate is left to Norwich University at Northfield, Vt., for the following reason: "I believe above all else in a military education, its tendency being to develop self-respecting, real men, who are more likely than others to be faithful in all relations which should adorn decent society. I am proud of the records made by Norwich graduates, in the field and at sea, whenever they have been called upon to serve their country."

The largest direct bequest is $200,000 to the Actors' Fund of America for its home on Staten Island, which the testator says is "now occupied by aged and dependent members of the dramatic profession, who have worn themselves out in the service of the public." He says that the income from the fund is to be used not only for the home but for members living outside, and adds:

"This gift, at most, is an inadequate expression of my sincere affection for the actors and actresses I have known, and of my gratitude for the many thousands of pleasurable hours their professional efforts have contributed to my happiness and instruction."

The American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals gets $100,000, the income of which is to be used to "abate the wicked horrors of vivisection, and to compel those who practice it to make known to the public the actual methods of their unspeakable calling." The London and Provincial Anti-Visection League gets $25,000 and $10,000 goes to the Florence Crittenton League.

The will made gifts of $100,000 each to the University of Vermont and Brown University, "which was largely endowed by the grandfather of my dear wife," and $10,000 "to my talented, eloquent and esteemed friend, the Rev. C. T. Walker, D.D., of Augusta, Ga., who is doing a noble work in the uplift of his race," but a codicil to the will canceled the gifts, because General Hawkins decided to make them during his lifetime.

General Hawkins gave $9,000 to Margaret Dwyer, his house servant, at the rate of $500 for each year she had been employed, and gifts of $5,000 each to friends, including Colonel George Van Bever of Antwerp, and Mme. Fannie Hymans and Mlle. Marguerite Horn, both of Brussels; Dr. Alfred N. Philips and his wife of Glenbrook, Conn., "in appreciation of many acts of kindness and kindly devotion at a time most needed"; Mrs. Genevieve L. Griscom, widow of Clement A. Griscom, "in appreciation of old and pleasant associations," and the widow of General William Ludlow, an old friend, and Gari Melchors of Falmouth, Va.

The will was made Nov. 5, 1919.

'JIMMIE' OPENS THE APOLLO.

Pert Frances White Captivates in a Musical Comedy Made for Her.

JIMMIE, a musical comedy in three acts and four scenes. Book and lyrics by Otto Harbach, Frank Mandel and Oscar Hammerstein 2d. Music by Herbert Stothart. At the Apollo Theatre.

Vincenzo Carlotti	Paul Porcasi
Madame Gambetti	Dee Loretta
Jimmie	Frances White
Beatrice	Hattie Burks
Tom O'Brien	Don Burroughs
Milton Blum	Harry Delf
Jacob Blum	Ben Welch
Jerry O'Brien	Howard Truesdell
Watkins	Tom O'Hara
Peters	Peter Mott
Henri	Raymond E. Oswald
Giuseppi	Jack Heisler
Antonio	George Clifford
Wanda Holmes	Betty Marshall
Rose	Mary Jane
Henrietta	Helen Neff
Blanche	Tess Mayer

The lengthy, but apparently still inadequate, list of metropolitan playhouses was augmented by one more last night with the opening of the Apollo, the second of the two houses which the Selwyns have erected en bloc in Forty-second Street. Simultaneously the diminutive and piquant Frances White was elevated to stardom in a characteristic musical comedy entitled "Jimmie"—a lavishly gowned and splashy piece with a nearly humorless book, but brought up to the standard of good entertainment by the presence of the pert Miss White.

It does not seem so long ago since Frances White made her first New York appearance on Monday afternoon at the Palace Theatre—records show that it is about five years. Since then she has gone the rounds of the roof shows and the musical comedy stages, gathering new followers as she traveled. In "Jimmie" she is just a little better than she has ever been before. Some of the rough edges have been polished a little; she has improved vocally, and she exhibits at times a very real talent as a comedienne.

"Jimmie," having been written for her, permits her to do all the things that have caused her admirers to be her admirers—in addition to a few others. It is not until the close of the second act, for example, that she appears in the simple gingham (or calico) dress to do a cycle of songs of the "Mississippi" kind. Previously, as a waitress who was a cabaret singer as well, she had been almost demure—demurely flip, it might be called, for Miss White is never exactly demure.

The story of "Jimmie," cunningly contrived to permit the star to exhibit as many tricks as possible, gives her the opportunity to appear as waitress, cabaret artist and ragamuffin in the first act; as Frances White in the second, and as a successful vaudevillian, radiant in white furs, in the third. There is a good deal of story to "Jimmie," with Miss White as an heiress who is defrauded of her inheritance, for two and one-half acts. The story even calls upon Miss White to play a sentimental scene now and then, and she did them a good deal better than was to have been expected, all things considered.

For the rest, the play takes Ben Welch out of vaudeville to play a legitimate and beardless rôle. Mr. Welch is only moderately effective in it, and least so when he incorporates sections of his vaudeville monologue into the part. There is a new eccentric dancer named Rita Owin, built on the Charlotte Greenwood order, and nearly as funny. There is Harry Delf, overacting.

The girls and the music are pretty, and the production as a whole is spirited. The new theatre has a broad and commodious auditorium and is attractive throughout.

General Nivelle Here Next Month.

General Robert Nivelle, who is here as a delegate to the Mayflower celebration, will return to New York early in December to make a series of addresses here. The General is at present touring in the West. Yesterday he was in Cleveland, Ohio.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

"The Mandarin" will be withdrawn from the Princess Theatre this week.

J. M. Kerrigan has been added to the cast of "Rollo's Wild Oat," opening at the Punch and Judy next Tuesday.

"June Love," a musical comedy by Charlotte Thompson, W. H. Post and Brian Hooker, with score by Rudolph Friml, will open in Atlantic City tonight.

"Meet the Wife," a farce, produced by Wilner & Romberg, will have its first performance in Plainfield next Monday night. Will Deming will head the cast.

"Oh, Pat," a musical comedy in which Pat Rooney and Marion Bent will appear, will go into rehearsal today.

Executive From 1908 to 1911 Expires in South Orange—Adopted 'New Idea' in Politics.

John Franklin Fort, Governor of New Jersey from 1908 to 1911, died shortly before 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at his home, 262 Charlton Avenue, South Orange. All the immediate members of his family were present. Although only recently did his illness become critical, he had been in bad health since a paralytic stroke suffered in April, 1919, while speaking at Carlisle, Pa. Illness had forced him to resign from the Federal Trade Commission a year ago.

Among the many telegrams of condolence received last night was the following, addressed to J. Franklin Fort, Jr.:

"My sincere sympathy goes out to you in the loss of your father, in whose death I feel that I have lost a true friend and the country a true and loyal servant. WOODROW WILSON."

Governor Fort was born at Pemberton, N. J., March 20, 1852. Not long after his admission to the bar he was appointed in 1878 a judge of the District Court of Newark, remaining on that bench for eight years. From 1896 to 1900 he presided over the Court of Common Pleas of Essex County, and during the succeeding seven years served as a Justice of the Supreme Court of the State.

During his entire career he played an active part in the Republican politics of New Jersey, and attended many National Conventions as a delegate; in 1896 presenting the name of Garret A. Hobart for Vice President. In 1912 he was a delegate to the Progressive Convention.

Twice he acted as a special envoy of the United States to the Dominican Republic in August, 1914, and to Haiti in March, 1915. Although party regularity aided his election to the Governorship in the Fall of 1907, a year and a half later, he announced his complete independence of boss rule and his adoption of the "new idea" in politics. During his term of office he gained praise for his firmness on excise questions, and previously, when Supreme Court Justice, he had fought vigorously the rich gamblers at Long Branch.

The near relatives surviving are his widow, who was Miss Charlotte E. Stainsby of Newark, two sons and a daughter. Services will be held at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the home. According to the present plans of the family, there will be no honorary pallbearers.

THOMAS J. COOLIDGE DEAD.

BOSTON, Nov. 17.—Thomas Jefferson Coolidge, former United States Minister to France, died at his home here tonight. Mr. Coolidge, who was born in Boston in 1831, was graduated from Harvard College in 1850 and the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred upon him by Harvard in 1902.

His long business career began as a member of a firm of East India merchants and later he was President of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad and of the Oregon Railroad Navigation Company. He was Minister to France in 1892 and 1893 and was a member of the Joint High Commission to adjust disputes between England and the United States in 1898 and 1899. From 1886 to 1897 he was an overseer of Harvard University, to which he gave the Jefferson Physical Research Laboratory. He was a director of several New England banking, insurance and manufacturing establishments.

Harry C. Christianson.

Harry C. Christianson, head of the sugar firm of his name at 120 Front Street, died yesterday at his home, 410 Riverside Drive, after a brief illness of heart disease, at the age of 52. During the recent difficult conditions of the sugar market he had been called upon by buyers and sellers to arbitrate questions of rates and contracts, and his excessive labors in this regard are believed to have brought on his fatal illness. He was for many years a leading figure in the sugar business in this city, and long a close friend and associate of the late H. O. Havemeyer.

Mr. Christianson entered the office of Henry L. Hobart as a young man, became a partner, and later acquired the controlling interest and changed the name of the firm to H. C. Christianson & Co.

Throng at Father Flood's Funeral.

So large was the crowd that gathered yesterday morning in and about the Church of the Holy Rosary, in East 119th Street, for the funeral services of Father James H. Flood that Police Captain Noble summoned his reserves from the 126th Street Station. Among the mourners in attendance were large delegations from the Holy Rosary Lyceum and the Mystic Rose Council. High mass was sung by the pastor, the Rev. Thomas F. Kane, assisted by the Rev. Michael A. Larkin of St. Gabriel's Church, New Rochelle, and the Rev. David C. O'Connor, pastor of St. Coleman's Church, Kingston.

Sol H. Kohn.

Sol H. Kohn, who for many years before his retirement was President of the Chrome Steel Works, died Wednesday at his residence, the Belnord, Eighty-sixth Street and Broadway, at the age of 74. The early part of his life was spent in Wichita, Kan., where he played an important part in the finance and government of the city during its period of initial development as a city. He was the founder and President of the Wichita Savings Bank, Chairman of the Board of County Commissioners, and Mayor. His wife, a daughter of Esther Herrman, philanthropist, and a son, Achilles H. Kohn, survive.

Admiral Schley's Widow Dead.

Mrs. Anna R. Franklin Schley of 565 Park Avenue, widow of Admiral Winfield Scott Schley, died last night in St. Luke's Hospital from pneumonia. She was 79 years old.

Several days ago Mrs. Schley fell in her home and was taken to the hospital suffering from a serious injury. Because of her advanced age pneumonia set in. She is survived by a son, Dr. Winfield Scott Schley of 565 Park Avenue.

SUGAR CONCERN HAS $2,176,037 SURPLUS

CASH POSITION IMPROVES

Balance Sheet Shows $2,229,767, as Against $485,694 in 1919—90,000 Tons Output.

The South Porto Rico Sugar Company, in its annual report for the year ended Sept. 30, shows a surplus of $2,176,037 after interest, Federal taxes, and depreciation and a reserve of $3,050,000 set aside for working capital. This is equivalent to $15.85 a share on the common stock after making due allowance for the preferred. In the previous year the company earned $20.28 a share on the $5,602,800 common stock then outstanding. Since then the common has been increased to $11,205,600. The report shows $719,108 in raw sugar on hand, as compared with $228,937 for the same item in the previous report.

The balance sheet shows an improvement in cash position, the figures in the current report being $2,229,767, as against $485,694 in 1919. Holdings of stocks and bonds have increased by nearly $200,000. A reserve for taxes of $2,046,233 is shown, as against $391,641 in the preceding year.

In his remarks to stockholders William Schall, Chairman of the Board, says:

"The amount of sugar made during the 1920 crop was 90,000 tons. It is estimated that the 1921 output will be about 95,000 tons.

"The company has contracts with Russell & Co. and other planters in Porto Rico covering approximately 475,000 tons of cane. The lands in cultivation in Santo Domingo amount approximately to 20,000 acres, from which a crop of 425,000 tons of cane is expected.

"In July, 1920, there was transferred from 'reserve for working capital, improvements, &c.,' account to 'common capital stock' account the sum of $5,602,800 (capitalizing earnings of the company invested in the La Romana factory and other improvements) in full payment of 56,028 shares of additional common stock, which was distributed to the common stockholders at the rate of one share of new stock for each share then outstanding.

"During the year $217,524 was credited to sundry property accounts to cover amortization and obsolescence of plants and charged to reserve fund for depreciation."

The profit and loss statement of Russell & Co. accompanies the annual report of the South Porto Rico Sugar Co. It shows available net profits of $369,299, which it was voted to reserve as working capital, after applying $140,748 thereof to partial payment of the mortgage on cane lands in Porto Rico, held by the South Porto Rico Sugar Company. Profits of Russell & Co., inure to benefit of common stockholders of the South Porto Rico Company under a trust agreement with American Colonial Bank of Porto Rico.

TRAVIS FACES ARREST.

Controller May Refuse to Pay Fine and Test Court's Jurisdiction.

State Controller Eugene M. Travis, who was held for the Grand Jury following the John Doe inquiry into affairs of his office relating to the sale of bonds to the State, is due to satisfy today the mandate for the $250 fine imposed upon him by Justice Kernochan for his refusal to answer questions relating to his personal financial transactions.

His counsel, George Z. Medalie, has indicated that the Controller would refuse to pay the fine and appeal from Justice Kernochan's decision. It is possible that Mr. Travis's arrest will follow. If the arrest occurs Mr. Medalie will start habeas corpus proceedings and will attempt to have Justice Kernochan declared without jurisdiction

Curling Hair This Way Preserves Its Beauty

That dull, dead appearance of the hair no longer troubles the woman who has adopted the silmerine method of keeping her tresses in curl. The hair appears naturally wavy and curly, and the application is really beneficial to the life and growth of the hair.

Most druggists can supply the liquid silmerine. A small quantity should be put on just before doing up the hair in curlers, using for the purpose a clean toothbrush, drawing this down the full length of the hair from root to tip. The effect is delightfully surprising, and there is no discoloration, no stickiness, greasiness, nor any other unpleasant accompaniment. The hair is quite manageable, no matter how it is fashioned.

RECOGNITION AWAITS ACTION BY MEXICO

Depends Upon Whether Article 27 Is to Be Retroactive, Washington Declares.

REPEAL IS NOT DEMANDED

But Interpretation Must Not Jeopardize Legitimate Interests, Officials Assert.

LABOR TROUBLES EXTENSIVE

Many Parts of the Southern Republic Tied Up by Strikes—Calles Denies Bolshevist Policy.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The State Department indicated today that if Article 27 of the Mexican Constitution, or laws enacted under it, are to be made retroactive or confiscatory, the American Government would be compelled to withhold recognition of the Mexican Government. The American Government does not insist on the abrogation of this article, but it will wait until Mexico has made clear the effect to be given to it before according recognition.

One way in which the meaning of that article may be determined, it was said, would be in a decision of the Mexican Supreme Court, where some suits on the question are pending, but the American Government has had no part in the institution of these suits. "What we desire," said an official of the State Department, "is to protect all valid and legitimate interests of Americans in Mexico."

George T. Summerlin, American Chargé d'Affaires in Mexico City, who has just returned to his post after spending some time in Washington in conference with his superiors in the State Department, is understood to be holding conferences with the Mexican authorities with a view to bringing about a closer understanding between the two Governments. There appears to be a desire on the part of the State Department to see the Obregon Administration auspiciously inaugurated, and it is intimated that the delay in extending recognition does not betoken slackness on the part of the authorities here, but that the cause for delay rests on the Mexican side.

Calles for Aid to Workmen.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 17.—While describing the statement that he was a Bolshevik as absurd, General Calles, Minister of War, informs THE NEW YORK TIMES that he favors Federal aid to help improve the conditions of the working classes. Education he places in the forefront of methods to assist the workingmen.

He said that most of the workingmen's troubles in Mexico had arisen because there was no proper legislation. When proper laws were made then workingmen and capital would both be protected. He cited the case of the State of Sonora, where there were continual strikes until laws were passed which protected both the workingmen and investors. Since then no strikes had occurred.

When asked about charges that he was connected with Robert Haberman, agent of Martens here, General Calles said he had never seen Haberman and did not know him. He said his opinion of the general labor conditions which are now stirring the world was that the Governments should seek to control and direct them, but not try to dam the current of such movements, as this would only result some day in an overthrow, but with intelligent co-operation such movements could be guided in the right channel.

Labor Discontent Extensive.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 17 (Associated Press).—Although Mexico's labor situation has cleared considerably during the last week, disquieting reports of discontent have been received here, especially from Vera Cruz and Yucatan, which, however, in no way warrant the belief that a general nation-wide strike is imminent or even contemplated.

The strike of stevedores at Vera Cruz was settled last week, but reports from that city assert that the agreement is unsatisfactory to the workmen and another walkout is possible. The situation in that port is serious, scores of ships being tied up in the harbor, unable to unload their cargoes. It is estimated that more than 40,000 tons of merchandise are being held up in the port because of the lack of dock facilities.

The Vera Cruz strike has been made the basis for several sympathetic walkouts, especially in Yucatan. Here a general State-wide strike was called for last week, but was postponed when the Vera Cruz workmen reached the agreement. Reports from Yucatan, however, indicate considerable labor unrest, which is aggravated by a bitter political struggle between the Socialists and Liberals.

The railroad mechanics at Orizaba, State of Vera Cruz, have attempted to organize a strike which would paralyze communications between Mexico City and Vera Cruz, but have met with little success.

The strike of Coahuila coal miners, which has been in progress several weeks, is still unsettled, although Government officials are meeting daily with the miners' representatives in an endeavor to effect an agreement. The walkout there has been extremely orderly, being accompanied by only minor demonstrations.

In Mexico City the electricians, waterworks employes and street car men have been talking of a strike for several days, but Provisional President de la Huerta has declared that under no circumstances will the public utilities be paralyzed, even if the Government is forced to operate them.

Accompanying the reports of labor unrest are the usual rumors of Bolshevist aggression, aiming even at the establishment of Soviet States, but official assurance has been given that the efforts of radicals are being watched closely and all necessary measures will be taken to suppress any activity of an insidious nature.

KILL AMERICAN IN SONORA.

Foreman of Copper Company the Victim, Naco, Ariz., Hears.

DOUGLAS, Ariz., Nov. 17.—George J. Moore, American foreman of the Puerticitos Mine of the Cananea Consolidated Copper Company, Cananea, Sonora, Mexico, this morning was shot without warning by a Mexican known as Manuel Faiz, according to information obtained from Naco, Ariz., tonight.

Faiz escaped and early tonight had not been captured, although company men and Mexican authorities were hunting him. Moore was shot in the left arm and left hip and will recover.

As reported tonight, Moore, riding a mule from the Puerticitos to the Chivatera mine, was overtaken by the Mexican on horseback and shot by the latter without provocation. Faiz worked at the Puerticitos mine.

Ramundo Navarro, Mexican, alleged to have slain Mose Sevey, American foreman of the Cananea-Duluth mine at Cananea several weeks ago, never has been captured.

Chile's President-elect Asks Hosts to Give 'Dry' Banquets

VALPARAISO, Chile, Nov. 17.—Prior to his departure on a tour of the northern provinces of Chile, Arturo Alessandri, President-elect, sent telegrams to the various reception committees asking that the use of wines and liquors be suppressed at banquets arranged in his honor. The messages particularly specified the suppression of champagne and other foreign wines and asked that "the sums set aside for the purchase of these be devoted to aiding the families of workmen."

In recent months there have been various movements among employers and workers in favor of a stricter regulation of the sale of liquors in the nitrate mines and the coal fields.

HARDING ON WAY TO NEW ORLEANS

MEXICAN VISIT UNCERTAIN

But Steamship Company Has Been Asked if It Can Be Put In a Vera Cruz Stop.

Special to The New York Times.

ON BOARD HARDING SPECIAL TRAIN, Bay City, Texas, Nov. 17.—President-Elect Harding is on his way to New Orleans tonight to take ship for Panama tomorrow. He left Brownsville at 10 o'clock this morning and the special train ran most of the day without stop.

Brief stops had been scheduled along the line, but only handfuls of people were gathered to greet him. At Kingsville Governor Hobby's party left the train.

The nature of the country, inhabited more by white-faced cattle than human beings, was one cause for the lack of interest in the next President. There have been some signs, too, that residents of South Texas have felt slighted in their efforts to help entertain the President-elect.

Individuals and organizations of the Lower Rio Grande Valley made early preparations to entertain the Senator and his party and show them the developments of their country, which was a mesquite waste ten years ago.

When the "norther" made diversion at Point Isabel impossible, the Senator's hosts continued to keep their guest at the little fishing village, and no effort was made to leave until Sunday, three days later. Those who complain of this attach no blame to Senator Harding. Their feeling appears to be directed against those who drew a little circle around the Senator, apparently without his knowledge.

What is understood to be a last minute invitation for the Panama trip was extended to R. B. Creager, owner of the cottage at Point Isabel occupied by the Hardings. This increased the speculation in Brownsville whether Mr. Creager might fill an important position under the new administration. He is Vice Chairman of the Texas Republican organization. Some of Mr. Creager's friends expressed the hope that he would have the offer of a Cabinet post, but others say that he has aspirations to be Ambassador to Mexico.

Mr. Harding's train is due to reach New Orleans at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. He is to speak before the Association of Commerce at noon and expects to leave for Panama at 3 o'clock.

There will be several changes in the Harding party before it sails. Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. McLean of Washington have decided not to go to Panama. Mr. and Mrs. Creager and Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Scobey, hosts of Senator and Mrs. Harding at Point Isabel, are on board the special train and will go to the Isthmus. Will Hays, Chairman of the Republican National Committee, who hoped to join the party, is unable to make the trip.

Nothing was forthcoming from Senator Harding today as to whether he would accept General Obregon's invitation to visit Mexico on his Panama trip. It is known, however, that officials of the United Fruit Company have been asked whether a visit to Vera Cruz could be fitted into their sailing schedule, and the answer is expected tomorrow.

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 17.—Captain E. W. Holmes, veteran among the commanders of the United Fruit Company's fleet, was assigned today to command the steamer Parismina, on which President-elect Harding and his party will sail for Panama. Captain Holmes was transferred from the Atenas.

Plans for the entertainment of Mr. Harding during his short stay were completed tonight. He will make two addresses, one from the City Hall steps and the other at a luncheon of the Association of Commerce.

FREES BRITISH PRISONERS.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—The Cabinet today did not reach a final decision on the draft agreement for the resumption of trade with Russia, as it was the desire of some Ministers for further guarantees from the Russian Government. The Cabinet will resume consideration of the question tomorrow.

The Daily Chronicle's political correspondent hears, not from Government sources, that two telegrams were received today by the Russian Mission from M. Tchitcherin, the Bolshevist Foreign Minister. The first, it is stated, announced that British prisoners had all been released. The second telegram apparently alleged that the Soviet Government had received information from wireless sources that the British Government intended to occupy Batum.

Proceeding on this assumption the message pointed out that such a step would be regarded in Russia as a serious menace to the Soviet Republic of Azerbaijan and would give the Russian Government a new frontier to defend and lead to trouble in the Caucasus.

$875,000 in Carnegie Gifts.

Figures showing the distribution of $875,000 in retiring allowance and pensions to teachers and their widows during the past year were announced at the fifteenth annual trustees' meeting of the Carnegie Foundation yesterday. Of 159 colleges and universities represented, Harvard received $60,000, Columbia $58,000, Yale $57,000 and Cornell $38,000. Last year's total was $828,000, and that given ten years ago $469,000, while the grand total since 1906 is $7,964,000.

UKRAINIANS BREAK BEFORE RED DRIVE

THREE DIVISIONS TRAPPED

Balakovitch's White Russians Also in Trouble—Woman Leads Band of Anti-Red Marauders.

WARSAW, Nov. 16 (Associated Press)—The Ukrainians have evacuated Kiev and other towns they had occupied and are fleeing defeated before the new Russian Soviet offensive. The Bolshevist cavalry has swept through the Ukrainian lines at various points.

Three of General Petlura's divisions were surrounded by Soviet troops when the Ukrainian left wing broke because of bad communications.

A strong Bolshevist offensive, according to the latest reports, is developing along the entire Volhynian front from the River Dnieper to Deraznia. The Ukrainians, who were temporarily successful, were unable to offer sustained effective resistance, however, because of lack of munitions and supplies.

The Ukrainians started a general attack Nov. 11, took Zhmerinka, and had advanced nine miles when their lack of communications caused the collapse of the left wing of their army, opening the way to the Red cavalry.

The Polish army authorities are preparing to disarm and intern any of General Petlura's retreating troops seeking refuge in Eastern Galicia, where the beaten Ukrainian forces are said to be approaching the Polish frontier. The Bolsheviki have taken Proskurov, and Kamenetz-Podolsk is reported to have been avacuated.

General Balakovitch, the white Russian leader, with 30,000 to 40,000 men, is reported to be in the region of Mozyr, on the River Pripet, where he is encountering difficulties owing to the lack of munitions and supplies.

Marusia Sokolowska, a young woman, in the region of Elisavetgrad, fond of war and adventure, has taken command of a band of 2,000 men, composing one of a number of insurrectional groups harassing the Bolsheviki. Another band, near Zytomirz, is said to number 5,000. These bands are operating near the Red army, devastating, robbing and killing not only in the country, but in the villages.

RIGA, Nov. 16.—Replying to accusations by M. Joffe, head of the Russian peace delegation, concerning alleged Polish connections with the operations of General Balakovitch and General Petlura, the Polish peace delegation today presented a note to the Russo-Ukrainian delegation denying any responsibility on the part of the Polish Government for these operations. The Polish delegation declared that when the operations of these Generals began on Nov. 2, there was no such detachment on Polish territory as the Russian note had mentioned.

SOVIETS ESTABLISH RULE IN CRIMEA

Tchitcherin Warns Britain Not to Transport Soldiers of the Wrangel Army.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—A Moscow communiqué received here by wireless today announces that reorganization of government in the Crimea has already been begun by the Bolsheviki.

"Our troops occupied Sebastopol on Nov. 14," says the statement. "Revolutionary committees are being formed at Sebastopol and Yalta and order is being restored. We are registering tens of thousands of General Wrangel's former soldiers, who abandoned their generals."

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 16.—Arms were issued to workers at Sebastopol for the purpose of preserving order and protecting stores, says an allied officer who remained to the last in that city. The Workers' Union undertook to protect the wounded who had not been removed, and a nursing staff gallantly volunteered to remain behind.

Immediately after General Wrangel's forces left local Bolsheviki established themselves on the hospital train, and a Bolshevist delegation left Sebastopol to meet the Soviet army. Many abandoned buildings were looted by mobs, it is said.

White prisoners, particularly officers, are alleged by Russians here to have been tortured and murdered by the Bolsheviki. The Satovski Regiment determined to flee to the mountains and carry on guerrilla warfare against the Red army. The Niemetski Regiment was virtually wiped out, there being only five survivors.

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 17.—M. Tchitcherin, the Russian Soviet Foreign Minister, has sent to Lord Curzon, the British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, the following wireless message:

"Information from various sources gives us reason to believe that the intention is entertained of utilizing British vessels to transport General Wrangel and the goods he seized from Southern Russia to other countries. It cannot be denied that participation of the British Navy in the movements of insurgents fighting against Russia would constitute a hostile act on the part of the British Government toward the Russian Government and a violation of the assurances which the British Government has given us on this subject on various occasions.

"The Russian Government expects that the British Government will abstain from all acts of this kind, from which the Russian Government would draw inevitable conclusions."

FEW AMERICANS IN MOSCOW.

Six in Jail and 11 Others Detained in Houses, W. D. Vanderlip Says.

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 16.—Washington D. Vanderlip, the California oil and mining engineer, who recently visited Moscow, said today that only six Americans now were in prison in the Soviet capital and about eleven others detained in private houses or hotels.

Mr. Vanderlip declared that he visited an American prisoner named Kalmatiano, finding him in the pink of condition in a large, roomy cell.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—American Commissioner Young at Riga is sending to the State Department a report which contains what Mr. Young regards as full proof of the statements made in his report of a few weeks ago relative to the activities of Washington D. Vanderlip of California in Soviet Russia.

Officials of the department, in advance of the receipts of that report, decline to comment further on the matter or make any statements supplementary to the often reiterated declarations by the department concerning the risk taken by American business men who conclude contracts with the Moscow Government.

ELATED AT WRANGEL'S FALL.

Reds Say Nations Will Be Forced to Recognize Moscow Soviet.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—A wireless dispatch received from Moscow says:

"Wrangel's destruction will make a great impression on all the western countries. There is information that England is carrying on agitation in the United States in favor of a renewal of trade relations with Soviet Russia. * * * Foreign newspapers more and more frequently state that the American Government will not place obstacles in the way of its capitalists trading with Soviet Russia.

"There is no doubt that the western countries will be forced to recognize the Soviet Government."

Famous Byzantine Silver Cross Stolen From Italian Church and Melted Up

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MILAN, Nov. 17.—Antiquarians all the world over will learn with regret that the famous Byzantine silver gilt cross, with a collection of Fourteenth Century chalices and pyxes preserved in the treasury of Gravedona Parish Church on Lake Como, has been pillaged and destroyed by thieves. A certain Battista Ondion, formerly sacristan of the church, confesses he was led to organize the midnight robbery through numerous offers he received from time to time from English-speaking visitors to purchase the precious relic at its weight in gold.

Entry was effected across the roof of an adjacent silk mill by sawing through an iron grill protecting the windows, and the author of the sacrilege probably would have eluded identification had not one of his two accomplices, who was a military deserter, drapped his pocketbook containing personal papers during his hasty retreat, with the result that the culprits were traced and captured the same evening. But, alas! when at length the thieves were prevailed upon to loosen their tongues, it was to recount that they had broken up the booty into small bits on the journey home.

Finally the police extracted from them the name of the Milanese silversmith to whom they had sold the treasure, but on penetrating the laboratory of that receiver of stolen jewelry, the authorities beheld the entire haul, excepting the brass base of the Byzantine relic, in a state of fusion.

So highly esteemed in the world of art were these antiquities that during the great war they were removed to the capital for safety. Extraordinary psychological imbecility is revealed in the fact that although the early mediaeval cross alone is valued at 1,000,000 francs the wretched perpetrators of the sacrilege turned over the entire collection to the silversmith for 510 francs.

MAID SHOWS COURT HOW TO 'MAKE EYES'

TELLS OF 3-HOUR KISSING BEE

Testimony Causes Thrills and Mirth in Crowd at Wealthy Contractor's Suit.

The second trial began in the Supreme Court at White Plains of the divorce suit brought by Henry H. Tilley, a wealthy contractor of Mount Vernon, against his wife, Emeretta I. Tilley, in which Clarence Dugan, secretary to one of the New York Central Railroad Vice Presidents, is named as co-respondent. The first trial resulted in a disagreement.

Following testimony of Private Detectives Bernard Hass and Dorothy E. Fable of Manhattan, who told how they followed Mrs. Tilley and Dugan to Long Beach and saw them sitting on the sand under the Boardwalk, hugging and kissing for three hours, with a nap in between, and of a raid on Mrs. Tilley's apartment in West Ninety-third Street, Manhattan, Mary Dowers, a former maid of Mrs. Tilley, testified Mrs. Tilley made eyes at Dugan at the dinner table while she was talking to her husband. She said Mr. Tilley, who is slowly going blind, could not see how Mrs. Tilley smiled sweetly at Duggan or what kind of eyes she made.

Supreme Court Justice Joseph Morschauser, before whom the case is being tried, directed Miss Dowers to illustrate how Mrs. Tilley acted. She bowed her head and said she did not think she could go through the performance.

"Did you ever see Mrs. Tilley kissing Dugan or did you ever see Dugan put his hand on her," Justice Morschauser asked.

"No, I never did."

"What did you see her do," Lawyer George H. Taylor Jr., counsel for Mr. Tilley inquired.

"I only saw Mrs. Tilley make funny eyes at Dugan."

"Now show the jury just how she made those eyes," Justice Morschauser directed.

Miss Dowers tossed her head in a coquettish way, puckered her lips and made loving eyes at the jury. Justice Morschauser asked Miss Dowers to show him personally and the girl went throught the same performance.

"I think that is making faces," was the comment of Justice Morschauser.

The courtroom was crowded and everybody enjoyed the witness's illustration of how to "make eyes." Miss Dowers said Dugan was a frequent visitor at the Tilley home in Mount Vernon, and that Mrs. Tilley frequently asked her if she did not think Dugan was a handsome man.

"When I told her I thought he looked like a monkey," said the witness, "she pulled my hair."

While the maid was testifying Mrs. Tilley kept her eyes riveted on the witness, and finally the girl collapsed and was taken to an anteroom. Court was adjourned for ten minutes until Miss Dowers recovered her composure.

Mrs. Tilley's defense will be that there was only a friendly feeling between herself and Dugan and that Tilley told her to go out with the co-respondent and enjoy herself.

LITHUANIAN TROOPS FIRE ON LEAGUE ENVOYS

Mission Rescued From Perilous Position in Polish 'No Man's Land' by a Woman.

WARSAW, Nov. 17.—Lithuanian troops fired on members of the League of Nations Control Commission as they were crossing "No Man's Land" from General Zellgouski's lines to those of the Lithuanians, according to dispatches received here today. The members of the commission were carrying a white flag.

The Lithuanian commander said the firing was due to a misunderstanding.

The members of the commission were on the way to Kovno and the army authorities of both sides had arranged to cease hostilities at a certain hour to permit the commissioners to cross "No Man's Land." As the road was bad, the commissioners abandoned their automobiles and took another road. They left General Zellgouski's lines safely with a white flag and were within sight of the Lithuanians when they were greeted with a volley of bullets over their heads.

Rifle and machine gun fire continued for some time, the members of the commission seeking refuge behind mounds of earth. Finally a native woman crossed the field while the firing was going on, went to the Lithuanian commander and interceded for the commissioners, explaining that they wore allied uniforms. The firing ceased and the Lithuanian commander explained it was all due to a misunderstanding.

EIGHT MORSE LINES PASS TO RECEIVER

Atlantic-Adriatic Steamship Corporation and Subsidiaries Held for Insurance Due.

DEBTS PLACED AT $1,500,000

Trouble Laid to Lack of Freight and Cut Rates—Litigation Declared Friendly.

The Atlantic-Adriatic Steamship Corporation, of which B. W. Morse, son of Charles W. Morse, is President, and seven subsidiary companies, representing seven steamships, passed into the hands of a receiver yesterday in an equity suit instituted by Marsh & McLennan, insurance brokers, whose claim amounts to $27,325.56 for advances made for insurance. The difficulties of the company are laid to the lack of freight and the cut in transatlantic rates from about nineteen dollars a ton, required to meet the costs of operation, to about sixteen dollars.

The seven ships of the company were bought of the United States Shipping Board on what is known as the charter purchase plan. Their total cost was approximately $7,000,000, the first payment being 10 per cent. of the purchase price and a further payment figured on the tonnage. It was said that the payments due by the corporation under the plan aggregated between $45,000 and $50,000 a month.

Some of the ships are here, some are on the sea and some lie in foreign ports. But none, it is said, can earn a profit at the present rates for freight. Five of the ships formerly belonged to Germans and were interned here. They are the Pawnee, Ascutney, Arcadia, Andalusia and Pequot. The other two are the Englewood and the Galesburg.

Liabilities were stated in the complaint to amount to $1,500,000, about one-third of which was subject to litigation. The complaint states that the Shipping Board is threatening to seize the ships because of a default in payments, and if this is done contracts now held by the corporation will have to be discontinued, thus involving loss. No mention was made of assets because it was explained that these depended largely on the business transactions which have not yet been concluded.

A. G. Lampke of Lampke & Stein, counsel for the corporation, said the litigation was of a friendly character and that Federal Judge Mayer had appointed as receiver George W. Sterling, assistant director of the United States Shipping Board.

TURKS DEMAND RULE OF SOVIET IN ARMENIA

Also Delivery of Large Quantities of War Stores—Batum Reported Captured.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 17.—The Turkish Nationalists have issued an ultimatum to the Georgians demanding the cession of the Provinces of Kars, Ardahan and Batum and the free use of the Georgian railway. The Georgian Government is reported to have replied that it was ready to turn over the use of the railway to the Turks provided they did not insist on the cession of territory.

The Nationalists have also demanded that the Armenians establish a Soviet Government under Turkish protection, an the situation in Armenia, where Bolshevism is said to be spreading rapidly is considered most grave. The Nationalists' demand on the Armenians is said to include the delivery of large quantities of war material.

Reports that Batum has been captured by the Russian Bolsheviki have been received here, but they have not thus far been confirmed. Supplies collected in the city were removed some time ago, and a Georgian division was sent to the south of the purpose of checking an advance by Turkish Nationalists.

Great Bolshevist demonstrations were held in Batum and Tiflis on the anniversary of the Soviet revolution in Russia, which was solemnly celebrated throughout the Caucasus district.

Reports of the capture of Batum, the important port of the Republic of Georgia, contained in news dispatches from Constantinople were thought at the headquarters of the Near East Relief here yesterday to be probably true.

VICE INQUIRY RESUMED.

Grand Jury Takes Up Police Cases—Whitman and Costigan Testify.

The Extraordinary Grand Jury, of which Raymond F. Almirall is foreman, resumed yesterday its inquiry into certain police matters which was begun more than a year ago following charges by Commissioner of Accounts Hirshfield concerning alleged gambling activities. After eleven witnesses had been examined the jury adjourned until next Tuesday without making any report to Justice Bartow S. Weeks in the Criminal Term of the Supreme Court.

The witnesses yesterday included ex-Governor Charles S. Whitman, Assistant District Attorney James E. Smith, Frederick Whitin of the Committee of Fourteen, former Police Commissioner Arthur Woods, Frank Lord and Lawrence Dunham, both Deputies under Commissioner Woods; Boxing Commissioner Walter Hook, formerly Police Inspector "Honest Dan" Costigan and two newspaper reporters.

NEW IRISH BODY SEEKS RECOGNITION

Leaders Form Organization to Replace Friends of Irish Freedom in This Country.

VILLARD HEARINGS TO OPEN

Begin Today With Irish Witness—British Embassy Sees Only Propaganda in Inquiry.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Irish leaders from all over the United States today completed the organization of "the American Association for the Recognition of the Irish Republic." At the same time the Commission of Seven from the Villard Committee of 100 investigating the situation in Ireland laid plans for opening tomorrow its hearings with two witnesses direct from Ireland on the stand.

The hearings of the commission were to have started today, but receipt of information that John Durham, Acting Mayor of Balbriggan, and Dennis Morgan of Thurles would be on hand to testify tomorrow resulted in the postponement. Dudley Field Malone, former Customs Collector at New York, also is on the list of witnesses for tomorrow, and after his appearance on the stand he is expected to sit at the hearings as the attorney for the American Commission on Irish Independence.

The British Embassy will not be represented at the commission's hearings, formal declination of the commission's invitation having been forwarded by the embassy today to Oswald Garrison Villard of New York, editor of The Nation, who organized the Committee of 100. In declining to send a representative to the hearings the embassy declared it could not approve the purposes of the inquiry, and expressed the belief that the only result would be the spreading of propaganda.

The organization formed by Irish sympathizers after a conference with Eamon de Valera, "President of the Provisional Irish Republic," was said to be designed to supplant the Friends of Irish Freedom as the leading Irish independence organization in the country.

The office of the Villard committee announced tonight that plans had been perfected to send a subcommittee to Ireland soon to make a first hand investigation. The personnel of the committee will be announced later. The project resulted, it was stated, from invitations to send such a commission received by the committee in a round robin signed by British Labor Party leaders, including Arthur Henderson, Robert Smillie, William Anderson and others, and similar proposals from the Irish Catholic hierarchy and numerous persons prominent in Protestant Ireland.

Withdrawal of Raymond Robins of Chicago from membership in the Villard Inquiry also was announced tonight. His message to the committee expressed regret that pressing engagements would prevent his participation.

At a preliminary session of the committee this morning Frederic C. Howe, former Commissioner of Immigration at Ellis Island, announced that Mrs. Terence MacSwiney, wife of the late Lord Mayor of Cork, was sailing for the United States on Nov. 24, to appear before the inquirers.

Former Governor Joseph W. Folk of Missouri announced today that he could not be connected with the committee inasmuch as he was counsel for the Egyptians, who are seeking independence, and he might not be regarded as impartial.

Edward L. Doheny of Los Angeles, who presented the minority resolution for recognition of Ireland at the Democratic National Convention at San Francisco last June, has been elected President of the new Irish independence organization. The Vice Presidents are Judge John W. Goff of New York, John J. Castelline of Cincinnati and Major Eugene Kinkead of Jersey City. John J. Hearn of Westfield, Mass., is Treasurer, and Daniel C. O'Flaherty of Richmond, Va., Secretary.

It is the purpose to form affiliated organizations in every State in the Union.

Formation of the new association is in line with proposals made to the Irish leaders' conference here yesterday by Mr. de Valera, who declared that all existing organizations had failed in their work and that the inaction of the movement in America had become intolerable to friends of Ireland in this country.

IRISH LITERATURE ON LINERS.

Ulstermen Also Complain That Clergy Travel as Propagandists.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—The Morning Post's political correspondent says that complaints have been made regarding Sinn Fein propaganda aboard Atlantic liners, which takes the form sometimes of leaving rebel literature about in saloons and dining rooms, sometimes of proselyting talks with passengers by a few men who seem to be voyaging for no other purpose.

Sir Edward Carson recently received a letter from some well known Ulstermen whose business takes them frequently to the United States. The names of the signatories cannot be given, for obvious reasons, but their letter reads:

"We wish respectfully to acquaint you with the fact that certain ministers of the Roman Catholic Church are traveling to and fro on Atlantic steamers, and, although they profess not to be propagandists, we can assure you that at every available opportunity they take good care to act as such."

LABOR MANIFESTO WOULD LET IRISH DECIDE

Wants Troops Withdrawn and Constituent Assembly Elected—2 Artillery Officers Missing.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—A manifesto on the Irish situation was issued today by the Executive Committee for the Labor Party. Interpreting its desire for self-determination for Ireland, the committee says there is nothing for it now but (1) to withdraw all armed forces, (2) to place the responsibility for maintaining order in each locality on the local authorities themselves, (3) to provide for an immediate election by proportional representation of an entirely open constituent assembly charged to work out at the earliest possible moment, without any limitations or fetters whatever, a constitution for Ireland which the Irish people desire.

Organized labor has decided to appoint a commission representative of the Labor Party and the Parliamentary Laborites to visit Ireland in order to ascertain the truth regarding the policy and methods of the British Government. The Labor Party also has decided to conduct a great national campaign to enlighten the public on the facts of the Irish situation and to present the labor policy outlined above.

The manifesto is signed by Arthur Henderson, M. P.; W. Adamson, M. P.; J. R. Clynes, M. P., and others.

Sir Hamar Greenwood gave an authentic account in the House of Commons today, in reply to a question of the circumstances in which the Ballymacelligot Creamery was burned down. A police escort to a party of journalists, he said, while proceeding from Castle Island to Tralee, County Cork, on Nov. 12, was attacked at Ballymacelligot by about seventy armed men concealed near the creamery, and the police were actually fired on from the creamery itself. The police defended themselves and in so doing killed four of their assailants and wounded others. Seven arrests were effected, five of the prisoners being retained for trial.

The creamery and two or three adjoining homesteads, from which heavy fire had been directed on the police, and also a quantity of hay were burned. The creamery was found to contain petrol and numbers of spent cartridges. It was probably the local headquarters of the Irish Republican Army. The hayrick while burning exploded, due no doubt to concealed ammunition. Greenwood added that he was sure of his facts, which had been given him by one of his own staff who was in the ambush.

DUBLIN, Nov. 17.—An official communiqué issued today says that no news has yet been received of two artillery officers who left Fermoy on Oct. 29 for Killarney. They have not arrived at Killarney and grave fears are felt as to their safety.

With regard to the alleged capture of four military officers at Waterfall, County Cork, there are conflicting rumors. The names or particulars of the rank of the kidnapped officers have not been disclosed.

Danger in India Admitted in British House of Commons

LONDON, Nov. 17.—A dangerous situation exists in India, according to Edward Samuel Montague, Secretary for India, who made this admission in the House of Commons today.

NEW RIOTS IN BELFAST; FOUR KILLED IN CLARE

Prisoners Attempt to Escape and Are Shot—Women Beat Off Attackers in Belfast.

BELFAST, Nov. 17.—Renewed rioting broke out in Belfast this morning. Nationalists in the New Lodge Road district attacked the Unionist quarter with stones. They were beaten off by women at the first onset, but returned, using revolvers, and soon were masters of the thoroughfare.

An attempt was made to enter the Duncairn Presbyterian School, but the doors had been fastened, so the crowd contented itself with smashing windows, a process which was repeated on many houses along the line of advance.

The police were rushed up, and after an exciting twenty minutes restored order.

WHITEGATE, County Clare, Nov. 17.—Four of six men arrested last evening under the Restoration act were shot dead this morning while trying to escape from their escort, according to an official report.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—Mrs. MacSwiney, widow of the late Lord Mayor of Cork, will be accompanied to the United States by Mary MacSwiney, who obtained a passport today. They are leaving for Cork immediately, and will embark at Queenstown on Nov. 24.

The health of Mrs. MacSwiney is declared to have improved, though she suffers from spells of extreme depression.

RAID BANK TO TRACE HOHENZOLLERN WEALTH

German Officials Suspect Fortunes Are Being Smuggled Out—Ex-Royal Banker Vanishes.

By GEORGE RENWICK.

Copyright, 1920, by The New York Times Company.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, Nov. 17.—Prominent members of the House of Hohenzollern and other German royal families have been busy of late smuggling, or endeavoring to smuggle, their very considerable fortunes across the German frontiers, and so out of the jurisdiction of the German tax collector. For some time past the Government has had suspicions, and quite recently took serious steps with a view to confirming or disproving those fears. It caused the Cruser Bank to be raided and all books and documents found to be seized.

These are being thoroughly examined. The Cruser Bank is a peculiar institution. It is to be found in a street off Wilhemstrasse and is a house run on old-fashioned lines. Herr Cruser always frowned on modern things. His bank has not even a telephone and no mention of it appears in any directory. He was honored with the custom of a large number of Princes and Princesses of the House of Hohenzollern, and various other nobility and gentry regarded it as correct to keep their overdrafts there. Cruser cut no figure in the world of German finance, but he was persona grata at court and among the best people. No royal financial investment was made without the advice and help of Cruser.

When the raid on the bank took place he fled and has not been heard of since. Vorwärts is this morning quite frank about him. "His whole activity," it says, "was directed toward smuggling capital abroad, and many hundreds of millions are said to be gone already."

LAUGH AT MAYOR'S NAME.

Prof. Egbert Rebukes Diners for Disrespect at Mention of Hylan.

The mention of the name of the Mayor of New York was greeted with amusement at the Founders' Day dinner of the General Society of Mechanics and Tradesmen at the Waldorf last night on the one hundred and thirty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the society.

The President of the society, Rudolph P. Miller, acted as toastmaster, and in his opening remarks he expressed regret that the Mayor was unable to be present. There was a ripple of laughter, and Mr. Miller repeated his expression of regret.

The incident was referred to later, when Professor James C. Egbert, director of the extension tetching at Columbia, was speaking.

"I love the City of New York," said Professor Egbert, "and I must say that I hang my head with shame at an occurrence such as tonight's, when the name of the Chief Executive of New York is greeted with scorn." The audience maintained silence at this remark.

Others who spoke were Judge John R. Voorhis, the Rev. Harry E. Fosdick and Dr. Charles H. Johnson, Secretary of the State Board of Charities. About 250 were present.

D'ANNUNZIO GRANTS RESPITE

Nationalists Say Government Will Have to Deal With Him Later.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Nov. 17.—News that Admiral Millo and d'Annunzio have come to a decision to create no difficulties for Italy in Dalmatia is received here with the greatest satisfaction and has lifted a grave preoccupation from the shoulders of the Government, which has lived in daily fear of complications in the Adriatic.

The Nationalists are making desperate efforts to rouse public opinion against the treaty of Rapallo, warning Italians that the acquiescence of d'Annunzio and Millo is only temporary, as the evacuation of Dalmatia will not occur for two months, and that the Government will have to square matters with those two leaders when that time comes.

The Nationalists have been organizing anti-Giolitti demonstrations, but with no great success. Upon the Premier's return from Rapallo the few antagonistic Nationalist shouts were drowned by enthusiastic counter-demonstrations. The same thing happened in the Chamber.

UNITE ALL TRANSIT IN 20-MILE RADIUS

TUBES FOR THE LONG HAULS

OTHER ENGINEERS DIFFER

Hedley Tells Gathering of Experts That Project Is Impractical and Couldn't Be Financed.

The best transportation service to the public in the New York district can be obtained by a unified co-ordinated system in which each type of transportation—subways, surface cars and buses—function as part of a single system, Henry M. Brinckerhoff, associate of Colonel William Barclay Parsons, subway builder, and himself an expert on transportation problems, said at a meeting in the Engineering Societies Building last night. The meeting was the second of a series of monthly gatherings under the auspices of the American Society of Civil Engineers to discuss New York City's transit problem.

Other speakers were Frank Hedley, President of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company; W. S. Menden, General Manager of the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company; H. S. Danforth, Vice President and General Manager of the Public Service Railways of New Jersey; George McAneny, former President of the Board of Aldermen; D. L. Turner, Chief Engineer of the Transit Construction Committee; P. H. Woodward, General Passenger Agent of the Long Island Railroad; R. S. Parsons, General Manager of the Erie Railroad, and Frank J. Sprague.

Mr. Brinckerhoff's was the principal address. His subject was "Urban and Suburban Transportation in the Metropolitan District of New York." Mr. Hedley attacked the Brinckerhoff plan as impractical and impossible for the present.

Favors Long-Haul Subways.

"There exists a New York metropolitan district bounded by a circle of about a twenty-mile radius from the centre of Manhattan Island," Mr. Brinckerhoff said. "The metropolitan area of New York for traction discussion may be taken as that outlined by the United States Census Bureau, inclusive of Paterson, Newark and Elizabeth on the west, Flushing and Far Rockaway on the east, and from Staten Island on the south to and including Yonkers and New Rochelle on the north.

"More subways, of course, are inevitable, but let us build these as long-haul trunks and feed them with surface lines and buses. Thirty-five per cent. of the passengers in the metropolitan district use surface electric cars today because they are the most convenient. A study of the needs of the metropolitan district as a whole suggests the necessity for a combined system cheap enough in its outlying sections to permit of wide distribution of travel.

"Into lower Manhattan, i. e., below Fifty-ninth Street, or an area of ten square miles, there are daily poured over 2,000,000 people. This means almost doubling the population of the island. Judging from the fact that the resident population, as shown by the recent census, has decreased almost 50,000 in the last decade, the influx of daily non-residents is forcing the residents off the island.

"In projecting traction plans for the future for this district, regarded as a single community, care must be taken to guard against applying too generally ratios and rules for increases which have been found true in smaller cities, but which we must realize may be seriously reduced by the conditions produced by the vast size of the figures and facts with which we are dealing. We have no actual experience by which to gauge the economic conditions of a city of 20,000,000 people.

"Transportation in a large city must meet a great variety of needs as to distance, speed, variety of routes and density of travel, and to do so at low first cost and with due regard to economy of operation different types of transportation equipment should be used.

Impractical, Hedley Says.

"Mr. Brinckerhoff has developed a very comprehensive and ambitious plan to furnish rapid transit facilities for people in the immediately surrounding districts of Manhattan Island," said Frank Hedley, the next speaker. "He suggests that we free our minds of our habitual ideas of New York as being Manhattan. That is easy enough for the purpose of Mr. Brinckerhoff's report, but it is extremely difficult to carry out in practice. Mr. Brinckerhoff's report is a study of what would be a good transportation system for the people in the vicinity of New York without reference to State lines or other physical barriers.

"It must not be forgotten that New York is already committed to public ownership of subway transit lines. Since the city has used a substantial amount of its credit to build subway lines it is difficult to see where the city's credit will ever be used to build lines that will substantially help to build up territory in New Jersey, especially when within the present limits of New York City there remain many acres of vacant or undeveloped land.

"It is unfortunate for the people who use the present subway that the operating company has not been able to secure reasonable and fair co-operation from some of the public officials. D. L. Turner and Commissioner Delaney have recently made public some of their suggestions for increasing the rapid transit lines, which, of course, is very much belated, because a very substantial part of the new lines suggested should now be under construction."

Mr. Woodward said the question of extending subway lines into Jersey was debatable and that many years would pass before such a plan was actually put into operation.

George McAneny asserted that a joint commission from New York and New Jersey should be appointed to study the development plan outlined by Mr. Brinckerhoff.

THE PLAY

By Alexander Woollcott

The Debut of Ben-Ami.

SAMSON AND DELILAH, a play in three acts, by Sven Lange; translated by Samuel S. Grossman. At the Greenwich Village Theatre.

Those playgoers who witnessed the first performance of "Samson and Delilah" at the Greenwich Village Theatre last evening, and so were present at the début of Ben-Ami on the English-speaking stage, can put away among their dusty programs the memory of a great occasion, one as arresting and potentially significant as that première of "Justice" nearly five years ago when John Barrymore stepped forth to claim his inheritance. They saw a young Russian playing easily and unhampered in an alien tongue and revealing even in the work of an author of stature far lower than his own the skill and force and endowment of a great actor.

Ben-Ami—that is Hebrew for "a son of My People"—is a Russian with a name so discouraging that long ago he abandoned it for this simpler one. He is 30, or thereabout, and after playing in Russian and Yiddish in his own country he came to America some six or seven years ago. Then began that slow ascent of the Yiddish stage which finally gave him a place in the art theatre set up last season in Madison Square, where the quality of his work swept away the barriers of language and brought enthusiasts of all tongues to watch and study him. Of the several invitations he received to cross to the English-speaking stage he accepted the one which led to his introduction last evening under the happy auspices of Arthur Hopkins.

He is an actor endowed with a bodily eloquence and a tragic mask unequalled in our theatre. Ben-Ami's face is akin to Chaplin's—mobile, beautiful, exquisitely expressive. It is the kind of mask for which all the tragedies of the world have been written. Moreover, there is in his acting, when he wishes, that curious glowing quality which always defies description but which is familiar enough to all those who remember the way the final scene of "The Copperhead" was irradiated.

Certainly no one in our time is writing such pity, such heartache, such terror as Ben-Ami cannot express. The fall of the second curtain in "Samson and Delilah" last evening startled the Greenwich Village Theatre with such cheers as its walls had never known.

This play is one Ben-Ami brought with him from the Jewish Art Theatre. Indeed, he brought it with him from Russia, whither it had strayed some time before from its native Denmark. It is the work of Sven Lange, the Copenhagen critic, and it is no great shakes, though it holds the interest in a tight and often painful grip, and it takes on a fleeting importance from the glamor which its present performance lends it. It is no scriptural play. Its Philistines are those of our own time, and it is woven around the biblical story as last season's short-lived "Carnival" was woven around "Othello."

The Samson in this case is a poet—a dreaming dramatist who identifies now the commercial theatre and now his actress-wife as the alluring Delilah who will betray him for the sport of the Philistines. The climax of the play comes when his own play of "Samson and Delilah" is in rehearsal, when, to every one's amusement, he himself has plunged into the rôle of Samson. Its crisis comes when he lifts his eyes to the realization that the warmth and seduction which had crept suddenly into her speech was inspired, not by himself, but was addressed across his bowed and unconscious head to the ruddy, prosperous furniture dealer whom she so greatly prefers. The wild, smashing scene which follows is a more stirring thing than we are often permitted to witness in the theatre.

It is, of course, an admirable production which Arthur Hopkins has made—his first of the new season. Its first scene is curiously mannered, achieving a directing style that is as a matter of strange ellipses and emphases to the same extent and in the same way that "Mary Olivier" is a matter of strange ellipses and emphases. This gives way, as the evening wears on and the dramatic forces gather, to the more conventional manner and pace of the everyday stage.

Pauline Lord as Delilah is a mixed blessing. In the rehearsal scene, where she seems engaged in trying to look like Mrs. Fiske as Mary of Magdala, the spark is quite missing, but she is excellent in the opening scene and in the panic and agony of the final one superb.

There must be a word for the helpful work of Robert T. Haines, Edward G. Robinson (a fine performance), Manart Kippen and Marie Bruce, a few words for the appropriate and satisfactory settings provided for the play by Robert Edmond Jones, and an expression of the conviction that "Samson and Delilah" belongs on the list, however small, of every grown-up theatregoer in, or approaching, New York.

Albert Vertchamp, Violinist, Plays.

Albert Vertchamp, already known as a well-schooled violinist before he set about making a new reputation under the Gallic version of his former surname, played last evening in Carnegie Hall, where he showed that he could hold his own with this year's marathon of fiddlers, among whom hardly one has managed to win a lead over so many rivals. Mr. Vertchamp, assisted by Milan Roder, was heard in an excellent performance of Tartini's G minor sonata and a suite Op. 10 by Sinding. His lesser pieces included an air on the G string by Matheson, a "Slavic Romance," by Mr. Roder, arrangements by Kreisler, Friedberg and Wilhelmj, and the "Witches' Dance" of Paganini.

Baklanoff Freed From Ellis Island.

Georges Baklanoff, the Russian baritone of the Chicago Opera Company, who arrived on the White Star liner Adriatic on Friday and was sent to Ellis Island, was released yesterday morning by order of the Labor Department at Washington on three months' parole. He proceeded to Chicago to join the company, accompanied by his lawyer. Baklanoff had been detained because of information which the Department of Labor received concerning his relations with a woman who was not his wife, when he was last in this country.

THE OPERA

By Richard Aldrich

"Aïda" came promptly to the fore on the second night of the season at the Metropolitan Opera House, which was last night, when there was a very large audience, attentive but not boisterously enthusiastic. The performance was one that departed in no considerable degree from the recent traditions of the house, not all admirable, in which excess of lung power is one of the important features, though it introduced a new baritone of the company, Giuseppe Danise, as Amonasro. Mme. Emmy Destinn, who was heard a few times last season, appeared as Aïda.

The performance was replete with gorgeousness, with an accumulation of effects for the eye and with all that could be done to impress the ear. The scene before the gates of Thebes could not have been more thickly peopled, more dazzling in its effects of light and color, more varied in its assortment of trophies or more crashingly sonorous in the accumulated effects of orchestra, chorus and stage band. Mr. Moranzoni saw to that.

Mr. Danise made a very good impression on his first appearance: a robust singer, an ample personality, an Amonasro of intense and ardent temperament. His voice is a baritone of good quality, though it did not seem at first of great resonance, but well produced and well managed as voices go now among Italian singers. His delivery, though not highly finished, showed a sense for dramatic phrasing and declamatory power; and a part of his intelligent performance was manifest in his clear declamation. It seemed from this first appearance that Mr. Danise will be a useful member of the company.

In other respects the cast was one that has for some time been familiar, as was the performance of its members, the scenic pictures by which they were surrounded, the conducting, the playing of the orchestra. It all might have been a continuation of last season without a break. Mme. Destinn, as comely as in years gone by, as buxom in the same sympathetic figure as Aïda; not precisely what she was in voice, which has not quite all the smoothness and fine quality that it once had—how many voices have?—and which has taken on a little unsteadiness in its upper tones. Mr. Martinelli is a little older soldier, not a better, as Radames; still inclined toward robustness in voice far more than is necessary, especially in "Celeste Aïda," which he sang, as he has sung it before, in a singularly inartistic manner and flat in some of his upper tones. Later he had opportunities to do some better singing and took some of them. And he was, at any rate, martial and upstanding.

Mme. Matzenauer's stately beauty adorned her representation of Amneris equally with the richness and mellowness of her voice. There was no better singing, no more intelligent declamation, no more fitting action, no more thorough understanding of style in the evening's performance than was afforded by Mr. Rothier as Ramfis.

Mr. Moranzoni's conducting was vigorous and directed toward obtaining all the color and sensuous effect of the score.

Boza Oumiroff's Song Recital.

Boza Oumiroff, a Czechoslovak baritone who was heard in New York a number of years ago, has returned, and yesterday gave a concert in Aeolian Hall. He sang a program beginning with old Italian and French airs by Marcello and Fasola, Guédron and Martini, a group of five songs by Duparc and a final set of songs in his native tongue by Dvorak Novak, Fibich and Picka.

Mr. Oumiroff's voice shows what may be the ravages of time. At any rate, it is at present much lacking in resonance, range and power. Nor is the voice fully under his command in the matter of pitch, and not infrequently drops below it. While Mr. Oumiroff has an agreeable and cultivated manner of presenting himself and his art, the means at his command are so limited that it cannot be considered of great significance today.

Mr. Oumiroff was assisted by Mme. Ella Spravka, a Czechoslovak pianist, who was heard in pieces by Chopin and also added to the Czechoslovakian character of the program by playing pieces by Smetana.

MUSIC NOTES.

Inga Julievna, soprano, is to assist Carlos Valderrama in a recital at the Manhattan Opera House this afternoon, illustrating South America's legendary music of the Incas of Peru.

Alfred W. Ross and an orchestra of negro musicians at the New Star Casino tomorrow evening will introduce a suite of "African Dances" by Montague Ring, a negro woman composer of England. A soloist in Kreisler's "Vienna Caprice" is Felix Weir, a graduate of Leipsic.

AN OPEN LETTER FROM ENRICO CARUSO

F. Ray Comstock and Morris Gest,
Century Theatre, N. Y.
Dear Morris Gest:—

You have done a splendid thing—"Mecca" is superlative in every way. I never enjoyed an evening more. It is the most marvelous production I have ever seen. The spectacle is the most absorbing and most artistic entertainment I have ever attended. I enjoyed every moment so much that I am going again and again.

With "Mecca" at the Century one need not leave New York to visit Egypt.

(Signed) ENRICO CARUSO.

Millions of People Have laughed at Chaplin—but never have they laughed louder or longer than folk do at the first forty-five minutes of "Over the Hill." Here is entertainment that fairly makes your sides ache as you watch the good, clean fun roll across the screen. Then suddenly—you find yourself caught up in the dramatic whirlpool of events in that make you thrill and tingle with excitement and fight to keep down your desire to rise in your seat and shout aloud in the theatre. It is "the greatest human document ever put upon the screen," and it is "punctuated with laughter from start to finish"—and it is a thousand other things that the critics and the public have been saying for the past ten weeks—for this play is life itself!
By Will Carleton. Produced by William Fox. Directed by Harry Millarde.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The coast storm central Tuesday night over North Carolina moved rapidly north-northeastward, gained greatly in intensity, and Wednesday night its centre was over Eastern Maine.

This disturbance has been attended by shifting gales over the Middle Atlantic and New England Coasts and over the eastern portions of the region of the Great Lakes and by rains in the Middle Atlantic and New England States and general and quite heavy snows in the Upper Ohio Valley and the lower lake region.

Another disturbance is off the North Pacific Coast, and it has been attended by rains in Northern California, Washington, Oregon and Idaho.

Abnormally cold weather continues throughout the Eastern and Southern States and the great central valleys, while over the Northwest the temperature has risen considerably.

The outlook is for generally fair weather, with a reaction toward normal temperature during Thursday and Friday generally east of the Mississippi River. Storm warnings remain displayed on the Atlantic Coast north of Delaware Bay.

FORECAST FOR TODAY AND FRIDAY.

Northern New England and Southern New England—Fair Thursday and Friday; no change in temperature.

Eastern New York—Fair Thursday and Friday; rising temperature Friday.

3 A. M.	39	40	4 P. M.	39	51
6 A. M.	42	40	6 P. M.	39	49
9 A. M.	47	45	9 P. M.	40	47
12 M.	44	51	11 P. M.	42	46

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 44; for the corresponding date last year it was 47; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 43.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 51; at 8 P. M. it was 40. Maximum temperature, 53 degrees at 8:30 A. M.; minimum, 36 degrees at 4 P. M. Humidity, [illegible] per cent. at 8 A. M.; 66 per cent. at 8 P. M. The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 29.34 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 29.73 inches.

To Sell More Navy Woolens.

Nearly 600,000 yards of woolens now held by the Navy Department are to be disposed of by sealed bids, which will be opened in the Washington offices of the department at 11 A. M. tomorrow. Practically all of the cloth is now held at the Fleet Supply Base in Brooklyn. It includes 210,000 yards of 18-ounce goods and 360,000 yards of 30-ounce stuff in both kersey and melton finishes. All of the merchandise was manufactured by leading American mills and was bought in anticipation of war needs. It has been offered for sale before, but due to the unsettled conditions in the textile trade previous bids have not been satisfactory.

Fur Collars Are in Demand.

Regardless of what the reason for it may be, there is no questioning the demand for fur collars for use on cloth coats for women. In the Buyers' Wants columns of yesterday's TIMES fifteen coat manufacturers advertised their need of them, either in the form of the made-up article or as uncut skins. While some of the calls were for "jobs," and some others specified that the merchandise was wanted "at a price," the fact remains that collars were wanted. Among the various furs designated in the advertisements were fitch, beaveret, nutria, Australian opossum, ringtail opossum, sealine, squirrel and raccoon. The call for the last named fur was the most general.

Gray Goods Market Unsteady.

Unsteadiness was again a feature of the local gray goods market yesterday, with business limited. Sales of printcloths included November-December lots of 38½-inch 64-60s at 8 cents, which was a drop of half a cent a yard for the day. For shipments running up to Feb. 1 business was done on 39-inch 68-72s at 9½ cents. Buyers paid 7 cents for 5.50-yard sheetings for deliveries during this and next month. November sales of 39-inch 64-104 sateens were again put through at 12½ cents.

Discussed Uniform Contracts.

The most important of the several discussions at the regular monthly meeting of the National Association of Knit Goods Selling Agents, Inc., which was held yesterday at the Arkwright Club, had to do with uniform sale contracts and the advisability of embodying in them an arbitration clause with a view to preventing litigation arising from disputes between buyers and sellers. The matter was discussed at considerable length, and a committee of the association will be appointed in a day or two to confer with representatives of other organizations interested in it. The recommendations will be submitted to the annual Winter meeting of the National Wholesale Dry Goods Association, which will be held her ein January. Cancellations and other trade topics of interest were also discussed. About sixty persons attended the meeting, among whom were representatives of seven local and national knit goods and wholesale dry goods associations.

A Future Buying Policy.

The movement which has started in several retail quarters, urging the trade to go about its normal buying and to relieve the pressure caused by withholding orders is, in a sense, considered good counsel by other representative retailers. The latter, however, would like to see more evidence that the "doctor is taking his own medicine." In certain lines which have been slowed up by lack of buying, there is said to be an actual danger of shortage if orders continue to be withheld. Leading retailers believe that the stop-buying policy can be carried too far and that, since they operate some months ahead of actual sale, the manufacturers should be allowed some idea of what their customers will require. Due to the surpluses of one kind or another which developed in some lines, it is the retail opinion that manufacturers will be strictly opposed to producing goods unless there are orders.

How Will Prices Be After Jan. 1?

The feeling is growing in certain quarters of the wholesale market that prices will recover somewhat after the first of the coming year. It is based, in part at least, on the belief that buyers will be obliged to operate freely at that time and that some shortage of goods will develop. It is not expected, however, that the looked-for advances will be very large. One of the big carpeet companies lately issued a double price list, covering purchases made prior to Jan. 1 and also after that date, with the latter figures showing advances of about 10 per cent. over the "before" levels. It is understood that this is not done wholly to force prompt action by buyers. While not much is said openly it is rumored that leading printers of cotton goods are none too anxious at the moment to book orders calling for deliveries after Jan. 1.

Factory Output Sales.

Many retailers protess to be troubled by the competition offered in the sales engineered by manufacturers who wish to dispose of their surplus merchandise. In silks, hosiery and ready-to-wear there has been a large amount of goods disposed of through this means. The advice which comes from retail organizations anxious to protect the interests of the established stores is that nothing can be done about this kind of competition. Where the manufacturer, however, has loaded up customers with goods sold under the pretence of scarcity and then starts a sale in competition, the retailer is counseled to take whatever steps in reprisal possible, as this is considered an injustice.

Gay Colors in Dress Goods.

A survey of the new designs submitted in the competitive textile exhibition to be given by the Art Alliance of America from Nov. 20 to Dec. 4, would seem to indicate that patterns in silks and dress goods for the 1921 season will include rather vivid effects. Hazel Burnham Slaughter, winner in previous contests, has designed a black striped georgette with mermaid and fish designs in many colors. One of the designers of the Art Alliance has sent in a length of silk voile with a yellow circle design on a pink background. A tan georgette with brown stripes outlined in black is another of the entries. The designers make use of a wealth of material, including birds and flowers, Persian, Indian and Japanese themes, thistle seed, butterflies, poppies, birds of paradise, stars and Peruvian, Grecian and Chinese patterns.

Style Show Date Fixed.

Following a joint conference of the Directors of the Couture Division and those of the National Garment Retailers' Association, the date of the Spring fashion show to be given by the former organization has been set for the evening of Feb. 3. The new styles are to be shown at the Hotel Commodore. Style ideas for Spring, it is explained, are always more plentiful than for Fall, and the prominent dressmakers intend to contribute their best. The exhibition of fur styles by the Retail Fur Association, also a group of the National Garment Retailers' Association, has been postponed.

'CRADLE OF LIBERTY' CHILLED

Coal Scarcity Causes Oil Heat to Be Proposed for Faneuil Hall.

BOSTON, Nov. 17.—Complaint having been made that Faneuil Hall, the "Cradle of Liberty," was an ice box, Mayor Peters today directed that the feasibility of heating the building with oil burners be investigated.

The contract by which the historic hall has been heated for several years lapsed during the recent cold spell and, with refrigerating plants in the market stalls downstairs sending their chilling influence to the hall above, organizations which attempted to hold meetings there were frozen out.

Coal is scarce in the city, and with no bids for coal heating of the hall in sight, the Mayor has turned to oil as a means of keeping it available for use.

Paper Shortage Forces Suspension.

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Nov. 17.—The Orange County Record, a weekly paper published at Washingtonville, Orange County, by Montanye Rightmyer, and established twenty-two years ago, announces that publication will be suspended with the issue of Thursday because of the scarcity and exorbitant price of newsprint.

Navy Cloth Is Offered for Sale.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Half a million yards of kersey and jersey cloth now at the fleet base in Brooklyn is being offered for sale. It consists of 210,000 yards of 18-ounce weight and 300,000 yards of 30-ounce weight. The cloth has been offered for sale before, but due to conditions in the trade bids have not been satisfactory. Bids will be opened at the Navy Department Friday.

Good Sale for Best Wools in London.

LONDON, Nov. 17.—At the wool auction sales today, 11,402 bales were offered. There was a steady sale for fine merinos, but large withdrawals occurred among the inferior grades and crossbreds, despite a reduction of the selling limits.

Ready-to-Wear Results Good.

Though the outlook taken by most garment retailers cannot be described as a bright one, nevertheless actual selling results are said to yield a far less gloomy picture. In fact, there are quite a few women's ready-to-wear stores that did better this October than ever before, and, during the last week, some other records have been established. The opinion is held that the combination of cold weather and lower prices helped to attract additional business. The situation described is said to be one that applies to the country as a whole and not to isolated districts.

BUSINESS NOTES.

The American Consul at Alexandria, Egypt, reported to the Department of Commerce by cable recently that the current cotton crop of that country has been estimated at 612,000,000 pounds.

Charles A. Hull, who for some time covered the Middle West for Samuel Eiseman & Co., and who later traveled there for the Henri Gutmann Silks Corporation, will cover the same territory for Zollinger & Schroth, silk manufacturers, after Dec. 1.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Renewed Decline in Stocks and Commodities — Recovery in Foreign Exchange Continues.

Although lending during most of the day at 8 per cent., call money on the Stock Exchange got down to 6 per cent. yesterday afternoon, at which rate it closed. Six per cent. has not been touched since Oct. 19. The slight relaxation in money tension, coupled with a further advance in sterling reported by early cables from the London market, was doubtless responsible for the fractional advance in our Stock Exchange prices at yesterday's opening. Apparently Wall Street was also inclined at the start to lay stress on the pretty widely disseminated judgment of a conference of bankers, held the day before, that the financial situation is "fundamentally sound," that money should become easier and that they knew individually of no "sore spots."

It was observed, however, that even this hopeful view of the matter was qualified by the opinion that further liquidation of securities and commodities might still for a time be inevitable, and before the day was very far advanced the Stock Exchange had other matters engaging its attention. Two ten-million-dollar industrial companies, one manufacturing motor-car tires and the other growing and refining sugar, reduced their dividends yesterday, and the incident was immediately reflected in heavy selling of both industrial and railway stocks, under which the day's prices of a great number of shares broke 1 to 6 points. There were recoveries from the lowest in the later trading, some of them amounting to a point or more, but they were very irregularly distributed, and they left the day's entire market substantially below Tuesday's closing. Total transactions again ran beyond a million shares. Probably speculative Wall Street's imagination was most impressed by the fact that United States Steel common stock went below 81 for the first time since December of 1917.

Whatever the actual nature of the selling, the assignment of the day's dividend reductions as the cause for it was somewhat superfluous. When such action by one company or a group of companies has been plainly foreshadowed by conditions of trade, the Stock Exchange "discounts" it in advance, as it has certainly been doing in prices for the industrial shares, ever since Autumn began. The fact that the Ajax Rubber and the Cuban-American Sugar should have cut their dividend to a 4 per cent. rate from the previous rates of 6 and 7 respectively, ought scarcely to have astonished a market which in September learned that the Cudahy Packing, the Central Leather and the National Cloak and Suit had passed their common stock dividends entirely.

No one in Wall Street is quite so inexperienced as to suppose that the trade reaction of the past six months, the 25 to 50 per cent. fall in prices of articles manufactured by such companies, and the necessity, in such a money market as this Autumn's, of conserving cash assets to a larger extent than usual for working capital, could occur without very widespread influence on dividend policies. Such a situation does not by any means signify that every industrial company must cut its rate of dividend. That will depend in each case, not only on the extent to which a given enterprise has been hit by the shrinkage of its own business and the fall of its own products, but by the conservatism with which it has determined its previous dividend policy. There are companies with an abundant accumulated surplus which can be drawn upon; but there are also companies whose surplus has been dissipated and there are companies with whom the policy of retaining cash assets to protect their temporarily hard-pressed customers is imperative.

The bright spot in yesterday's markets was foreign exchange. Sterling advanced 4½ cents further closing at $3.47¼, the highest; which is 14⅝ cents above the low price of last week. French and Italian exchange made further gains and the rate on Berlin stood at one time at 1.63 cents, as compared with 1.38 yesterday and 1.10 last week. On the other hand, the day was a bad one in the commodity markets. Wheat declined 3¼ cents per bushel on the Chicago market for December delivery, and cotton, corn and oats reached new low prices for the year in the cash markets.

MONEY.

WEDNESDAY, NOV. 17, 1920.

Call money on the Stock Exchange yesterday touched 6 per cent., the lowest rate for call funds since Tuesday, Oct. 19. The opening rate was 8 per cent., which was the high for the day and the rate at which renewals were made. The closing was 6 per cent. New borrowing was on a small scale. Time money still continues unchanged, 8@8¼ per cent. for mixed and 8¼@8½ per cent. on all industrials. Mercantile paper of the choice grade commands 8 per cent., with 8¼ per cent. asked for less choice names.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

Rates Rise with Vigor, Reflecting Easier Money—Sterling Up 4½ Cents.

The advancing movement of the exchanges continued yesterday with vigor comparable to the rally of Tuesday. Sterling sight drafts at their best quotation of 3.47¼ were 14⅝ cents above last week's lowest rate and the day's net gain was 4½ cents. Francs, lire and guilders were strong and marks displayed buoyancy, reaching 1.63 cents and ending at 1.54½, compared with 1.38 the day before. The rate on Hungary nearly doubled Tuesday's final rate at .34. The improvement of the exchanges was attributed in part to the easing of money rates.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Money at 6 Per Cent.

The long-awaited and much-discussed 6 per cent. call money rate was at last realized when loans were arranged at that figure yesterday afternoon. The renewal rate was 8 per cent. The 6 per cent. figure had not been seen since Oct. 19, three days before the 10 per cent. limit was reached. Thus, the expected happened, but it helped the stock market and the general situation not a whit. The trouble was that all the joy of a low rate was removed by the generally recognized fact that after the decline of the past fortnight, it takes infinitely less money to finance the market and this lessened demand may have had something to do with the money ease.

Japan Getting Gold.

In addition to the $10,000,000 gold a month which Japanese banks are taking from this country, it was learned yesterday that the Japanese also are getting gold from India. Just what is the significance of this latter movement is not clear, but bankers here interested in the Orient think it highly probable that the Japs are pulling in some of their London balances in this way. There also is some uncertainty as to just how much Indian gold Japan has got or is likely to get. Reports reaching here say that a recent shipment of the metal amounted to the equivalent of about $9,000,000, but it is known that there have been other shipments.

The Reassuring Statement.

Wall Street reacted in peculiar manner to the accounts of the bankers' conference in the Morgan offices Tuesday afternoon. The skeptics—and there were many of them—wanted to know why, if there was nothing wrong with the situation, the bankers should have felt called upon to issue "assurances." The answer is, the bankers didn't do anything of the sort. The conference on the general situation was almost an accident; it followed a rather perfunctory meeting for a very different purpose. After the session had broken up, the newspaper men saw some of the bankers and were told what had been discussed and the results of the discussion, and wrote what they were told. But there was no formal giving out of any "reassuring" statement, or other kind of statement, for that matter. However, the Wall Street skeptic is always present and in times like these is particularly aggressive.

A Blue Day in Wall Street.

Further heavy liquidation in the industrial issues drove many of them to new low marks for the year yesterday. United States Steel dipped to 80⅞. Crucible broke below par and the decline on a whole ran from 3 to 5 points in the active issues. There was no further explanation for the recession than has been set forth from time to time during the last two weeks. Holders of securities appear to many to be in something of a demoralized state of mind and this is resulting in stocks being tossed on the market for almost anything they will bring. It was noticeable yesterday that only a thin market existed for some of the less active stocks, breaks of large fractions, and even a point to a point and a half between sales being recorded. One broker remarked yesterday, "Thank goodness for the short interest in the market, for the only purchasing of consequence is from this quarter."

Gloom in Commission Houses.

Those who have been holding their securities hoping for the rally were a cheerless lot. As prices crumbled following a fairly good opening their degree of pessimism increased with the price recessions until in the final hour there was, so far as these persons were concerned, not a ray of hope anywhere. One trader who saw his stocks working steadily to lower levels found a certain degree of satisfaction in things, however, when he remarked, "Well, there are some issues that have gone down more than mine." But it was an observation of the "grin and bear it type."

American Linseed Breaks.

One of the sharpest breaks of the day came in American Linseed. This was in the afternoon. Those who were following the tape saw 1,000 shares of Linseed appear at 54, which was 6 points under the previous sale of some time before. The postponement of any word as to the rumored sale of Linseed has discouraged some holders of the issue and the price recession has been steady recently. At yesterday's final price the shares were off some 14 points from the price ruling several weeks ago. The sharpness of the break in Linseed, which during the day lost 8½ points, was evidence of the thin market for the shares.

New York Air Brake.

There has been steady selling recently of New York Air Brake apparently in expectation that the dividend would be reduced. Yesterday the Directors announced the regular quarterly disbursement of 2½ per cent. And not only this, but a decidedly creditable record of sales was shown for the ten months of this year as compared with the same period of last year. The figures for the current year show a business of $5,451,986, whereas in 1919 the sales were $2,593,656. Furthermore it was stated that the company had business booked to the extent of $2,000,000 and that no cancellations had been made. This is a rather better record than the majority of industrial companies are showing at the present time.

United Retail Stores Declines.

United Retail Stores followed a hectic course in the final hour, the shares bobbing around between 57 and 54 and closing the day with a net loss of 4⅜ points. The stock was offered down steadily up to within fifteen minutes of the close, some long strings, mostly of 100-share lots, coming out. In one case there was a break of 1½ points between sales the stock dipping from 55½ to 54. Just before the close there was a moderate rally from the low price. No news developments came to light concerning the stock.

Average Haul Increase.

Still another proof of the results obtained through the efficiency of the speed-up programs adopted by the carriers is contained in the statistics prepared by the Interstate Commerce Commission covering average haul. These show that the distance over which the average ton of freight was transported in 1920 especially in the month of July, was 181.16 miles as compared with 173.68 miles in the corresponding month last year. The figures show as well that the average haul has increased steadily since 1915 when it was 162.59 miles. In 1916 it was 166.28 miles, in 1917, 173.77 miles and in 1918, 175.81 miles. Taking the class 1 railroads as a single system the average ton of freight was hauled 301.47 miles in 1918 from point of origin to destination as compared with 292.57 miles in the preceding year. Final statistics for 1919 have not been issued and so far this year the commission has issued monthly figures showing the average movement.

An Interesting Sale.

The sale at auction of 600 shares of Morris & Essex stock yesterday at 64¼ disclosed a good demand for an inactive investment issue. The last sale recorded on the New York Stock Exchange was an odd lot transaction on June 21 of this year when the low for 1920 was established at 60¼. The year's high was 72 and this price was the quotation for another odd lot sale of the stock.

The three most important factors to be considered in the selection of an investment are

SECURITY, YIELD,
MARKETABILITY.

Bonds which comply with these requirements may still be purchased at unusually attractive levels.

Upon request we shall be glad to submit a list of bonds of the above character, which we recommend for investment.

D., L. & W. CO. AWAITS COMMISSION RULING

Has Two Plans for Separating Properties and Paying 200% Stock Dividend.

$60,000,000 IN COAL LANDS

Minimum Valuation Would Pay 140 Per Cent. of Dividend—New Concern Suggested.

While there has been less interest displayed in Delaware, Lackawanna & Western stock recently than had been expected following publication of the company's proposal to segregate its coal and railroad properties and pay its shareholders a 200 per cent. stock dividend, it is understood that when the Interstate Commerce Commission hands down its ruling on the company's application the company will be ready to go ahead with its plan.

It is understood that two suggestions have been considered for the separation of the coal and railroad properties. One calls for the formation of a new company stock of which will be the dividend distributed to D., L. & W. stockholders as payment for the coal properties. The other is understood to call for payment to the railroad by a new corporation of new bonds in addition to a distribution of the new concern's stock to present shareholders.

The minimum valuation of $60,000,000 which has been placed on the coal properties of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western by counsel for the company would mean a 140 per cent. stock dividend. But, at the same time, the surplus of the company is sufficient to bring up the dividend to 200 per cent. Also, $60,000,000 as a minimum valuation is understood to be extremely conservative.

How soon the Interstate Commerce Commission will act in the matter is not known, but in some quarters the ruling is expected early next month, if it is not received before the end of November.

Experience has shown that industrial depression and deflation stimulate the demand for high grade fixed interest bearing securities.

The market for well-secured long term obligations of established corporations is again reflecting this influence.

Nevertheless, security price levels still afford an unusual opportunity to obtain safe investments on a high yield basis.

We shall gladly furnish a list of selected bonds, to serve as specific recommendations.

Executor and Trustee Under Your Will

ARE YOU CONSIDERING how to safeguard the property to be left under your will? Are you considering the duties and responsibilities required of the executor and trustee you may appoint? By consulting our officers you can learn of the safeguards with which we surround the administration of estates.

A trust company has many advantages as executor and trustee, because of its financial responsibility, its accumulated experience, its continuing existence, its financial judgment, and the impartiality with which it will execute the directions in your will.

Through special committees of our directors, consulting with officers of the Company, whose sole duty is the settlement and management of estates, the judgment and experience of the entire Company is placed at the service of your estate.

We shall be pleased to send you our booklet ontlining the entire range of our trust services.

TO PROTECT OWNERS OF MEXICAN BONDS

Speyer & Co. Ask for Deposit of Irrigation Securities Due in 1943.

CITE PROMISE AS OBREGON'S

Say President-Elect Has Declared He Will Recognize Foreign Debts.

Speyer & Co. have invited holders of the $25,000,000 Mexican Irrigation 4½ per cent. bonds, due 1943, to deposit these securities with the New York Trust Company, as depositary, on or before Dec. 31. The bonds have been in default as to interest since May 1, 1914, and as to payments on account of the sinking fund since May 1, 1919. There also will be depositaries appointed for the bonds in London, Frankfort on Main, Berlin and Amsterdam, where considerable amounts are said to be held.

A similar request for the deposit of the $40,000,000 4 per cnt. bonds due 1954, it was said yesterday by James Speyer, will be made some time next week.

The irrigation 4 per cents. were placed by Speyer & Co. in October, 1908, and were widely distributed throughout the United States and in Europe. Payment of principal, interest and sinking fund instalments is unconditionally guaranteed by the Mexican Government and since the defaultation interest and sinking fund Speyer & Co. have made repeated efforts, on behalf of the bondholders, to have the Mexican Government make good its engagements. The total amount of defaulted interest up to Nov. 1 of this year is $6,000,000 and the overdue sinking fund payments to the same date amount to more than $1,125,000.

The circular letter sent to known bondholders, said:

"General Alvaro Obregon, who has been elected President of the United States of Mexico, and who will assume office on Dec. 1, is reported to have publicly declared that the new Mexican Government will recognize all legal foreign debts, and that all its debts will be paid as far as possible.

"There are a number of foreign loans of the Mexican Government, secured and unsecured, and other guarantees given by it, on which default has been made, as well as a large amount of other claims against it, which will have to be recognized and provided for by the Mexican Government.

"We therefore consider it important that the holders of the Irrigation bonds should unite, without delay, for the proper and effectual protection of their interests."

Temporary certificates of deposit will be issued by the depositary, exchangeable for engraved certificates and application will be made for the listing of the engraved certificates on the New York Stock Exchange. Speyer & Co. state that they will make no charge to depositing bondholders for their services under the agreement. Cadawalader, Wickersham & Taft will act as counsel.

EXCHANGE FIRMS TO MERGE.

N. L. Carpenter to Become a Special Partner in A. A. Housman & Co.

The New York Stock Exchange firms of A. A. Housman & Co. and N. L. Carpenter & Co. have agreed upon a plan to merge which will become effective the first of next year. The business will be conducted under the name of A. A. Housman & Co, N. L. Carpenter, the present head of N. L. Carpenter & Co., becoming a special partner in the new concern. The officers of the two concerns will be retained. Mr. Carpenter it is said will retire from active business in New York, going to Natchez, Miss., where his family has extensive business interests.

A. A. Housman & Co. now consists of Clarence J. Housman, Fred Housman, Edward A. Pierce, S. W. Baruch, Sydney Lewinson, Walter S. Einstein and E. L. Burrill. Mr. Burrill became a general partner in July, 1919, when the firm of Burrill & Stitt was absorbed. He is the brother of William Burrill, who, with Arthur A. Housman, founded the firm of Burrill & Housman, and became members of the New York Stock Exchange in 1884. Six years later the firm became A. A. Housman & Co. Arthur A. Housman, who died in 1907, is still well remembered by Street veterans as the confidential broker of many outstanding financiers of an older day.

N. L. Carpenter & Co. was originally Carpenter, Baggot & Co., under which name business was conducted from 1905 to 1912, when the firm became N. L. Carpenter & Co.

HEINZ NOTES PAY 7%.

Details of $8,000,000 Short Term Issue Announced by Purchasers.

The $8,000,000 short-term securities purchased from the H. J. Heinz Company by Goldman, Sachs & Co., E. Naumburg & Co., Lehman Brothers of New York and the Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh, are in the form of ten-year 7 per cent. gold notes. The notes are being offered at 94¾ and interest, to yield about 7¾ per cent. They are redeemable in whole or in part at 105 and interest on or before Dec. 1, 1921; at 104½ after Dec. 1, 1921; 104 after Dec. 1, 1922; 103½ after Dec. 1, 1923; 103 after Dec. 1, 1924; 102½ after Dec. 1, 1925; 102 after Dec. 1, 1926; 101½ after Dec. 1, 1927; 101 after Dec. 1, 1928, and 100½ on June 1, 1930.

Proceeds from the sale of these notes will be applied to the payment of notes payable and to provide additional working capital. Sales of the company since May 1, 1920, show an increase of 22 per cent. over last year.

Overbids for 1921 Treasury Notes.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Total subscriptions for Treasury certificates dated Nov. 15 and maturing May 16, 1921, were $292,696,500, Secretary Houston announced today, and the total alloted was $232,124,000. The amount offered was $200,000,000 or thereabouts.

(Caja de Prestamos para obras de Irrigacion y Fomento de la Agricultura, S. A.)

Principal, Interest and Sinking Fund Unconditionally Guaranteed by the Mexican Government

Default was made in the payment of the interest on the above Bonds due May 1st, 1914, and, since May 1st, 1919, default has also been made in the sinking fund payments provided for the redemption of these Bonds.

The payment of Principal, Interest and Sinking Fund is unconditionally guaranteed by endorsement by the Mexican Government.

Since the above defaults occurred, we have made repeated efforts, on behalf of the owners of the Bonds, to have the interest and sinking fund instalments paid, and to have the Mexican Government make good its guarantee thereof, but without avail.

General Alvaro Obregon, who has been elected President of the United States of Mexico, and who will assume office on December 1st, is reported, however, to have publicly declared that the new Mexican Government "will recognize all legal foreign debts," and that all its debts will be paid "as far as possible."

There are a number of foreign loans of the Mexican Government, secured and unsecured, and other guarantees given by it, on which default has been made, as well as a large amount of other claims against it, which will have to be recognized and provided for by the Mexican Government.

We therefore consider it important that the holders of the above Bonds should unite, without delay, for the proper and effectual protection of their interests. To that end we invite holders of the above mentioned Bonds to deposit the same, with all unpaid coupons attached, with the New York Trust Company, as Depositary, at its office, 26 Broad Street, New York, or with its agents, on or before December 31st, 1920, subject to the terms of a Bondholders Agreement dated November 18th, 1920. Copies of this Agreement may be obtained from the Depositary or at our office, 24-26 Pine Street.

Temporary certificates of deposit will be issued by the Depositary, exchangeable for engraved bearer certificates. Application will be made for the listing of the engraved certificates on the New York Stock Exchange.

We will make no charge to depositing bondholders for our services under the Agreement.

INDEPENDENT MILLS DROP STEEL PRICES

GERMANS WIN TRADE

Outbid Chicago Mill on East Indian Tie-Plate Contract—Pittsburgh Fairly Busy.

Independent steel prices are getting close to the Steel Corporation level in some instances, according to the weekly survey of conditions by The Iron Age. Idleness, it is asserted, is growing and many plants are running out of business. In discussing the situation this publication says:

"With buying almost at a standstill, independent steel company prices are still declining, in a few cases getting to the Steel Corporation level, and more blast furnace and steel works capacity in all districts is idle. Steel Corporation operations hold up to 80 per cent. or more, while independent plants are gradually running out of business. In northern Ohio some shut-downs are nearly complete.

"There is no thought of getting this year an adjustment of prices that will cause free buying and the period of quiet may run some weeks into the new year. To get stocks down to their lowest before Jan. 1 is the aim of all users.

"The transfer of huge piles of low-priced steel products from Steel Corporation mills to the floors of consumers will be hastened by the Commerce Commission order permitting the general use of all tight bottom gondola cars.

"Interest is centring in the prices the Steel Corporation will announce early in December on sheets and tin plates for the first half of 1921 and on rails for the year.

"Germany's slightest move in exports gets much notice. In Cuba and South America domestic wire works have felt German competition lately. More noteworthy is the loss to Germany of a 5,000-ton tie-plate order from the Dutch East Indies. A Chicago mill quoted 3.25c., equal to 2.87c. Pittsburgh. A European mill—the country not being named—also captured a 20,000-ton rail order for the Dutch East Indies against American competition.

"Outstanding in the quiet steel fabricating trade is the placing in Pittsburgh of ten coal barges requiring 14,500 tons of steel and of six steel barges for South America. About 7,500 tons of sizable building and bridge work was put under contract. The large active projects include a bank building in Chicago 9,000 tons; a hotel in Buffalo, 8,000 tons, and a theatre in Cleveland, 3,500 tons.

"Pig iron prices are still receding. In the Pittsburgh district furnaces are quoting foundry grades $2 lower and steel-making grades from $1 to $2 lower, while resales of basic in the Pittsburgh district have been made at several dollars below the furnace quotations. Sharp declines have also been noted on both foundry and basic in the Philadelphia district. Many furnaces have taken a decided stand against allowing cancellations, but postponements of shipments are frequently conceded."

NATION'S BANK RESOURCES.

Smaller Than at June Call, but Better Than in September a Year Ago.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Resources of all national banks amounted to $21,885,480,000 on Sept. 8, a reduction of $311,257,000 compared with June 30, but an increase of $270,064,000 over Sept. 12, 1919, according to reports of the last bank call, summarized tonight by Controller Williams.

Deposits totaled $16,751,956,000, the Controller said, a reduction of $403,465,000 compared with the June call and an increase of $70,349,000 over September of last year. Loans and discounts increased by $18,662,000 as compared with June.

Between June and September there was an actual net increase in deposits in all the national banks, outside of New York, of $82,097,000, but a reduction in the deposits of the New York banks of $486,182,000. Between September, 1919, and September of this year, however, the increase in loans and discounts exceeded the increase in deposits by $1,259,951,000.

States showing the most notable changes in country bank deposits were these:

INCREASES.
Pennsylvania	$40,000,000
New York	23,000,000

Pittsburgh	$24,000,000
Kansas City, Mo.	8,000,000
Cincinnati	6,000,000
Louisville	5,000,000
Minneapolis	5,000,000

New York	$486,000,000
Boston	27,000,000
San Francisco	18,000,000
Philadelphia	14,000,000

BIG OCTOBER DROP IN NATION'S OUTLAYS

Smaller, by More Than a Billion, Than the Government's Cost in September.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Governmental expenditures for October fell off by nearly $1,230,000,000 as compared with September, according to the monthly statement issued tonight by the Treasury. Disbursements for the month totaled $714,442,660, against $1,944,093,527 in September.

Expenditures for October were divided into ordinary disbursements of $426,497,372, compared with $496,776,654 in September, and payments on the public debt amounting to $187,945,288, as against $1,447,316,873 for September.

Interest on the public debt, amounting to $114,276,946, was the largest of the ordinary expenditures for the month, with $70,456,675 disbursed to the railroads, standing second.

The use of $269,494,500 for the redemption of certificates of indebtedness was the largest item of the payments of the public debt.

Made Deputy Bank Superintendent.

The appointment of Norman J. Macdonald as First Deputy Superintendent of Banks was announced yesterday by George V. McLaughlin, State Superintendent of Banks. Mr. Macdonald is one of the senior examiners in the State Banking Department, having been appointed from the civil service competitive list in November, 1911.

JOINT AID TO CUBA SEEMS DOUBTFUL

Banks Will Arrange Credits Separately Unless Developments Take New Turn.

TO EXTEND MORATORIUM

Other Latin-American Countries Are Threatened with Financial Difficulties.

There will be no joint action by American banks for the relief of the Cuban situation unless developments in the matter take a very different angle from those along which it was proceeding yesterday afternoon. In the forenoon it appeared that joint action would be taken, and very shortly, but in the afternoon the whole project was abandoned, after a series of informal conferences, and the indications now are that whatever is done will be as a result of the initiative of individual banks, who will take care of their own clients.

Just why the proposal for joint action was abandoned is not clear. For some days bankers had been apparently agreed that whatever was done should be done in this way and as late as Tuesday it was regarded as certain that a common ground would be found upon which all interests could come together.

Yesterday morning there was a proposal discussed which provided for the taking over by a group of American and other foreign banks interested in Cuba a big block of sugar loans made by Cuban banks on the 300,000 tons carry-over from the last sugar crop. This sugar, at 7 cents a pound, represents a value of something like $47,000,000, and it is the loans on this which the Cuban banks made which has been the real underlying cause of most of the Cuban difficulties.

The proposition yesterday was that the American and other foreign banks advance a certain sum to the Cuban banks on this collateral and also make some further advances on the new crop, which will reach the mills the first part of next month. In all, the advances by the foreign group were to be between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000. Whether any such sum can be raised by the individual banks going it alone is a question which bankers were not prepared to answer yesterday. What was regarded as very definite however, was that the Cuban moratorium, in view of this latest development, will be continued beyond Dec. 1, the date when it was to have expired.

Meanwhile, there is considerable uneasiness in banking circles over the situation in other Latin-American countries. Some of the smaller countries in Central and South America are said to be working into very difficult position and it would not be surprising if moratoria would be declared in several of these countries. Argentina, on the other hand, is said to be passing its crisis and the outlook there is reported to be more favorable than it was a few weeks ago.

Guaranteed Protection for Wholesalers of Merchandise

The American Credit-Indemnity Company is willing at this time to consider applications for Credit Insurance Bonds from a limited number of high grade Manufacturers and Wholesalers, whatever their sales volume.

Such wholesale houses must be conducting their operations with care and caution and with due appreciation of present day economic conditions.

The American's Unlimited Policy guarantees to prevent, else pay, bad debt losses beyond the normal, whenever excessive losses occur, and whatever the aggregate of the net covered losses under the policy.

Inquiries from Manufacturers and Jobbers will have prompt consideration.

FOR THE GOOD OF YOUR ESTATE

Many men appoint their wives, or business partners as their executors because those persons have an intimate knowledge of the estate.

Even as you have worked with your friends to build up an estate, this bank is prepared to work with them to preserve it.

How could you better serve your estate than by appointing this bank co-executor under your will?

FOREIGN SALES AID IN FALL OF COTTON

Supporting Orders Unable to Stem Tide of Recession—Spot Markets Weak.

There was no change in the cotton market yesterday. Conditions in the trade were as unfavorable as ever and prices, both for spots and futures continued to fall. The market went down steadily from the opening, with very few rallies at all and none of any consequence. Liverpool was down before our opening, both for spots and futures, and the local element took this for its early guidance. After our market got going, selling came in from many parts of the South and from abroad and this, added to the weight of local liquidation, simply overpowered whatever support there might have been.

There was a brief rally in the middle of the afternoon, but it only proved an added attraction for the sellers, who became more aggressive on this bulge than they had been previously and before the closing prices had taken a further drop, with all months from January on breaking through 17 cents. December, at a minimum of 17.63, also was at a new low record. The final quotations were within 10 points of the day's lows.

All of the Southern spot markets were again weak, with losses of 50 to 75 points the rule of the day. Four markets, Dallas, Wilmington, Norfolk and Fort Worth, broke under 17 cents and none of the real Southern markets were higher than 18 cents flat. New York, at 18.75 and Baltimore and St. Louis, each at 18.50, were the highest markets in the country, and all of these quotations were new low records for the last three years.

The export movement again turned out the only favorable development of the day. Yesterday's total was 13,518 bales, all out of Galveston for the Continent, making the week's total to date 112,255 bales, as against 110,571 bales moved forward in all of last week.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.	Prev. Day.
Dec.	17.94	18.25	17.63	17.71@17.75	18.15
Jan.	17.35	17.62	16.93	17.10@17.16	17.52
March	17.12	17.38	16.80	16.90@16.98	17.34
May	17.00	17.28	16.68	16.80@16.85	17.10
July	16.83	17.10	16.55	16.65@16.73	16.92
Sept.	16.60	16.60	16.30	16.40	16.65

The local market for spot cotton was quiet, down 50 points to 18.75c for middling upland; sales nil.

Southern spot markets were: Galveston, 17.50c, down .50; New Orleans, 17.50c, down .50; Savannah, 18c, down .75; Augusta, 17.50c, down .50; Memphis, 17.50c, down .50; Houston, 17.25c, down .25; Little Rock, 18c, down .50.

Yesterday's cotton statistics were:

	Yesterday.	Last Wk.	Last Yr.
Exports	13,518	18,400	43,643

N. Y. arrivals	4,634	941	......

Liverpool cables: Spot cotton was quiet at 13.45d for middling. Sales, 4,000 bales, of which American 3,000; imports, 5,000 bales, all American. Futures opened easy, 26 to 38 points down, and closed steady, 22 to 45 points down on the day. Prices: December, 13.03d; March, 12.82d; May, 12.67d; July, 12.52d. Manchester: Yarns and cloths were dull and easier.

UTAH PROFITS LOWER.

Copper Company Reports $502,953 Earnings, or 31 Cents a Share.

The Utah Copper Company in its report for the third quarter of this year shows total profits of $502,953, or the equivalent of only 31 cents a share on the capital stock. In the preceding quarter the earnings were $2,240,470, or $1.38 a share. In the September quarter of 1919 the company earned $1.48 a share.

For the nine months ended with Sept. 30 the profits were $5,614,012, or $3.45 a share, as compared with $5,552,939, or $3.41 a share in the corresponding period of 1919. During the September quarter there was an operating loss of $329,022 but this was offset by other income, which amounted to $831,975.

In discussing the cost of production the report says:

"The average cost per pound of net copper produced, including plant depreciation and all fixed and general charges, but excluding Federal taxes, and without credit for gold and silver or miscellaneous income, was 17.156 cents as compared with 13.697 cents for the previous quarter, calculated in the same way. The value of the gold and silver in the concentrates totalled $178,683, and the miscellaneous income, including Bingham & Garfield Railway Company dividend, amounted to $403,167. These items combined are equal to 2.414 cents per net pound of copper produced, which being deducted from the operating cost above stated results in a net cost of 14.74 cents per pound."

PARIS, Nov. 17.—Trading was active on the Bourse today. Three per cent. rentes, 20 centimes lower at 54 francs 80 centimes; 5 per cent. war loan unchanged at 85 francs 20 centimes. Exchange on London 1 franc 17 centimes lower at 57 francs 40 centimes per sovereign; American dollars, 16 francs 63 centimes, against 17 francs 32 centimes yesterday.

Federal Reserve Directors Named.

The member banks of Group 2 of the New York Federal Reserve District have nominated Robert H. Treman of Ithaca, N. Y., and Hamilton F. Kean of New York for Class A Directors of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. The Federal Trust Company of Newark and the Ironbound Trust Company of Newark nominated Mr. Kean. Mr. Treman was nominated by some fifty banks in this State, New Jersey and Connecticut. Richard H. Williams of Madison, N. J., has been nominated for Class B Director. The result of the election will be announced about Dec. 6.

Pacific Mail Gives Extra Dividend.

The Pacific Mail Steamship Company declared an extra dividend yesterday of 50 cents a share on its common stock in addition to the regular 50-cent semi-annual disbursement on the stock. Both are payable Dec. 15 to stockholders of record Dec. 1. On June 15 the company declared $1 extra on the common stock.

WHEAT PRICES LOWER.

Market Closes Nervous, 3 to 5 Cents Decline Per Bushel.

CHICAGO, Nov. 17.—Aggressive selling, emphasized by reports that three vesselloads of Canadian wheat were coming here and that Chicago concerns were buying wheat at Minneapolis to bring to Chicago, had a bearish effect today on wheat. The market closed nervous, 3c to 5c net lower, with December 1.84¼ to 1.84½ and March 1.72¾ to 1.73. Corn lost 2½c to 3½c and Oats ⅝c to 2⅜c. In provisions, the outcome varied from unchanged figures to a setback of 1.35.

Bears put stress on talk that one of the cargoes of Canadian wheat booked to come to Chicago was obtained at a reduced premium. Much was made also of opinions current that bullish factors had been well discounted by recent upturns. On the other hand, commission houses were rather persistent buyers for a time and with the help of strength in sterling exchange were able once to bring about a sharp rally, which, however, failed to last in the absence of continued purchasing toward the end of the session and with no immediate fresh export business in sight.

Corn and oats touched the lowest prices this season. The weakness was due to general selling, precipitated by a break in cash corn values at Kansas City. Provisions lacked support, except November lard, which was wanted by shorts.

COMMODITIES PRICES

Weakness Continues in Grains—Oats, Corn and Spot Cotton at Year's Lows.

Prices for the foodstuffs, particularly in yesterday's cash markets, continued the sagging tendency of the last week, and at the day's close several new low prices for the year were made. Wheat declined 3¼ cents per bushel, corn dropped 3 cents a bushel to a new low for the year, and oats at a recession of ¼ cent per bushel also established a new low price. Flour, however, was unchanged, likewise coffee and sugar.

In the dairy products butter and eggs continue to be priced at quotations ruling now for the best part of the week.

In provisions, lard at 19.50 cents per 100 pounds shows a decline of 80 cents compared with Tuesday, but the market is erratic and the quotation is purely nominal. Beef and pork were unchanged in price.

In the metals, copper recovered ¼ of a cent and tin advanced 75 cents per 100 pounds.

Spot cotton went to a new low yesterday at $18.75 per 100 pounds, an overnight decline of 50 cents. The market in futures was very weak and spot naturally followed the trend. Printcloths was unchanged.

Following are the cash prices for the principal commodities in the wholesale market at the close of business Tuesday, a week before and a year ago:

TO ACT ON FEDERAL OFFER.

Alton Road Directors Expected to Decide Matter Next Week.

At a meeting of the Directors of the Chicago & Alton Railroad Company, to be held next Tuesday, it is probable that the board will decide the matter of accepting or rejecting the $3,178,314 compensation offer of the Government, which fails to meet fixed charges, including interest and rentals, by about three hundred thousand dollars, according to information obtained in the financial district yesterday.

The offer of the Government was made by a Board of Referees appointed by the President for the road during Federal control. The Chicago & Alton, in the claim filed last June, asked for $4,592,500 annual compensation. Should the Directors reject the offer, they may bring suit for the sum they have requested in the Court of Claims.

Rumanian Financial Agent Coming.

PARIS, Nov. 17 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—Aristide Blank, a leading banker of Rumania, has been appointed by the Rumanian Government as a special financial delegate to the United States, says a dispatch from Bucharest. Mr. Blank already is on his way to America.

Ajax Rubber Concern Cuts Dividend

Because of "existing financial and business conditions," the Ajax Rubber Company announced a reduction yesterday of the quarterly dividend to $1 from $1.50 a share, payable Dec. 15.

To Stockholders of

GENERAL CHEMICAL COMPANY
THE SOLVAY PROCESS COMPANY
SEMET-SOLVAY COMPANY
THE BARRETT COMPANY, and NATIONAL ANILINE & CHEMICAL COMPANY, Inc. including holders of Voting Trust Certificates for stock of the Company last mentioned:

Over ninety per cent. of the aggregate outstanding shares of the above mentioned companies is now under the control of the undersigned Committee, subject to the Chemical Consolidation Plan and Agreement.

It is therefore important that all stockholders who desire to participate in the Plan should deposit their holdings promptly. The period within which stockholders may become parties to the Plan and Agreement by depositing their holdings, as therein provided, expires November 30, 1920.

Accordingly, holders of preferred and common stocks of the above mentioned companies, who desire to participate in the Plan but have not yet deposited their holdings, should deposit their stock certificates (or voting trust certificates), in negotiable form, on or before November 30, 1920, with Guaranty Trust Company of New York, Depositary, at its office, No. 140 Broadway, New York City, which will issue transferable Deposit Certificates therefor. After said date no deposits will be received by the Depositary except with the express consent of the Committee and upon such terms as it may prescribe.

No transfer tax stamps need be provided by depositing stockholders except when Deposit Certificates are to be issued in some name other than that in which the deposited stock is registered.

Until the Plan is declared operative, all cash dividends paid on all shares of stock, preferred and common, deposited under the Plan, will be promptly paid over to the holders of the Deposit Certificates representing such shares.

Deposit Certificates representing stock listed on the New York Stock Exchange are also listed on said Exchange.

Copies of the Plan, Agreement and accompanying circular may be obtained from the Depositary or the Secretary of the Committee.

Dated, November 16, 1920.

Government's Bulletin Shows Corn and Cotton Little Hurt.

The weekly bulletin of crop conditions issued by the Weather Bureau at Washington is as follows:

The week was unusually cold for the season in the central and western portions of the cotton belt and much cloudy weather prevailed, while moderately heavy rains were general at the close of the week in the eastern portion.

Some cotton was killed by frost on the 13th and 14th in the more eastern localities, and injury was done in Texas by precipitation and freezing weather. Picking progressed satisfactorily in northeastern districts during most of the week, but the weather was rather unfavorable for this work in the western portion of the belt. Much cotton remains unpicked in North Carolina and considerable cotton is still ungathered in Arkansas and northern Alabama. Picking made good progress under favorable weather conditions in Arizona.

There was very little rainfall in the principal corn-growing States, while the temperatures were much below normal. Considerable progress was made in harvesting the crop, although the work was delayed slightly in places by cold weather and snow. The ground is frozen in the Northern States. Much corn is reported soft and chaffy in Illinois, but is in good condition elsewhere.

The growth of Fall-sown grains was somewhat checked in most sections of the country by unseasonably cold weather, but these crops are generally well rooted and in good condition for entering the Winter.

Winter wheat shows a satisfactory stand, and is of good color in the principal producing States, although there is some complaint of unsatisfactory stand in portions of Ohio, and the late seeded got a poor start in southwestern Kansas. Rains the latter part of the week greatly improved soil conditions in the Eastern Winter oat belt, where seeding has been delayed on account of dry weather.

45TH ST. BUILDING LEASED AT $2,500,000

$500,000 RENT FOR FLOOR

Galena Signal Oil Co. Secures Space in New Liggett-Winchester Ley Building.

Commercial and loft building leases were a strong feature of yesterday's real estate market, when several contracts were signed for thousands of square feet for long terms.

Last year a proposed structure could be leased from the plans before the foundations were completed, but this year, owing to chaotic conditions, the demand had fallen off until very recently, when there has been a decided revival of inquiry and demand.

One of the largest transactions closed yesterday involved the Forty-fifth Street Exchange Building, a twelve-story commercial structure at 145 West Forty-fifth Street, which was leased by Spotts & Starr, Inc., to the Tilmar Corporation for a term of twenty-one years at an aggregate rental of about $2,500,000.

The structure occupies a plot 68 by 100 feet adjoining the Lyceum Theatre and the new Loew theatre and office building on the northeast corner of Forty-fifth Street and Broadway. Hyman Winik, the owner of record, acquired the building through Spotts & Starr, Inc., a few months ago, and negotiations for the lease were made by cable with Mr. Winik, who resides in London, England. The property is assessed by the city at $650,000, according to the 1921 figures.

Another important lease in the Grand Central Station zone indicative of the uptown movement to this center was closed by Albert B. Ashforth & Co., who leased to the Galena Signal Oil Company, now at 17 Battery Place, the entire sixteenth floor in the new twenty-three-story building being erected by the Fred T. Ley Co., Inc., for the Liggett-Winchester Ley Corporation on the northeast corner of Madison Avenue and Forty-second Street.

The lease is for a term of years at an aggregate rental of $500,000. Another lease for two floors in the same building is pending.

In the midtown section Max N. Natanson, operator, leased to Israel Zimetbaum, who now occupies the seventh floor in the Arena Building, at 38 and 40 West Thirty-second Street, extending through to 39 and 41 West Thirty-first Street, the sixth floor in the same building.

Mr. Natanson also leased in the Arena Building the tenth floor to Julius Pollack for five years at a total rental of about $100,000; in 315 Fourth Avenue to Robert H. Ingersoll & Bro. the top loft for five years, at an aggregate rental of $100,000, and in 8 to 14 West Thirtieth Street the eighth floor to the Lurie Company.

The Charles F. Noyes Company leased for Everett, Heaney & Co. the first three lofts of 546 and 548 Broadway, through to 80 and 88 Crosby Street, containing 52,000 square feet, to Sherr Brothers, manufacturers of ladies' waists. Sherr Brothers have heretofore occupied a part of the premises. This property and four adjoining buildings were sold by the Noyes Company to Everett, Heaney & Co. for the Vincent Astor office, and subsequently the Noyes Company sold for Mr. Heaney all of the properties except this large unit, which is being held for their business. The lease with Sherr Brothers aggregates $100,000.

The H. M. Weil Company leased the entire building at 246 West Thirty-sixth Street for Rose Pollack to A. Travaglio.

Business Property Deals.

The twelve-story building at 54 to 58 Canal Street, southwest corner of Orchard Street, on plot 65.7 by 73 feet, has been purchased by the Carol Securities Corporation from Julius J. Dulcas.

Harold A. Sands, as executor, sold for $35,000 to the S. & G. Gross Company, pawnbrokers, the four-story building, 19.7 by 60, at 486 Eighth Avenue. The buyers are tenants in the building.

The four-story loft building, 25 by 106, at 23 Walker Street has been sold by Joseph Frenkel to Clara Berkman.

The three and four story buildings on plot 143.11 by 103.3 irregular at 311 to 325 East Eleventh Street have been sold by Adelaide E. Watson of Los Angeles to Charles Gurrieri.

Gustavus L. Lawrence sold to Moses Roseman, tenant, the one-story building, 39.6 by 100, at 600 and 602 West 207th Street, adjoining the southeast corner of Broadway.

Buyer of New Centre Building.

The new Centre Building, a seventeen-story structure, at 39 and 41 West Thirty-second Street, sold the preceding day by Max N. Natanson, has been purchased by the Readywear Corporation, Morris Handelsman, President. It is the holding company for the following tenants who occupy space in the building: Greenberg & Greenberg Bellclaire Garment Company, Isador Delloff, Coronet Costume Company, Goldstein Brothers, Talbot Company, Simpson Brothers, Vassar Dress Company, B. Lipshitz and M. Gordon.

The H. M. Weill Company acted as brokers in the sale.

Firm Buys in Reade Street.

The six-story building at 83 Reade Street, southeast corner of Church Street, has been purchased by the Dalton Adding Machine Company from the Chamber-Broadway Corporation. It covers a lot, 25 feet on Reade Street by 50.9 feet on Church Street. Edward J. Hogan was the broker. The firm has occupied offices for several years in the Woolworth Building. The building will be used as the company's headquarters in this city and will also house the foreign sales, the educational, the bank and railroad departments.

Enlarges Bronx Plant.

The iron firm of MacDougall & Potter Company has enlarged its holding by purchasing from Mary Brenneman the block front on the south side of 141st Street, between Rider Avenue and Canal Place, 125 feet on the street by 75 feet on the other two thoroughfares. It adjoins the present plant to the north, a plot 50 by 125 feet running through from Rider Avenue to Canal Place.

Francis T. Perry sold to the Keisler Realty Company the plot 107.3 by 100 at the northwest corner of Longfellow Avenue and 167th Street.

Lively Bidding for Home Sites Near the City Line.

Bryan L. Kennelly sold at public auction in the Vesey Street salesroom yesterday 471 lots at Lowerre Summit Park, Yonkers, N. Y. The sale was held by order of the Gardens Residence Corporation. A plot of about 400 feet on Ritchie Drive, east of Lewis Street, the first parcel offered, was bought by Emil Paulson for $4,173. Other lots on this thoroughfare, east of Lewis Street, brought bids of $500. A bid of $2,200 was recorded for the plot, 89 by 122.2 by irregular, at the southeast corner of Boulder Place and Ritchie Drive, and the property was struck down at this figure. Two large plots on the south side of the drive, 120.8 feet west of Boulder place, were sold for $2,475. Inside lots on the Parkway brought bids of $400, while the southeast corner of Park Street and Linn Avenue went for $1,000.

HOGUET ESTATE SELLS.

Buyer to Alter Four Old Dwellings in Greenwich Village Section.

The Oak Lawn Corporation, composed of members of the Hoguet family, sold to William Mulholland for investment the property at the northwest corner of Seventh Avenue and Thirteenth Street, which the estate had owned for a great many years. It comprises three four-story and basement houses on the avenue, known as 42 to 46 Seventh Avenue, and the three-story and basement dwelling at 203 West Thirteenth Street.

The four houses stand on a combined plot fronting 68 feet on the avenue and 100 feet on Thirteenth Street, and were held at $175,000. The buyer, it is understood, has in mind the altering of the structures into small suites. The Duross Company and Schindler & Liebler negotiated the sale.

Building activities in the United States continued on approximately the September level throughout the month of October on the face of the statistics reported to The American Contractor from 191 cities. These cities show a total valuation of $96,172,999 for building permits in October. For September, 293 cities showed a total of $101,834,729. It is obvious, therefore, that the October total would be very close to the September figure if figures were available from the 12 cities included in the September total but not included in the October total.

The average valuation of permits per city in September was $501,640; the per city average for October is $503,524. The average per city for the first eight months of 1920 was $696,920, the city averages for September and October are, therefore, nearly $200,000 below the eight-month's average.

Brooklyn Realty Market.

The three-story building at 229 Flatbush Avenue has been sold by Harold E. Wittemann to E. F. Stein. The broker was James Watt.

The Berkshire Realty Company, Inc., Joseph G. Haft, President, sold to a client for investment a four-story apartment house, 450 St. John's Place, on a plot 40 by 100 Held at $45,000.

In Coney Island, the plot 40 by 118.8 feet on the west side of Stillwell Avenue, 560 feet north of Neptune Avenue, has been purchased by Anna Pero.

The B. F. Knowles Company sold the three-story dwelling at 91 Wilson Street, on plot 20 by 100, for Jeanette Jones to a Mr. Goldberg.

Sales in New Jersey.

The Payson McL. Merrill Company sold for Mrs. Winthrop D. Smith to Herbert S. Gay, for occupancy, her property known as "Inglenook," situated on Wildwood Avenue in Llewellyn Park, consisting of four acres, with stucco dwelling, garage and stable.

S. S. Walstrum-Gordon & Forman sold at Ridgewood for Mrs. Grace P. Murray the dwelling at 31 West Ridgewood Avenue to Mrs. Bertha M. Robbins; for Gertrude F. Harrison the house at 60 East Ridgewood Avenue to William B. Hill, and for Charles A. Stoneall the house at 67 Union Street to Colin J. Campbell.

Catholic Women's Club Buys.

The four-story dwelling at 641 Lexington Avenue adjoining the northeast corner of Fifty-fourth Street, on a lot 25 by 100 feet, has been purchased by the Catholic Young Women's Club from Edward E. Arnold. The buyers are the present tenants.

Solve the Housing Problem

The Long Island City lots which I am to sell next Saturday are the best Speculative, Business and Home-Building Lots in Greater New York to-day.

Arrangements have been made with a prominent loaning institution to give fair consideration for loans at 6% on their usual terms of repayment. The amount of the loan not to exceed 50% of the loaning institution's appraised value of land and building on such lots and plan of buildings as may be approved by them, provided such applications for loans are made within 60 days from date of sale.

MEMPHIS LEADS ALL IN HOMICIDE CASES

Tennessee City Has Held Nation's Record for Killings for Last Ten Years.

NEW YORK 11 TIMES AS SAFE

Dr. Hoffman Finds United States Far Behind Other Countries in Preventing Murders.

Memphis, Tenn., still holds the homicide record of the United States, according to the records presented in The Spectator by Dr. Frederick L. Hoffman. During the last ten years Memphis has led all other cities of the country in illegal killings.

Persons died by murder and manslaughter in Memphis in 1919 at the rate of 55.9 per 100,000. The second highest rate of mortality from these causes was in Savannah, Ga., where the rate was 42.

Human life, however, is a good deal safer at Memphis than it used to be. The homicide rate from 1909 to 1913 was 73.3, nearly double that of any other city. Since that time Memphis has curbed its homicidal tendency so far as to show a greater reduction in percentage of illegal violent deaths than any other city.

A person is, according to this record, eleven times safer in New York City from premeditated murder, lynching, the unwritten law and other forms of homicide than he is in Memphis. New York is the safest of the large cities. But the safest of all cities in the United States, according to this table, is Milwaukee, Wis., where homicides occur at the rate of 2.5 per 100,000 per year. The next safest place is Dayton, Ohio, with a rate of 2.7.

Illegal killings in the cities studied throughout the United States averaged 9.1 per 100,000 last year, the highest rate on record, except in 1916 and 1917, when it touched 9.2. This fell to 8.5 in 1918 and jumped to 9.1 in 1919. Dr. Hoffman comments on the increase in homicide during the period of wartime prohibition.

Dr. Hoffman's tables show that the homicide rate in the cities was 5.1 in 1900 and has nearly doubled in twenty years, which he considers a grave condition. This country is far behind most other civilized countries in preventing homicide and punishing it. Dr. Hoffman blames the press for not stirring up the country more over the increase of murder and lesser degrees of intentional killing.

"The tables are based on Federal statistics," Dr. Hoffman says. "They are confirmed by a careful reading of the press accounts of murder cases during the last two years.'

ATTACK PRAGUE GERMANS.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, Nov. 17.—Great indignation has been caused by anti-German disorders in Prague, where a Czech mob and legionairies, incited by the harangues of politicians, Deputies and Senators, attacked German buildings and institutions, taking possession of the German theatre, the German students' kitchen, the German university and two German newspapers, the Bohemia and the Praguer Tageblatt, stopping work, smashing the printing presses, ruining furniture and assailing German people in the streets. The riots were caused by German protests against the destruction in numerous towns of monuments to the Emperor Joseph II., who in the eighteenth century liberated the Serfs of Austria. President Masaryk was powerless to stop the disorders, which serve still further to embitter the two races inhabiting Bohemia.

70,552 Americans Gassed in War.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—More than 31 per cent. of all American soldiers admitted to hospitals overseas during the World War were gassed, according to a statement made public today by the Chemical Warfare Service. Excluding marines and sailors, the total of American soldiers gassed was 70,552, of whom 1,221 died and 2,853, or 4.04 per cent., were discharged as having suffered some disability from gassing.

GAS MAKERS DEFEND ADVANCE IN RATES

CITE RISE IN COAL PRICES

Charge Producers Are Forcing Them to Pay "Spot" Rates—Ask Aid by Congress.

"A veiled ultimatum," was the way some of the 1,000 delegates gathered at the Hotel Pennsylvania yesterday, at the annual convention of the American Gas Association, characterized the speech made on Tuesday by R. L. Welsh, General Secretary of the American Petroleum Institute, in which he laid the blame for gas oil prices on the growth of the automobile industry, and told the gas men they would have to get their gas oil supplies in the open competitive market. This feeling of resentment among the gas men was voiced by P. H. Gadsden, Chairman of the emergency committee of the association, and later the convention issued a statement, which in part follows:

"Before the war we bought gas oil for about 4 cents a gallon. Today we are paying around 14 cents. That item alone makes an added cost of from 35 to 40 cents per cubic thousand feet of gas.

"Coal has doubled or trebled in price, according to the locality. Right now we cannot get, even at present tremendously high prices, enough coal to supply our daily needs and throughout the industry there is only 30 per cent. reserve supply of coal and many companies are digging into that reserve for immediate needs."

Mr. Gadsen, in presenting the report of his committee, said that the gas business, so essential to domestic economy, is being run at the pleasure of the oil men. Coal men are forcing gas manufacturers into the "spot" market, he maintained, where they have to pay increases of 200 per cent. while the existing contracts go unfilled. In self-defense, he added, gas manufacturers are developing a substitute for gas oil.

The Chairman pointed out that oil and coal producers are but a step removed from public utilities, and as such are eligible to Federal control. He added that United States Senators Calder and Edge of the Senate Committee on Production and Reconstruction had been appealed to to bring the existing crisis before Congress at the coming session.

Sloane Succeeds W. D. Howells.

The American Academy of Arts and Letters, at its annual meeting yesterday, elected William Mulligan Sloane, historian and the academy's ex-Chancellor, President to succeed the late William Dean Howells. Hamlin Garland was made temporary Secretary to replace Robert Underwood Johnson, now Ambassador to Italy, and Thomas J. Hastings were elected Treasurer.

Of four new members elected yesterday, two, Lorado Taft, a sculptor, and Booth Tarkington, were the first men from the Middle West thus honored. The Eastern members admitted were Childe Hassam of Massachusetts and David Jayne Hill of New York.
